Pat -
 It's been a good year - things
 Halloween Party - Mrs.
 Hick's pencil -
 hope you've enjoyed lots of luck in the future

Pat -
 To a real doll and an all around good friend. I guess
 when you come down to it,
 4 years can pass pretty fast.
 I really don't know how this joint is going to hold up with out you around half the day. I sure have to thank you for the ~~lives~~ covers, they were excellent, though I think HOWE would be better. If we ever need new ones, I'll count on you - OK? You deserve the best of everything in your future, + you'll get it.
 Love + Luck + all that good stuff!

Love
 "66" - best

To Dear Pat -
 It's really been wonderful knowing you! (+note! but true) With your Personality & ideas you'll really go far + keep life "lopping around" your Studio cards + take care of Maybe - Someday - when we're rich we can start a shop! >
 Good Luck forever to someone who really deserves it!
 Maria

Pat,
 To a real sweet girl in the Band. Have fun at Butler and maybe I will see you there next year. Good luck in everything you do.
 Marie

Go Pet.

Go the nicest, sweetest idiot (oops I mean girl) that I have ever known and also my best friend! What else can I say to you? Don't worry, we shall take care of the school and especially the band for you next year, but it won't be the same without you. You really must come back and visit once a week! Have fun going to Butler next year. Best of luck in everything you do.

God Bless You

Love you always

P.S. May I join your marching band?

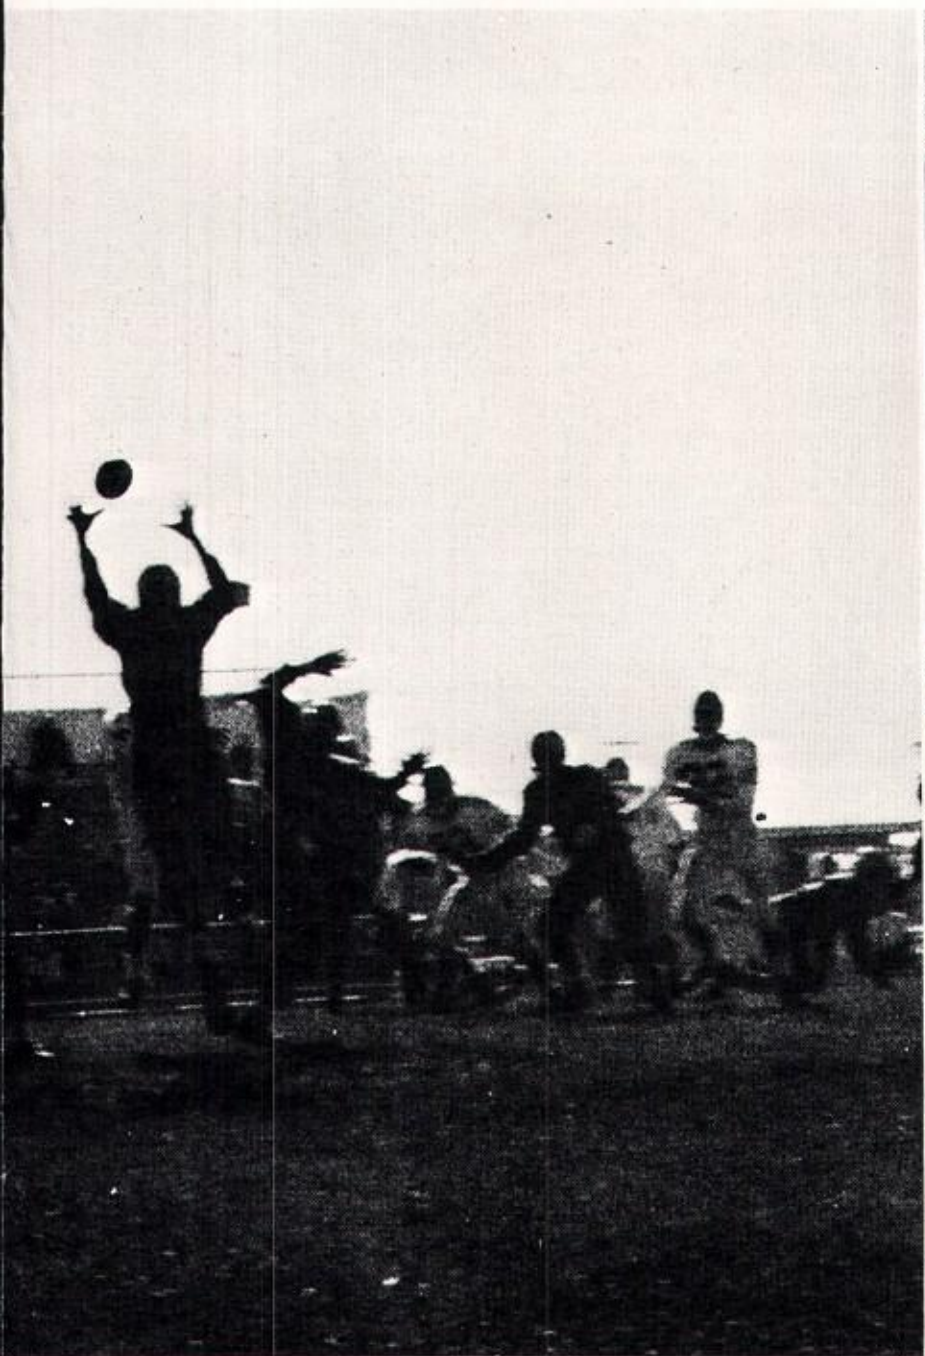

1964 HILLTOPPER

Thomas Carr Howe High School
Indianapolis, Indiana

This is Howe High School, its Scholarship,

Partnership, Sportsmanship, Friendship . . .

When Howeites returned this year to start the fall semester, they were greeted by the attractive new addition, started in 1962, and now ready for use. Pupils and teachers alike welcomed the added conveniences. They adjusted quickly to the extra minute between classes and the badly-needed, bigger and better cafeteria. Scholarship played an important part in their lives, and they participated in clubs, musical organizations, and extra-curricular activities. Everyone applauded the Hornet athletic teams and supported the Booster Club and pep rallies in sportsmanship. At dances and the PRR, during ROTC Inspections, with sports and intramurals, and in after-school activities, the school became good friends throughout the year.

Howe mourns with the world the tragic death of

John Fitzgerald Kennedy, President of the United States

Mr. Thomas Stirling addressed the student Thanksgiving assembly on Wednesday, November 27, 1963. Pupils, recently shocked by the slaying of President John F. Kennedy, were challenged as they heard their principal say,

"America looked into a mirror last Friday. It was a large mirror, a magnifying mirror. America cast a beautiful image. But suddenly that mirror was cracked and splintered by an assassin's bullet. Some parts of the broken mirror distorted and darkened America's image.

"It was a dreary fall day in the North—it was foggy in Europe and dark in the Orient, but the sun was shining brightly in Dallas before that fatal shot. Then for a period of time the shattered glass reflected only chaos, then gloom—dark penetrating gloom.

"The whole world looked over our shoulder and interpreted what it saw according to the angle from which it was peering and the reflecting image which it sought. Our image was tarnished.

"In Europe the mirror reflected a saddened and momentarily bewildered giant, a giant that could be depended upon to do the right. Sympathy and renewed friendship were evidenced from the western powers. The image came true from the clear part of the mirror, while other parts of the world took varying views from the tarnished part.

"To us at Howe the things that had seemed so important only a few minutes before seemed suddenly trivial or lost completely in the shadow of an overwhelming tragedy. The PRR, the ball games, the banquet, the wrestling match dwindled to nothing in the enormity of the moment.

"Life must resume now—and the things that are dear to the life of a high school pupil must again be important to him. But they must still be held in their proper perspective. The PRR, the banquet, the basketball games, the wrestling matches are important to you as they should be.

"But we must balance the shame of an assassination with the pride of a nation that stopped for a dignified period of humbleness to regroup its forces for right.

"We must balance the sorrow of a nation and the sorrow of the Kennedy family with pride in the little girl who adjusted her white gloves as she stepped up to the flag-draped coffin of her slain father, in little John-John, who saluted at the procession, and especially in the demeanor of the wife and mother who bore the grief of a nation in such magnificent dignity.

"We must balance the sorrow of losing a President with thankfulness that ours is a country governed by laws and not by men and that the new President will receive all of the respect and co-operation afforded the departed.

"Above all we must be thankful that we live in a nation that can and will rise above the present sadness, that we have homes dedicated to the rearing of upright children, that we have schools that believe in ideals as well as knowledge, that we have churches and synagogues teaching the values that transcend man, and that we have been so magnificently endowed by the giver of all gifts.

"All of the ingredients for repair are here. We can and will repair that mirror until the beautiful image of America is again reflected to the world."

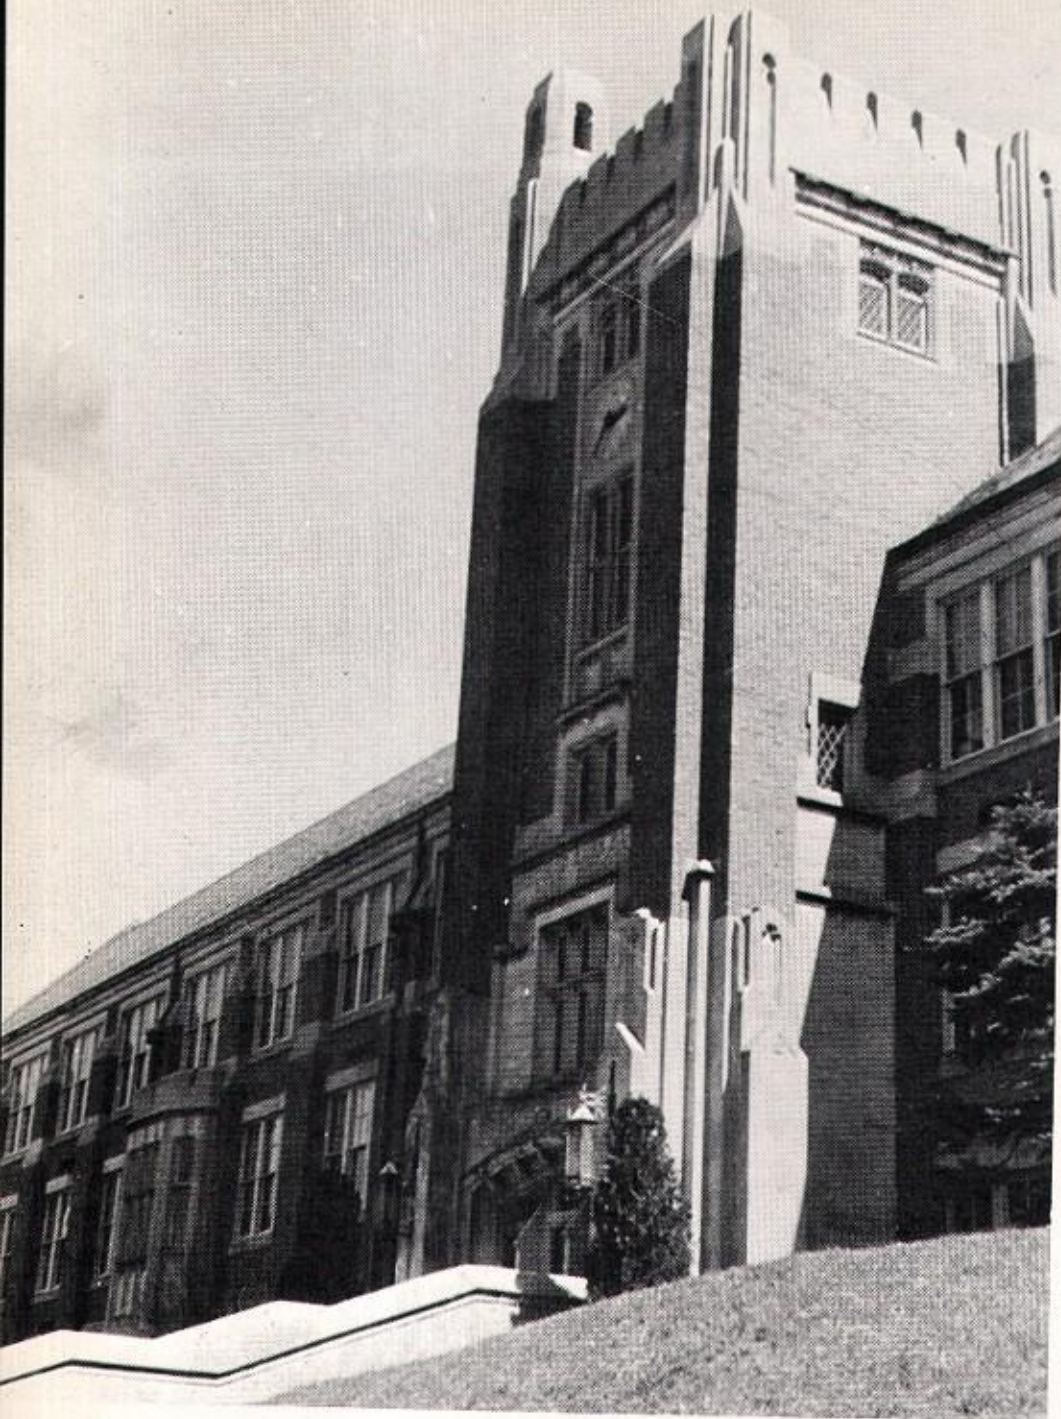

Once standing in the shadow of the profile of President John F. Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson now has the great responsibility thrust upon him as President of the United States.

For years the hallmark of the Howe campus, where the eye is immediately drawn has been the tower. The clock is a familiar sight to Irvington residents, and its tower rises above the skyline of eastern Indianapolis.

Howeites look forward

When the new addition was started, it wasn't much to look at. But from this maze of construction came the needed classrooms for Howeites.

Thomas Carr Howe was a president of Butler University when Butler was located in Irvington. Before becoming president, he was a professor of language. He was a very prominent businessman interested in education. For this reason, our school is named Thomas Carr Howe High School.

On May 20, 1937, the first spade of earth was turned to start the construction of Howe High School by the president of the Irvington Union of Clubs. The cornerstone was laid in November with Superintendent of Schools DeWitt S. Morgan presiding, and our school was dedicated on September 29, 1938.

Howe's doors were opened in September, 1938, to 549 students comprising a freshman and a sophomore class. On November 29, 1940, a new lunchroom and gym were dedicated. A wing consisting of English, math, social studies, shop, and music rooms became a part of Thomas Carr Howe High School in 1954.

During the spring of 1962, the Board of School Commissioners voted to add a new wing containing an auditorium, science labs, lecture rooms, and new cafeteria. Now, our new wing is a reality and has added a lot to the beauty of the school.

As the spring semester drew to a close, there were still many finishing touches to be completed before Howe students returned this fall. Temporary plank ramps had to be replaced by cement steps and walkways, power lines had to be permanently laid, and a general cleaning up was necessary on the grounds.

to new life, as the new addition is completed

Looking across the campus from the West, students may see the tower, middle wing, and the new cafeteria-auditorium-science department wing. Approximately twenty-two hundred students and teachers cross the front campus everyday on their way to classes.

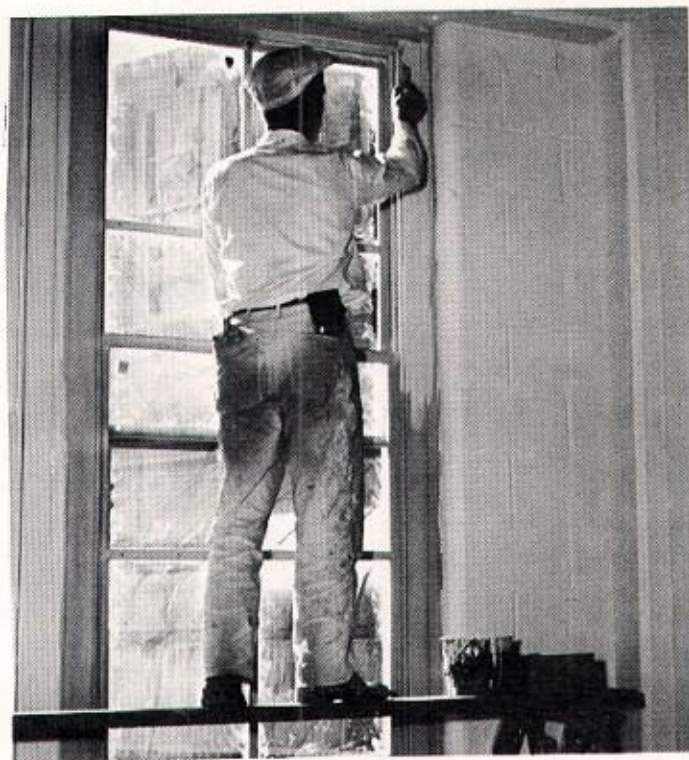

This year was the first year to use the brand new wing which contains the auditorium, cafeteria and some really nice science and lecture rooms.

The new cafeteria was so spacious that we no longer needed the third hour lunch, much to the relief of many students. Our dances are now held in the cafeteria because of the extra space. There is room for a band and a good place to serve refreshments. The patio is a good place to dance when the weather permits.

The stage of the new auditorium is more than four times the size of the old one. A narrow spiral staircase goes to the left of the stage where the scenery and curtains are worked.

The brand new curtains cost approximately twenty thousand dollars. The stage crew had a large job unraveling the mystery of the ropes and switches. Although the auditorium is too small to hold all-school assemblies, it is such a great improvement that no one minds that inconvenience.

Preparing the new wing for student use, a painter has climbed up on his ladder to cover the walls. Crews of painters, electricians, and carpenters worked even after school had started in September on the new plant.

In their new "home" at last, students, teachers and parents enjoy the facilities of a modern school. Through the halls, built in 1938, 1940, 1954 and 1963 walk many friends who, hurrying to class, wave a friendly "hi!"

After the summer came September and school

Senior varsity football player Bud Bayne displays a look of pure fear at being confronted by an opposing gridman. Sports teach players sportsmanship and discipline, as Bud and his teammates learn each afternoon at practice.

Between June 5 and September 5 many Howe students accomplished many things. Some worked to earn money, others went to summer journalism institutes including Michigan State University, and Indiana University. Several outstanding students attended Indiana University for Girls' and Boys' State. Classes were held at John Herron Art Institute for those having received art scholarships.

Several Howe juniors received foreign language grants and traveled to France to spend the summer living with a French family. While in France they went to summer school to perfect their language, and of course do a lot of sight-seeing.

Trips to the Smokey Mountains, Bermuda, Niagara Falls, California, and Florida were enjoyed by many vacationing Howe students.

Daily trips were made to the Miramar and Eastside YMCA for swimming, sunning or getting a coke. Crash diets proved unsuccessful to many hopeful Howeites.

Some Howe students went to various schools around the city to take courses they couldn't fit into their fall schedules.

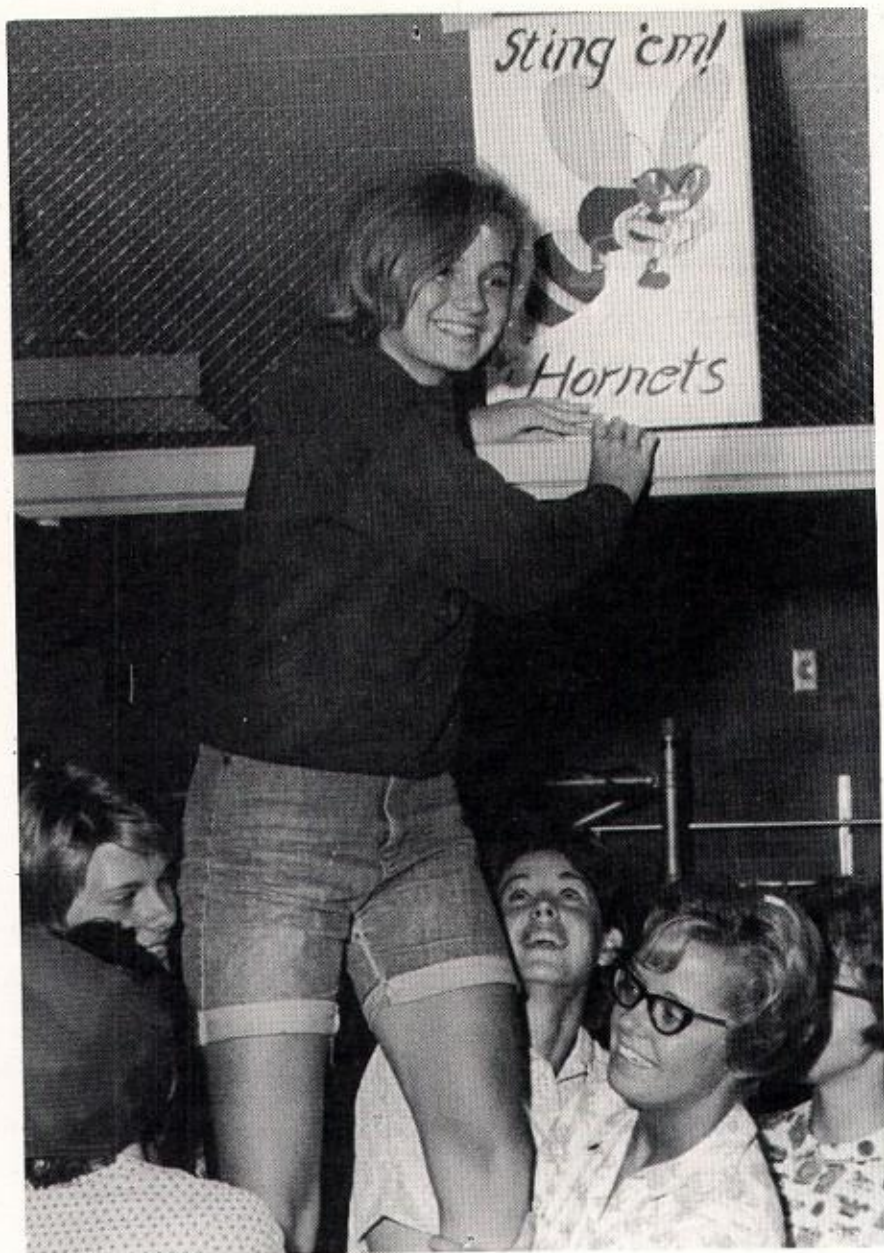

But for nearly all, September 5 was a welcomed day.

Mrs. Mildred Loew, Howe Dean of Girls, displays the traditional Howe courtesy by giving two freshman girls an explanation to the typical "freshie" questions. Howe freshmen are given an afternoon free of upperclassmen to make orientation easier.

Beaming the happiness that goes with the honor, Susie Stillabower is crowned Fall Sports Queen at the Hornet Homecoming by Principal Thomas Sterling.

The days of anticipation over, a king candidate applauds his "adversary," the winner. Brown Boy Nick VonStaden is crowned as Jon Reynolds, part of the royalty, smiles his genuine approval.

Cheerleaders and pep block officers laughingly lift high Dianna Crossland, who tapes up a poster above an exit. School spirit is a very big part of student life.

Howe mirrors emotions of year's successes

Pretty girls in formals and corsages and boys in suits and ties dance to the music of a swinging band. Dances are a popular part of Howe school life.

When school re-convened in September, students and teachers alike returned to the school full of vitality for the coming year. Teachers and upperclassmen got re-acquainted with each other, and after the first few days, the new freshmen became acquainted with the school and teachers, and made many new friends. They were invited to join one or more of the school-sponsored clubs so much a part of school life. Assemblies, pep rallies, sports events and after-game parties added to the life of every student. No one could forget meeting the team's bus after the Warren Central football victory, or swaying to the "Pastels" Band at the Brown and Gold. After classes, students headed for Hubbard's to get a coke, or watched the "Early Show" on TV. Slaving publications workers hurried to meet deadlines, and majorettes practiced with the band many times before presenting their shows at football and basketball games. Teachers got together during October to present a faculty pep session before the November 1 Washington game, though many were saddened by the Indianapolis Coliseum explosion which killed seventy persons at the Ice Show the night before.

All the events of the two semesters combined to make it successful. Students studied, got their grades, and enjoyed the year with the teachers, administration and people they'd come to know so well during the year.

Howe girls always can find new and different styles with which to shod themselves. Some were the ever-popular flats, tennis shoes, saddles, boots and loafers. Other styles were knee-high and above-the-knee boots. Differing textures of materials were the order as suede, colored patents and grained leathers enjoyed the fashion spotlight. The feet pictured belong to Lois Lynch, Paula Stanifer, Susie Hession, Irene Cottom and Betty Leach.

Howeites enjoy popular fads, remember traditions,

Girls' hairdos lost their rats this year, boys noticed thankfully. Now those males sitting behind girls do not have so much trouble seeing around the coifs. The girls began to dress with the "collegiate look," as they wore V-neck sweaters, flats or loafers, and carried little purses. Some pinned their hair back with a barrette or a colorful headband. Corduroy dresses and blazers featured "come-backs," as did saddle oxfords. In spare time, girls learned to knit, rode bikes to keep their figures, or went ice-skating.

Who did girls meet at the skating rink? They met their style-conscious friends, the boys. Men dressed in loafers that had to have smooth sides, tennis sweaters and un-pegged pants. Clothes for both boys and girls became more sensible, considering past years, in 1964.

With the opening of Clowes Memorial Hall at Butler University, teens began attending the Symphony and Ballet, as well as shows by Bob Hope, Roger Williams and Eileen Farrell. Barbara Streisand and the Chad Mitchell Trio were featured at other showplaces in Indianapolis during the year.

Part of the space age, Howeites kept up with the times as they adopted modern fads of the day.

Betty Cronau, Martha Connor, Janie Collins, Terri Catron and Katherine Bundy display the latest in cuts and styles of hairdos. Girls spend many sleepless nights to create a stylish appearance the next day.

Senior Johnny Roessner spends his afternoons in fall and spring practicing his golf form at Pleasant Run Golf Club. Golfing, along with bike-riding and skating, became a popular fad with Howeites this year.

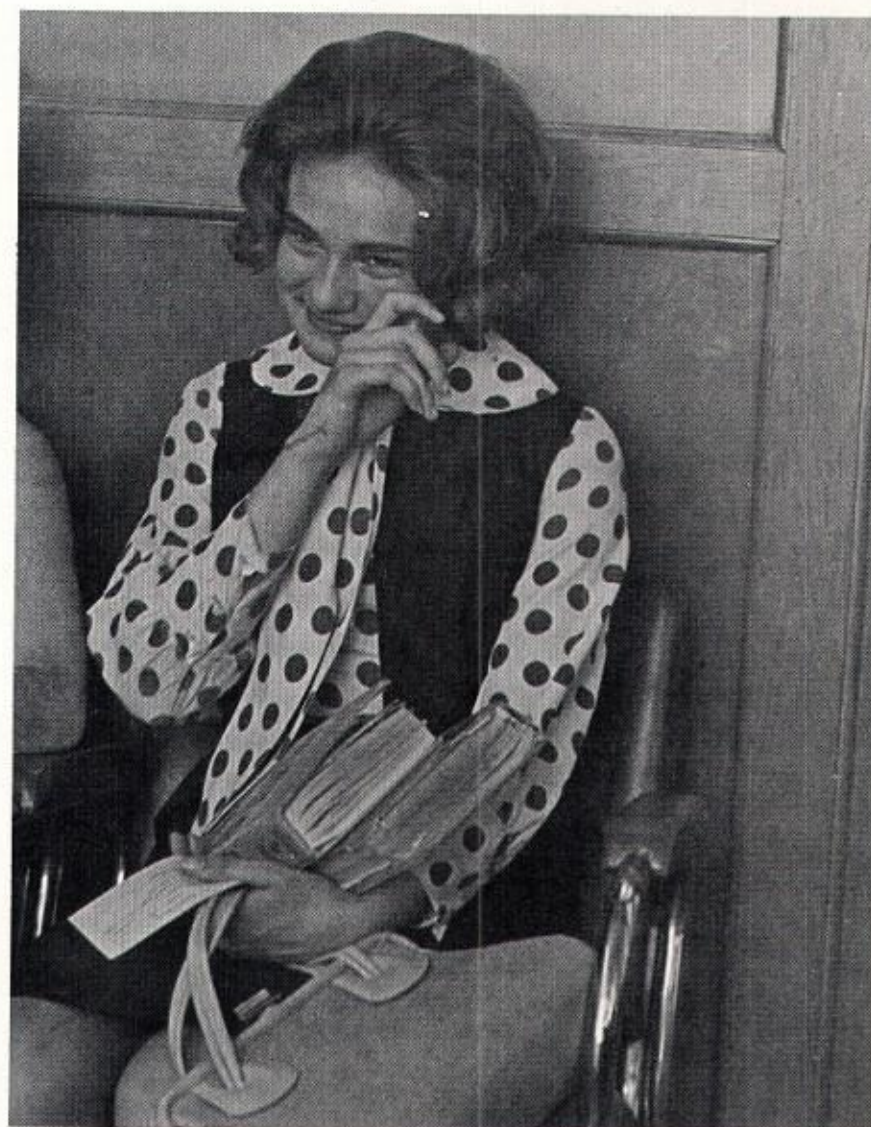

Performing for the Violet Queen are Maypole dancers from advanced phys ed classes. Queen Dianna Crossland and her court, Marcia Earley, Dana Kovac, Donna Prell and Sue Scott enjoyed the festivities.

Probably the most well-established tradition at Howe is the May Pageant of Achievement. The legend which began the pageants says that before Howe was built on Violet Hill, a wise queen ruled over the land. Now, each spring, she returns to her domain, where the school now is, to learn of the school's progress during the year.

On May 15, 1963 Dianna Crossland, the third Crossland sister to be elected Violet Queen, returned with her court to Howe High School. She was greeted by Principal Stirling, the president of the Student Council, Dan Breckenridge, and Mike Nation, who played the court philosopher. Girls' phys ed classes, individual tumblers, the Choir, and the Girls' Octet performed for the Queen.

After she was satisfied that the students will continue to achieve as they have in the past, the Violet Queen retired until this spring.

especially May Pageant

Dianna Crossland has just been told that she is to reign as Violet Queen over the festivities of the annual May Pageant. Dianna, a senior, was nominated by members of her class and elected by the entire student body.

Playing her role as Howe's Violet Queen, Dianna Crossland returns to Violet Hill as she approaches the Tower.

Each spring, the school recognizes those students who have been outstanding in citizenship and scholarship. The ceremony is called Honors Day. Principal Thomas Stirling congratulated each nominee for an award.

At Howe, outstanding students are honored throughout the year, and are respected as much as queens or lettermen, for they are "royalty" of a very important species.

Five seniors last summer attended the Hoosier Girls' and Boys' State Institutes at Indiana University. Becky Fahrback and Joyce Burris went to IU in June, and Steve Cox, John Cook and Ken Wolff attended Boys' State. All were sponsored by American Legion Posts, and all studied government and law. Both institutes had mock elections similar to that of the Indiana State Government.

Membership in Quill and Scroll, an international honor society for high school journalists, is the goal of members of the TOWER and HILLTOPPER staffs and the News Bureau. In addition to the members taken into the society during the past school year, in December, sixteen new initiates were inducted in pre-Christmas ceremonies. They are Joyce Burris, Terri Catron, Barbara Clark, Rose Cooney, Sylvia Fischbach, Lloyd Shaffer, Sharon Frech, Alice French, Bonnie Graham, Melitta Hanske, Carolyn Keetary, Christine Knecht, Betsy Krinhop, Sheila McBurnie, Jan Pirtle and Penny Prince.

At the Honors Day ceremonies in May, 1963, two then-juniors were selected to represent the school as American Legion Good Citizens. Elizabeth Smith and Jim Pettee, the good citizens, led the 1963 graduating class at Vespers.

Dana Kovac, a senior, was chosen by the Altrusa service club as Altrusa Good Citizen, while Linda Elder, also a senior, is the DAR Good Citizen. The American Legion sophomore award went to Craig Carey, for outstanding scholarship and service.

By virtue of various honors programs, the entire school recognized its outstanding students.

At Howe, students reap the rewards of special talents and hard work every day. In various fields of endeavor, awards and prizes are given.

Journalism students work to become editors of their publications. TOWER and HILLTOPPER staffers brought home awards from scholastic press associations. The journalism section also had part in publishing and editing PEN POINTS, the first student-edited literary magazine in Howe's history. The editor was Jean Tilford; English teachers served as advisors.

In art, several students received scholarships to John Herron Art Institute classes or lecture series. Phyllis Jones won the Indianapolis Post Office poster contest with a "mail early for Christmas" theme. Two seniors, one vocalist and an instrumentalist, were chosen to receive the Irvington Music Study Club awards which were given at the spring concerts. The Betty Crocker Scholarship was given to the girl who showed the most promise in the field of home economics.

Three seniors and a junior, Eric Briggs, John Cook, Jean Tilford and Don Coffin were quizzed in competition with teams from other schools on the WLW-I television program "Expedition to Knowledge." The team's coach was Miss Ellen O'Drain, and captain was Eric Briggs.

The biggest honor for dramatics students is membership in the National Thespian Society. Accumulation of ten points, one hundred hours of work, makes a student eligible to become a Thespian. Actors, stage workers, writers and production workers may belong to the society, sponsored by Mr. Bruce Beck.

Jean Tilford, student editor of PEN POINTS, Howe's literary magazine, glances over a copy of the latest issue. English teachers are the faculty advisors for the publication, which publishes work by students of English composition.

QUIZ TEAM—(STANDING) Dave Coffin and Lee VanCamp, alternates; (SEATED) Eric Briggs, Jean Tilford, John Cook and Don Coffin.

National Merit Scholarship semi-finalists Jean Tilford and Greg Henderson scored high on the qualifying test. When juniors, Jean and Greg were notified of their high ranking and began to study for competition for finalist ratings.

Probably the greatest honor that is given at Howe is membership in the school's chapter of National Honor Society. Only the upper ten per cent of the juniors and fifteen per cent of the Senior Class can be eligible for candidacy. Initiates are judged on the qualities which are the ideals of the society: character, leadership, scholarship and service.

Miss Maryon Welch is sponsor of NHS. Officers are John Hicks, president; Ken Wolff, vice-president and Jennie Bradley, who is the society's secretary. They had in charge the society's organization, and helped induct new members at the December Installation. At Installation, Principal Thomas Stirling gave the main address, and four seniors read the scrolls describing the society's ideals. They were Carolyn Keetay, Sheryl Pickett, Ward Poulos and Ken Wolff.

On the sweaters, shirts, jackets or blouses of society members, the keystone-shaped pin may be seen. The pin pictures a torch, the symbol of knowledge; and to recognize knowledge is the purpose of the society.

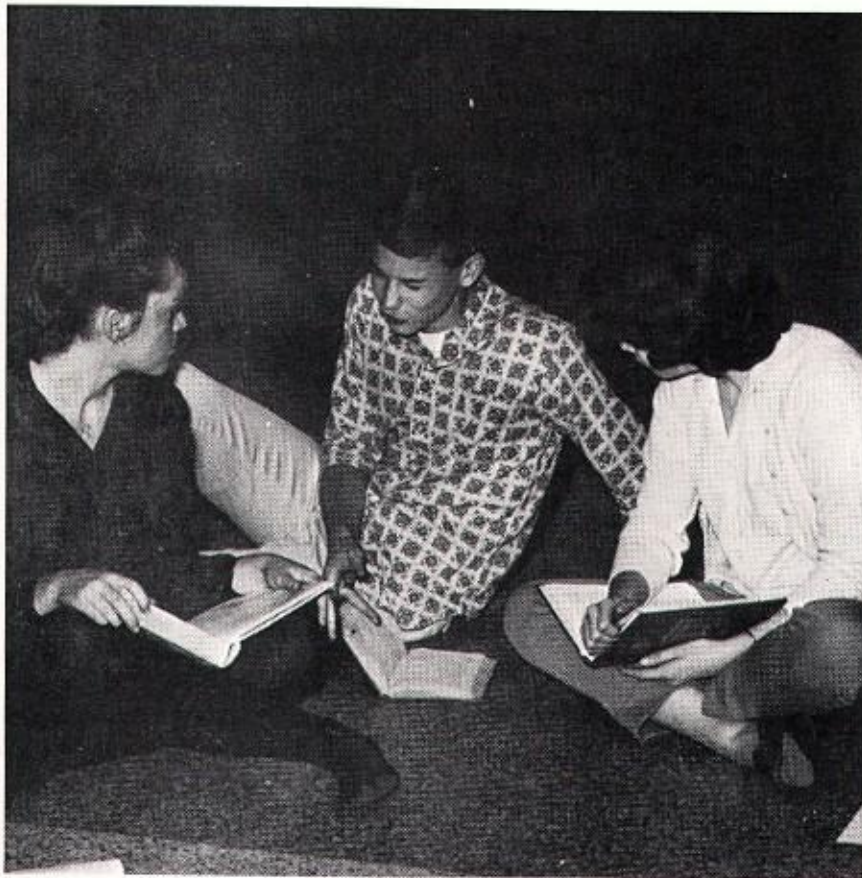

Ken Wolff, Jennifer Bradley, and John Hicks, officers of the National Honor Society, stand as Miss Welch announces new incoming members at annual Honor Society "tap" Assembly.

While many students can finish most of their homework during study halls, some must get together for homework sessions. Here, Myra Bewley takes time out from her study of US History to explain a part of the required biology course she took last year to Mark Gerzon and Anita Wood.

At the beginning of each day, students and teachers alike dawdled outside classrooms after the five-minute warning bell until just time to rush in to get organized before class starts at 8:15. While there was laughter and fun and good times, Howeites realized the serious business of study and making grades.

At 3:15 many students attended school club meetings, and boys worked out for sports. Teachers may sponsor these activities. Some students and a few teachers had after-school part-time jobs. But all took home textbooks and study materials. Pupils did their lessons and homework, and teachers made the inevitable lesson plans which are the heart of the school, academically.

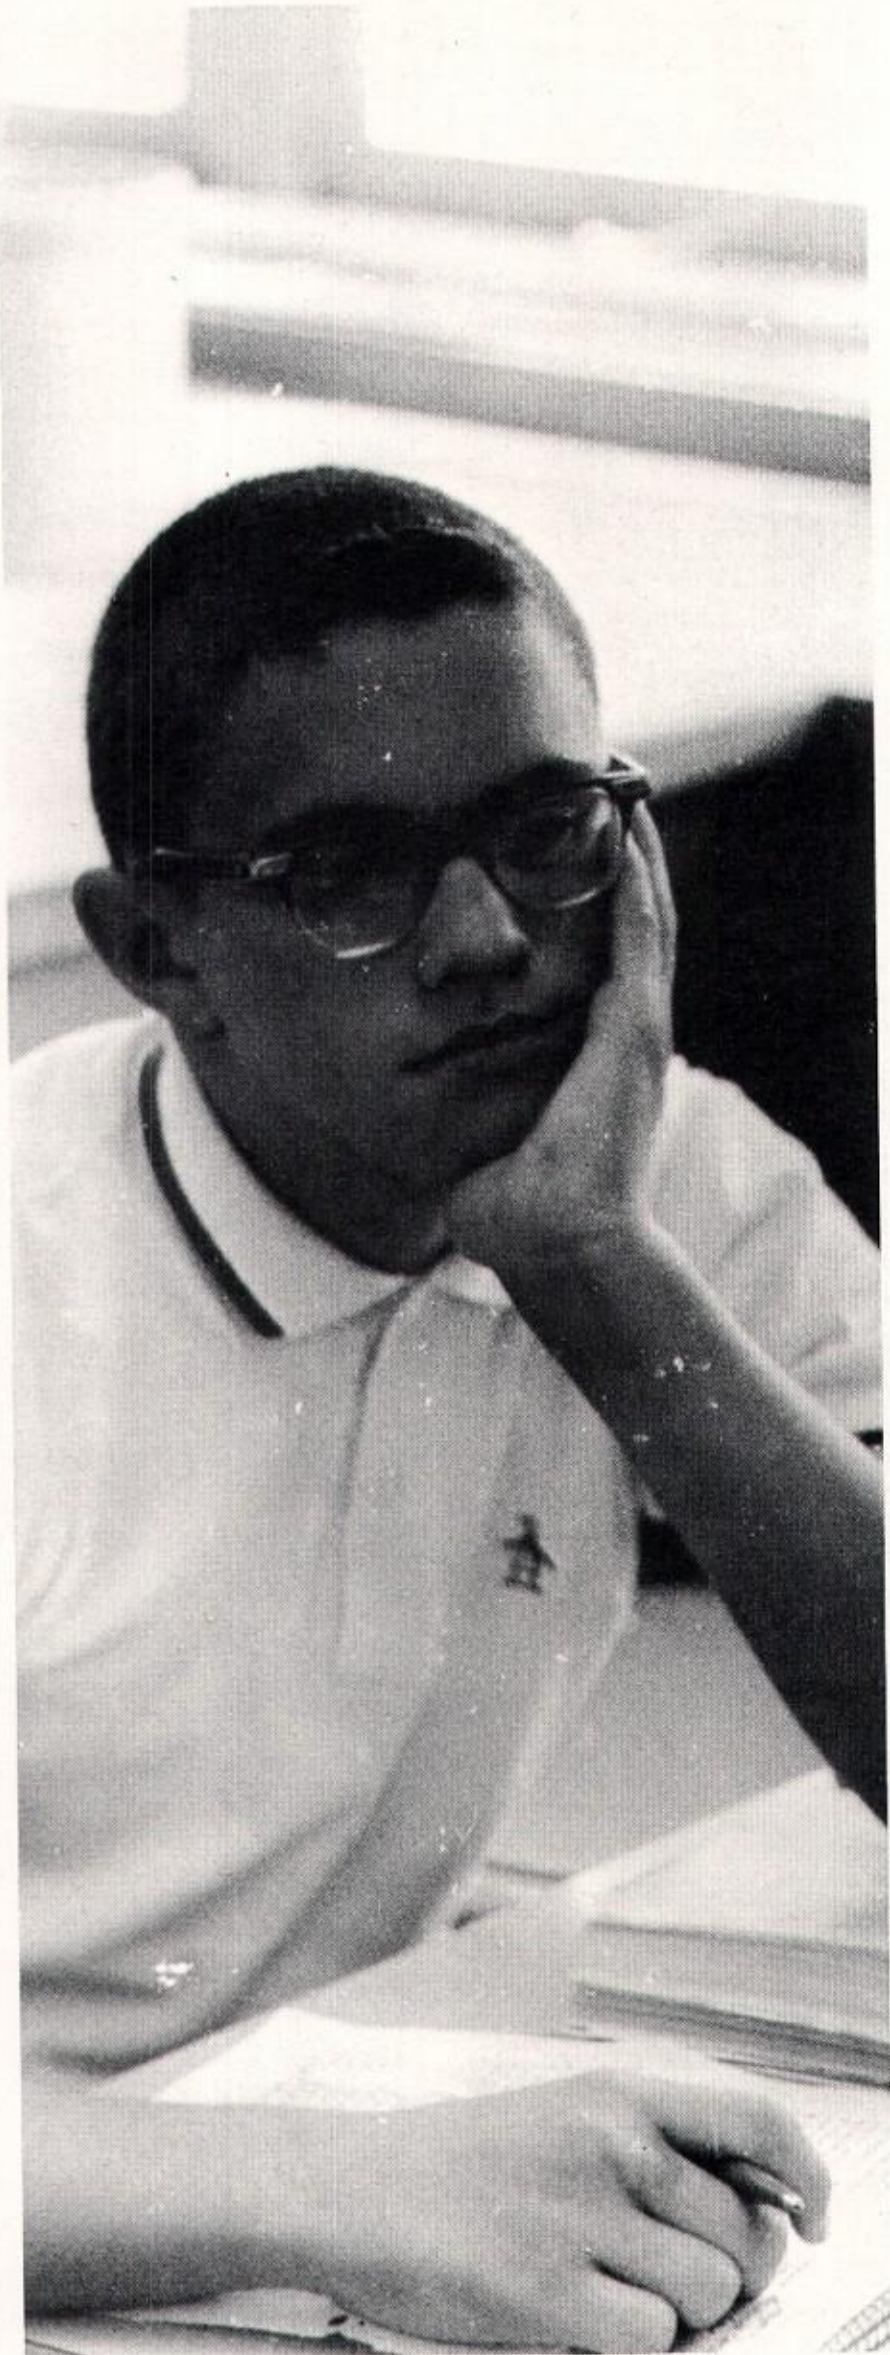

At Howe, there are many sports, inter- and intramural. The school also sponsors many extra-curricular clubs and activities. The reason students and teachers and the school are here, however, is for the learning process.

The reason we're here: scholarship and academics

A familiar scene in many classes is that of students watching a movie which supplements textbook material. Motion pictures, tape recordings and mechanical labs are a big part of classroom life in all departments of the school.

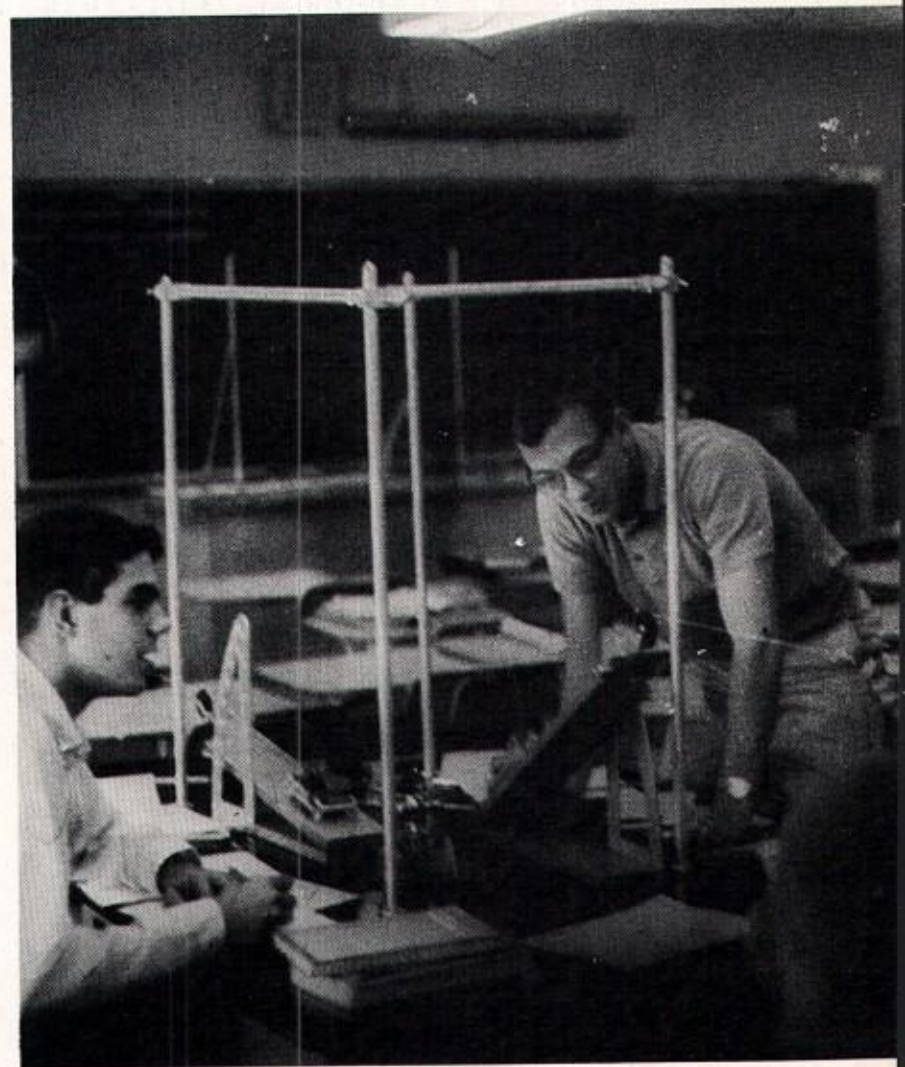

Instructing a class before sending the students to lab, Mr. Richard Dowell stands at the front table. New science laboratories, where Mr. Dowell may usually be found, contain the most modern equipment for student and teacher use.

This sight is one that is seen often: Chuck Merriman ponders over a difficult Chemistry II assignment. As spring comes, and windows are opened, thoughts stray and after all, a boy's mind will wander . . .

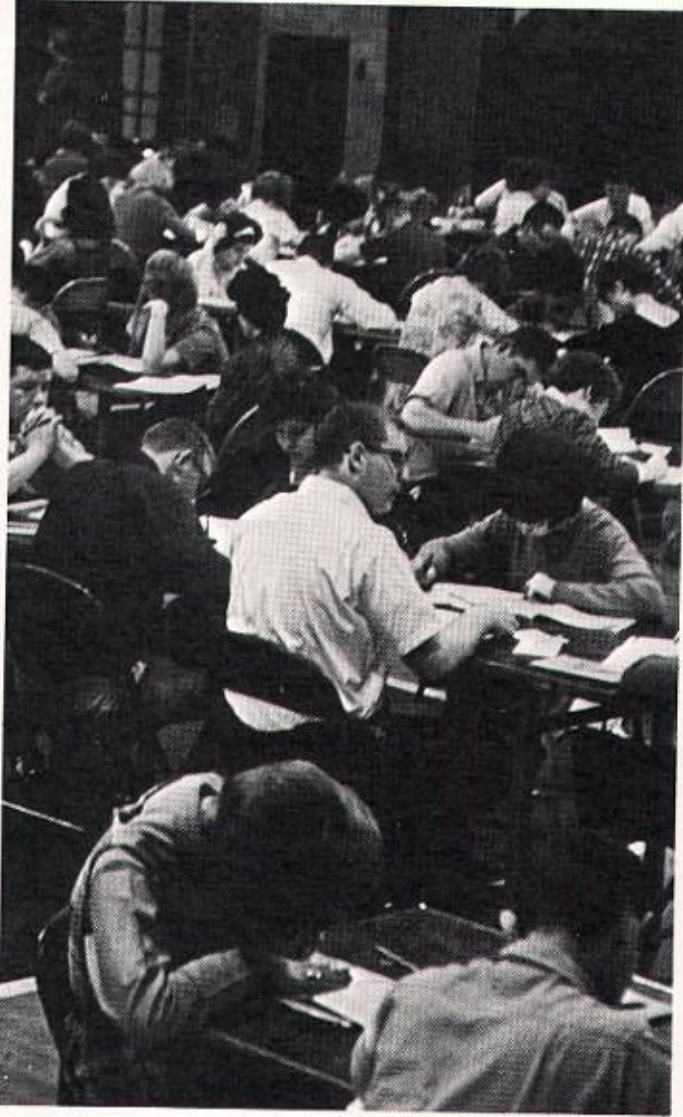

Extra-curricular clubs and athletics, the friendships that are made, all are important in the high school career. But the primary aim of all Howe students is to graduate eventually, after four years of secondary school study, into a job, a home of their own or a college campus. Howe administrators realize this, and have done much to arrange student life to be conducive to academic work. Each pupil is assigned to at least one daily study hall. A semester's subject load may be only five credits, but no less than four credits. Some exceptional students receive permission to take five and a half or six credits in rare cases.

In lecture, discussion or lab courses, Howeites learn about the world they live in so that they can prepare for the world of tomorrow.

In physics lab, Dave Fontaine, Jim Pettee and Ken Wolff make their calculations and record data which will help them in their study. Seniors take physics if they intend to follow up their high school education in college.

English, foreign language

During the spring semester, students of English 4 and 5 are required to take the all-day Iowa Test of Educational Development (ITED.) Last spring, as shown, sophomores were seated alphabetically in the gym. This year, test-takers were situated in Rooms 17, 69 and 169.

Mr. Bruce Beck, Howe English teacher, explains grammar errors to his English 7 class. College-bound students find advanced English a must for success, and they remember Mr. Beck's code, "cs" for compound sentence, "sf" for sentence fragment and "ros" for run-on sentence.

The knowledge of the English language is the basis for all other study, and so Howe High School has in operation sixteen departmental courses of study of English.

English 1 through 6 is required for graduation. For college-bound seniors, English 7 and 8 proved helpful. English 7 is composition and a final grammar review, and English 8 is a course in English literature. Each grade of English has a "g" section for exceptionally gifted pupils. The "g" section in English 5 is 5j, a basic journalism course.

Required for graduation is a nine-week course in reading lab or developmental reading. Mr. Kenneth Long and Mr. Jack Weaver, who taught the classes, often used movies and reading machines in their instruction. Most of the students enrolled were freshmen.

The school's librarians had in charge a class in library practice. Those enrolled in the class served as student librarians. The complete course takes four semesters.

Mr. Steven Briggs taught Speech 1A and 2A which is exploring prepared and extemporaneous speaking, oral reading and debate.

Speech can be fun as well as profitable. Allan Wilkins adds humor to his debate by portraying Nikita Krushchev with shoe in hand. Elaine Bradley can't control a giggle of delight.

bring facility in grammar, writing and speaking

Foreign Language students concentrate to grasp all the information they can during class. Their teacher gives all their instructions in the language and the students must understand.

Howe's Foreign Language Department realizes the importance of international communication and teaches the tools which bridge the gaps between nations. At the same time, the language classes help students to learn not only a foreign tongue, but grammar, composition and reading skills.

Modern language classes are French and Spanish. While many students stop after the two years of college preparatory training, especially able pupils continue to advanced classes, where almost no speaking is in English. Students concentrate on studies in literature, civilization and original composition. The idea of the classes is to eventually discontinue translation, and to think and read in the foreign language.

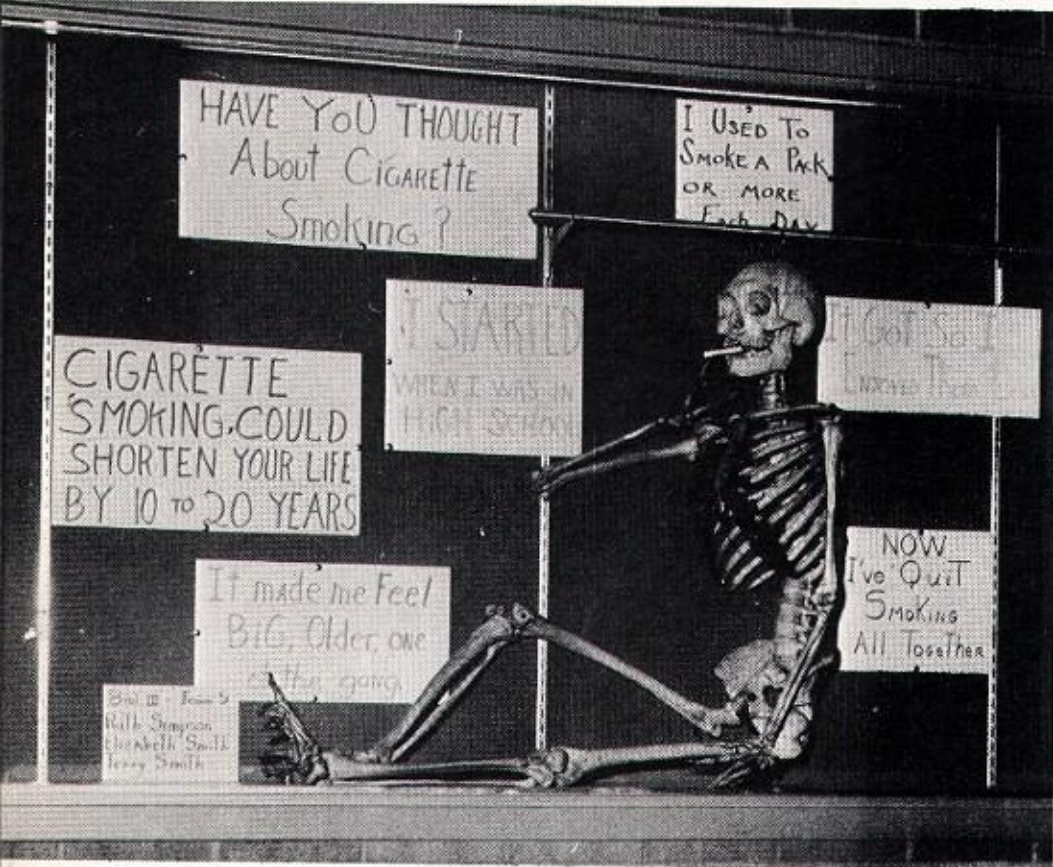

Latin classes are also in operation. Students find that Latin is perhaps not so much a "dead" language, as it aids greatly in the study of science, English and other languages.

College-bound Howeites appreciate the Latin and Greek Derivatives course which aids students' working English vocabularies by studying the roots from which many of our words come.

Many Howeites engage in innumerable activities. The Foreign Language Department sponsors several clubs, one of which is the Latin Club. At one of the Latin Club meetings, a mock Roman wedding is being held.

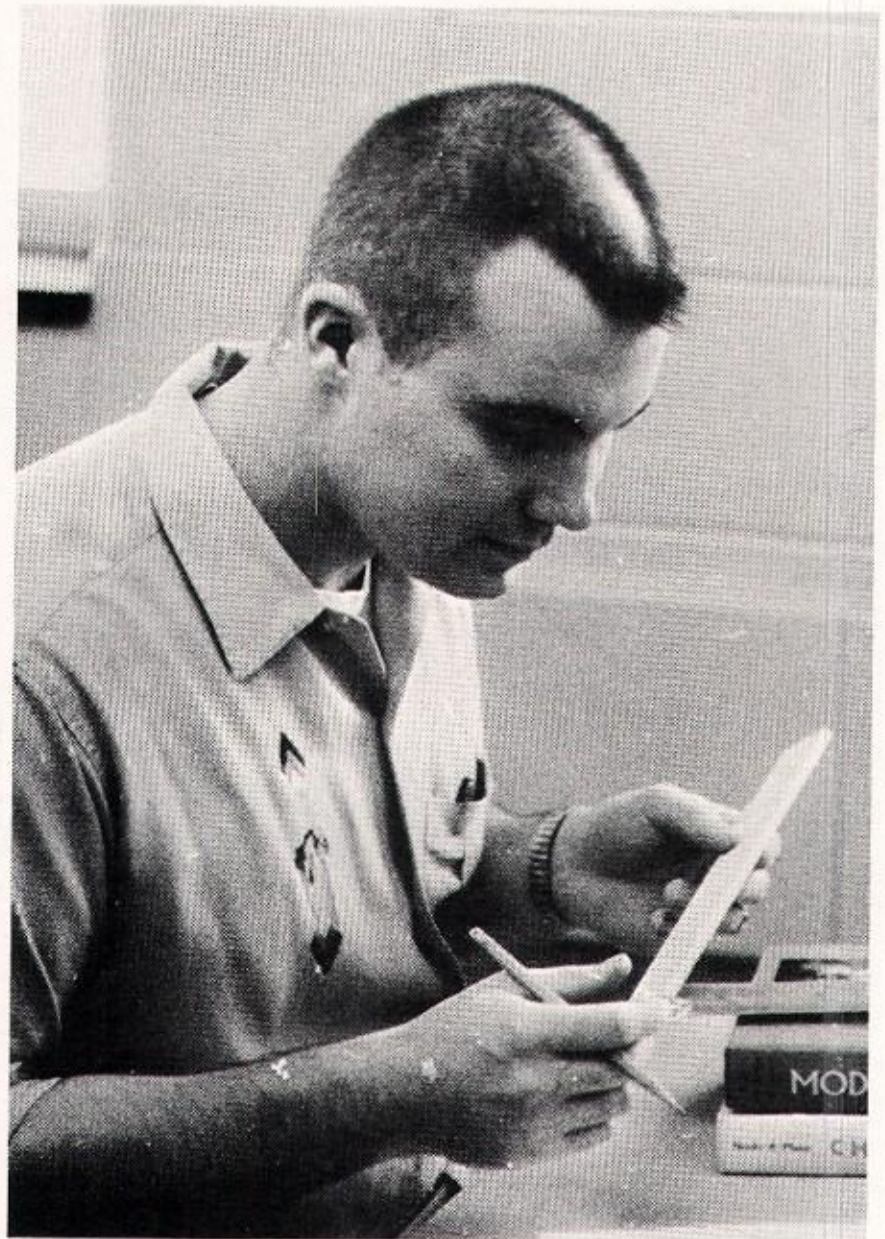

Future scientists and mathematicians are well prepared

Howeites were concerned by the Congressional report on smoking. Advanced science students set up the display on its harmful after-effects.

In advanced courses of chemistry, physics, algebra, and calculus, students find the slide rule a big help. Tom Walker shortens his study time with the use of the slide rule during physics lab.

Mrs. Marie Wilcox, Head of the Mathematics Department, explain the s-i-n and the s-i-g-n of a problem during a trigonometry class. Trigonometry is a one semester course elected by juniors and seniors.

Howe's mathematics department is one of the best in the state. Excellent teachers do fine work in helping Howeites to obtain requirements which enable them to live in this day and age where mathematical know-how is a necessity.

There are eleven math courses offered to pupils. Freshmen begin with the fundamentals of algebra or general math. They then proceed to geometry dealing with angles, circles, and line segments. College bound students can then go on into higher levels of mathematics. Trigonometry presents an entirely new concept to mathematics. College algebra deals with modern techniques to the proving of theorems. These and calculus present hard but interesting work for students.

Math and subset clubs give eager Howeites further experiences in mathematics. Many club members enter regional and state math contests. High honors are bestowed on the pupil as well as Howe.

through Howe studies

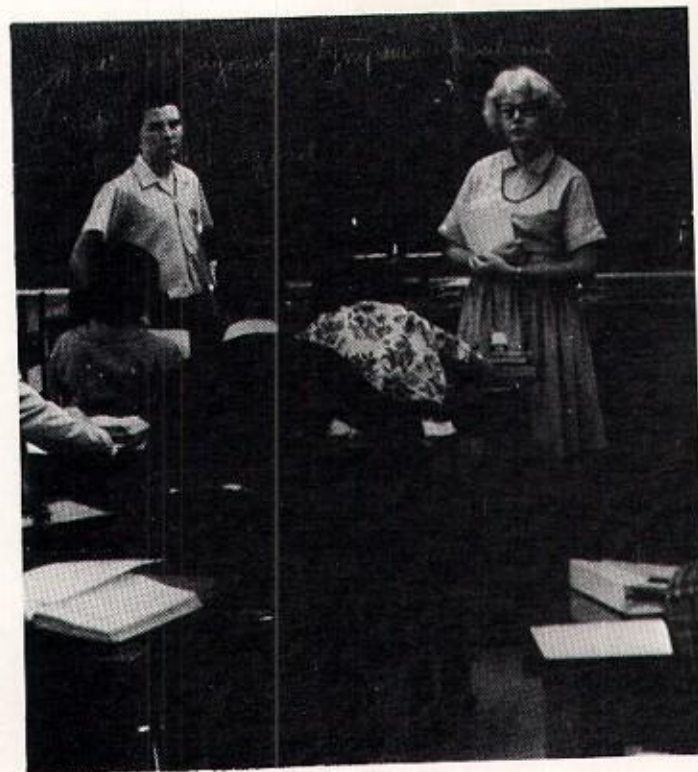

In Physical Science, freshmen get a background of knowledge in many phases of science. Here Jeff Zander, Mike Patrick, and Shirley Cox, evaluate the distillation process while learning to use special laboratory equipment.

The science department, headed by Mr. William Smith, offers varied science courses for students. They range from a freshman course in physical science which concerns the basic concepts of chemistry and physics to the newly added advanced chemistry and biology classes for seniors planning to go on to college.

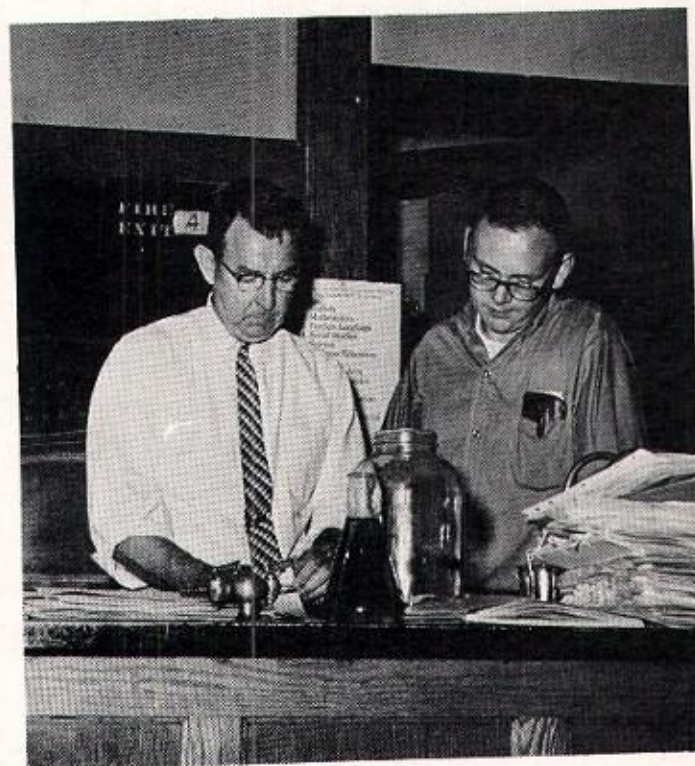

During the sophomore year, the science student explores life in all phases from the one-celled animal to the complex human body to the plant kingdom. An insect collection is included in the fall study of the animal kingdom, while a leaf collection is included in the spring study of the plant kingdom.

Chemistry is a course in which the science student learns about the composition of matter. The experiments, performed under the watchful eye of the teacher, enable the students to see, first hand, how chemical compounds are formed.

Earth science and physics are two courses offered to upper-classmen. Physics helps to link theoretical science with practical science. The science introduces the student to the world of unlimited energy. Earth science is a study of our changing planet. It also gives insight to basic chemistry and physics.

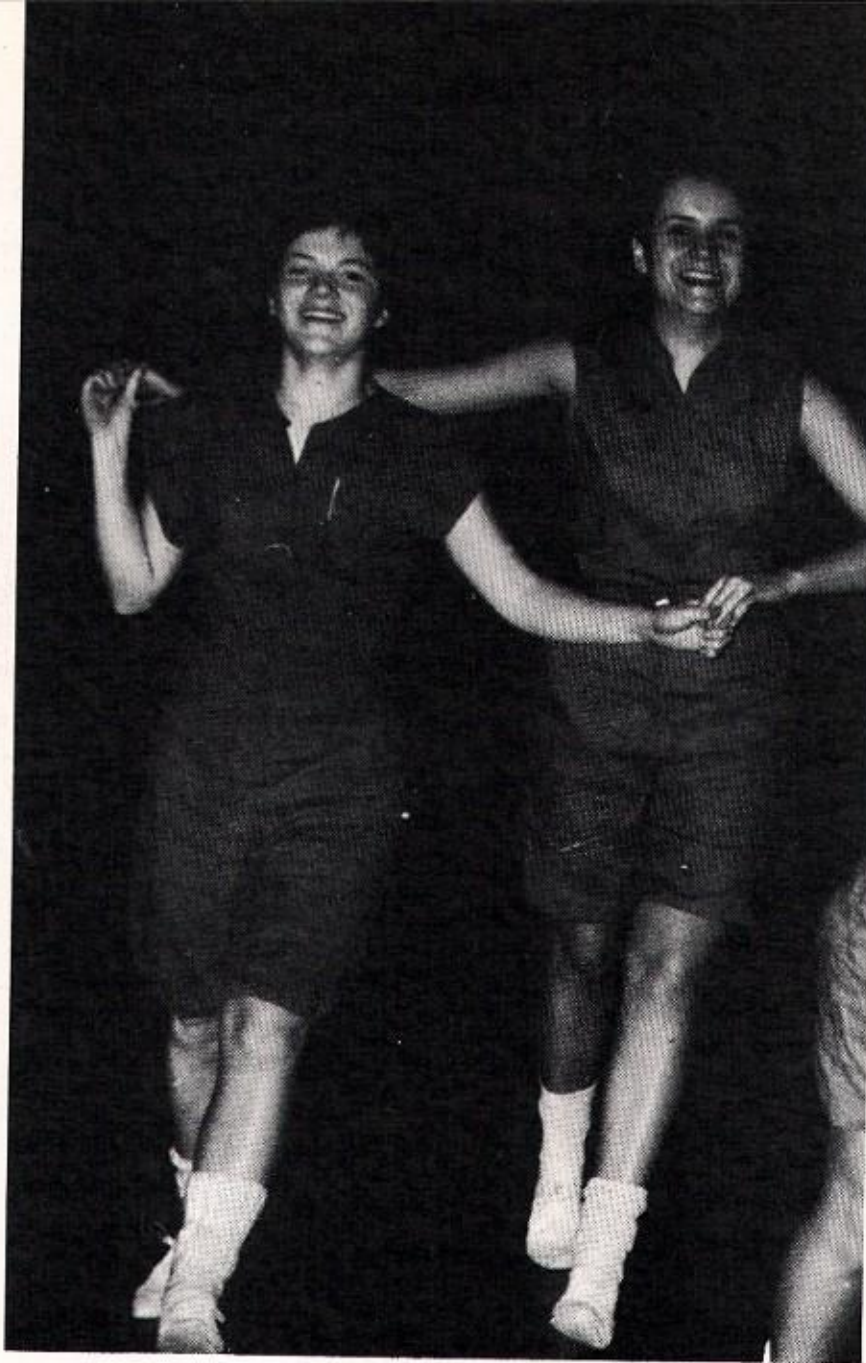

Miss Motley teaches class in one of the new science rooms. Modern equipment and large tables make student lab work more interesting.

In Biology, students begin to prepare their leaf collections. Many weeks of hard work have made these collections perfect.

Donna Israel explains to a shocked Eric Alberding all about the anatomy of a pig during a fall Biology class. The sophomore course is required for graduation.

Art, music and phys ed teach students to develop a co-ordination of body, mind and spirit.

In the main entrance exhibit on the bottom floor, students can often see painting, modeling and craft work of the Howe Art Department. This is a sample of what goes on in classes taught by Mr. Frank Howard, Mrs. Loreen DeWaard and Mr. Forest Hicks. The various courses provide much more than a mere non-homework credit. They give valuable skills which may be used later, and appreciation of good art.

Elementary craft arts and courses in jewelry, plastics or sculpturing are for students who like to work with their hands creating objects from raw materials.

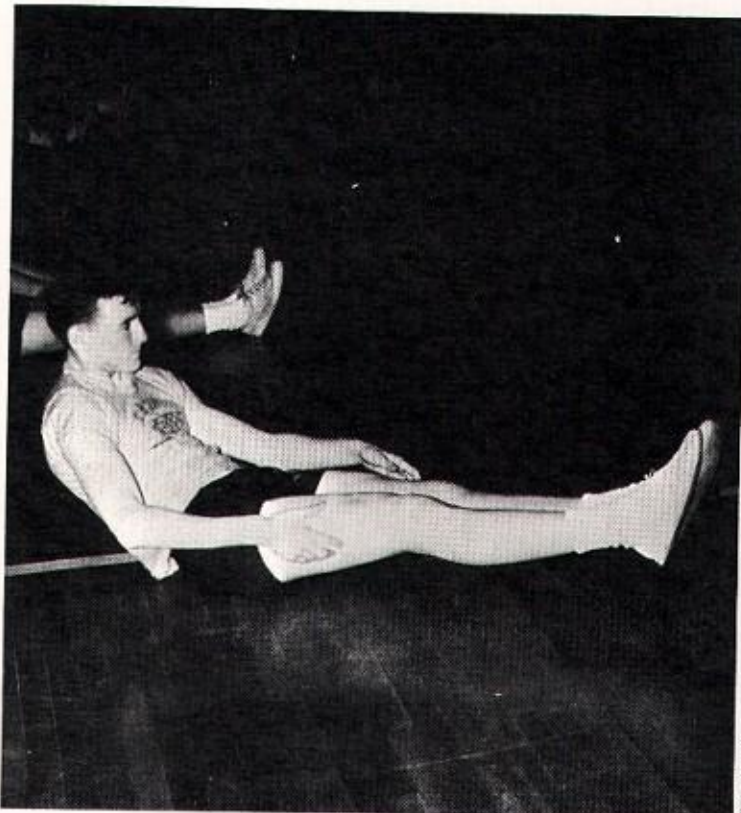

Other students choose to work with crayon, paints or ink on paper or canvas. Lettering classes plan and make posters, banners and certificates. Their work is especially evident around Mock Election time or before a big extra-curricular activity, when posters and signs are very popular. Commercial art students are preparing, sometimes, for advertising careers, and Howe is where they get their first experience. The fashions class is elected by girls who are interested and talented in that art. Art, in general, offers to students with talents the chance to express their moods in raw materials or on paper or canvas.

Phys ed, required for one year to graduate, is elected by many who like to be active. Driver's ed and health, also required, are taught by the Physical Education Department.

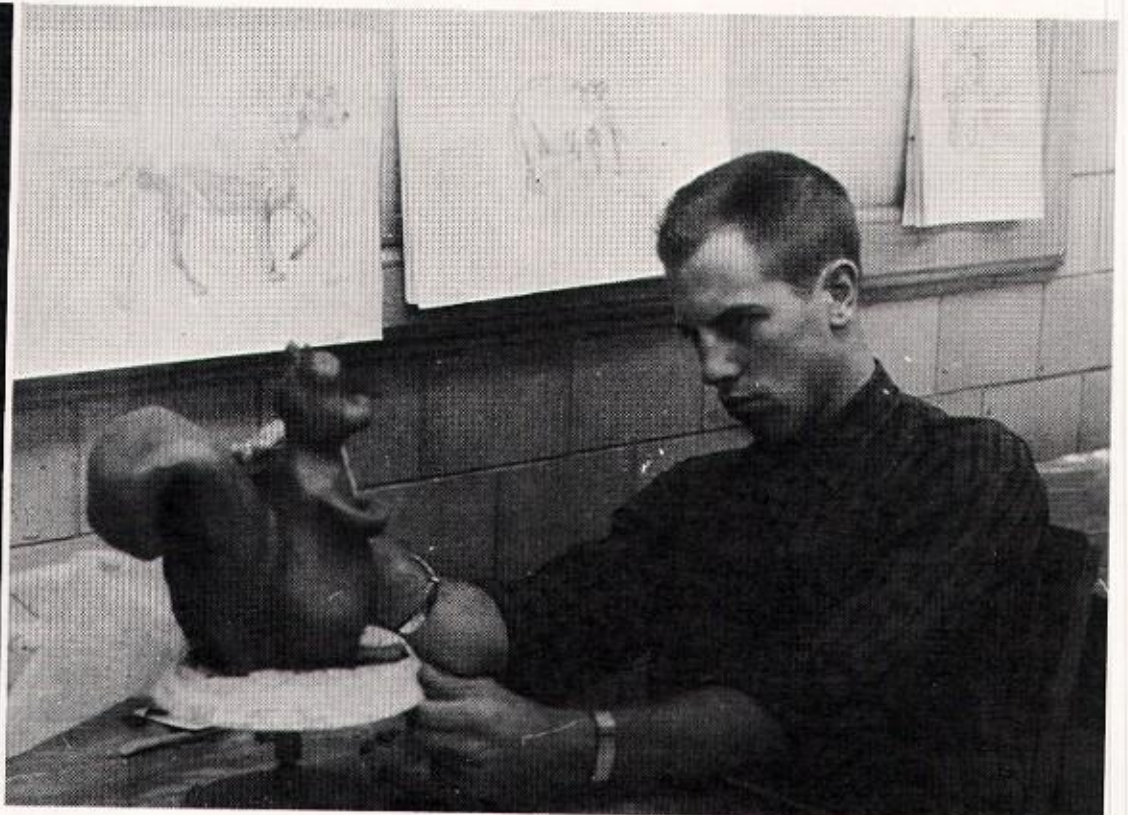

All Freshman girls enrolled at Howe must take one year of the half credit course, Girls' Phys. Ed. In their classes they learn to perform many forms of dance. Here Jane Walden and Sue Cherry laugh as they dance around the gym.

Howeites utilize fingers, bodies, vocal cords

Ed Bunyard, along with classmates, exercises during physical education. Boys and girls keep physically fit by taking a one-year course in gymnastics.

Richard Burmeister finishes a clay squirrel in advanced art class. Behind him are sketches Richard and other members of his class made before they began modeling the varieties of animals which were sculptured.

Phil Meadows, who plays the trombone, and Sousaphone player Ed Coone take a last minute study of their halftime music at one of the football games, as other band members wait in the background. The band marches for all home games in the fall. After the marching season, the band studies concert music, under the direction of music department teacher, Mr. Louis McEnderfer.

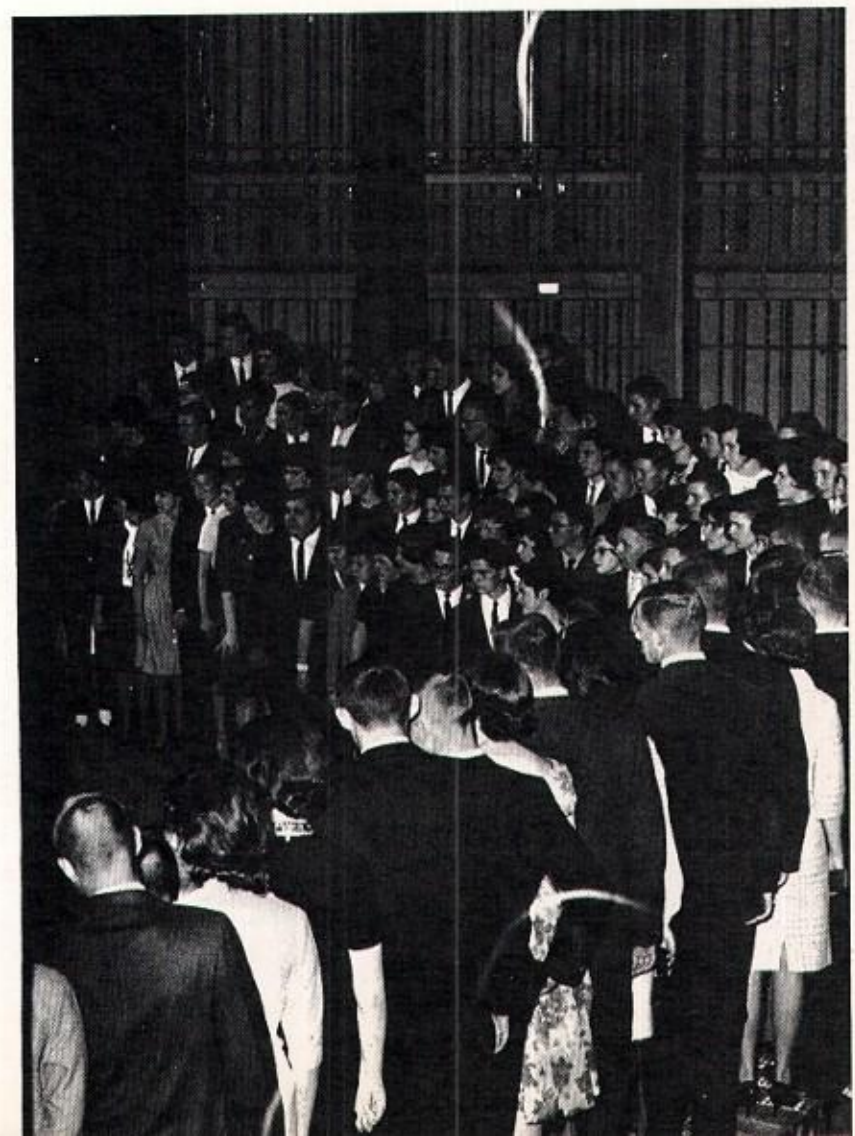

as they participate in Art, Phys Ed, Music Departments

Music students not only learn to vibrate the correct sound through their vocal cords, to put notes on a staff, or to put the right finger down for a given pitch. They learn appreciation of good music, and whether it be man-made or the human voice, they learn respect for their instrument.

Beginning vocalists take boys' or girls' glee club. Girls may advance to a treble organization, Choralaires. From there they may go to the Howe Choir. Boy members of the Choir are chosen from the glee clubs.

The Band is seen marching at football games and in concerts. The Orchestra plays in concerts, too. People who want to learn to recognize famous classical works take music appreciation, while theory and harmony teach the formal rules of music.

The Howe Choir, girls' Choralaires and Boys' Glee Club stand on the risers of the new stage and sing "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" accompanied by the orchestra. They sang to entertain the parents and other guests at the Open House in November.

Practical courses prepare Howeites for future

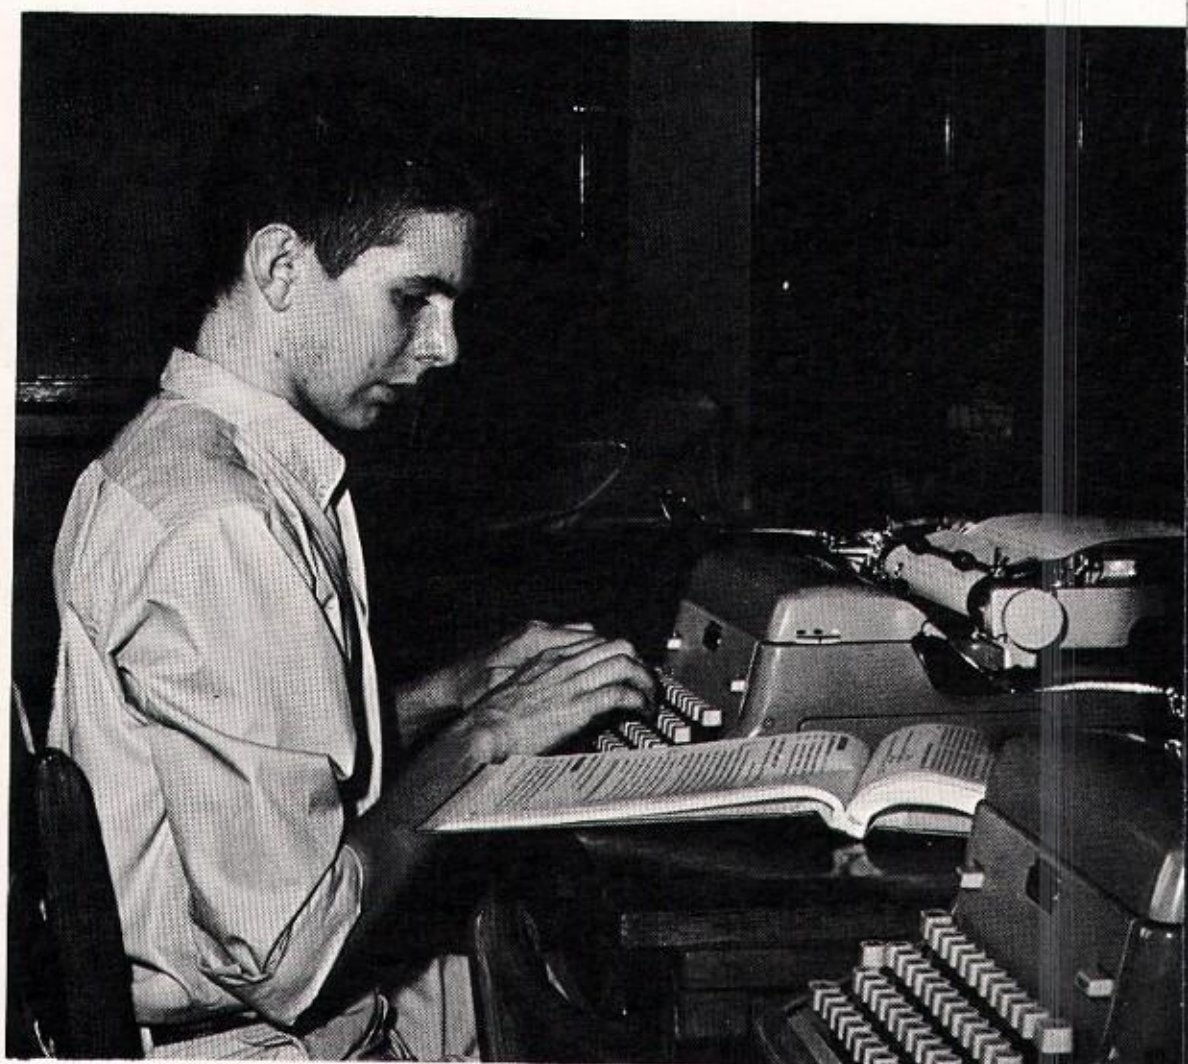

Home Economics classes offer Howe girls an opportunity to become more familiar with many aspects of good housekeeping and practical home knowledge. The Home Economics classes are divided into many sections; the basic courses are Foods and Clothing. In the foods classes the girls learn how to cope with many problems of food preparation. Aside from preparing tantalizing dishes, the girls learn to arrange their tables attractively and to make use of leftovers.

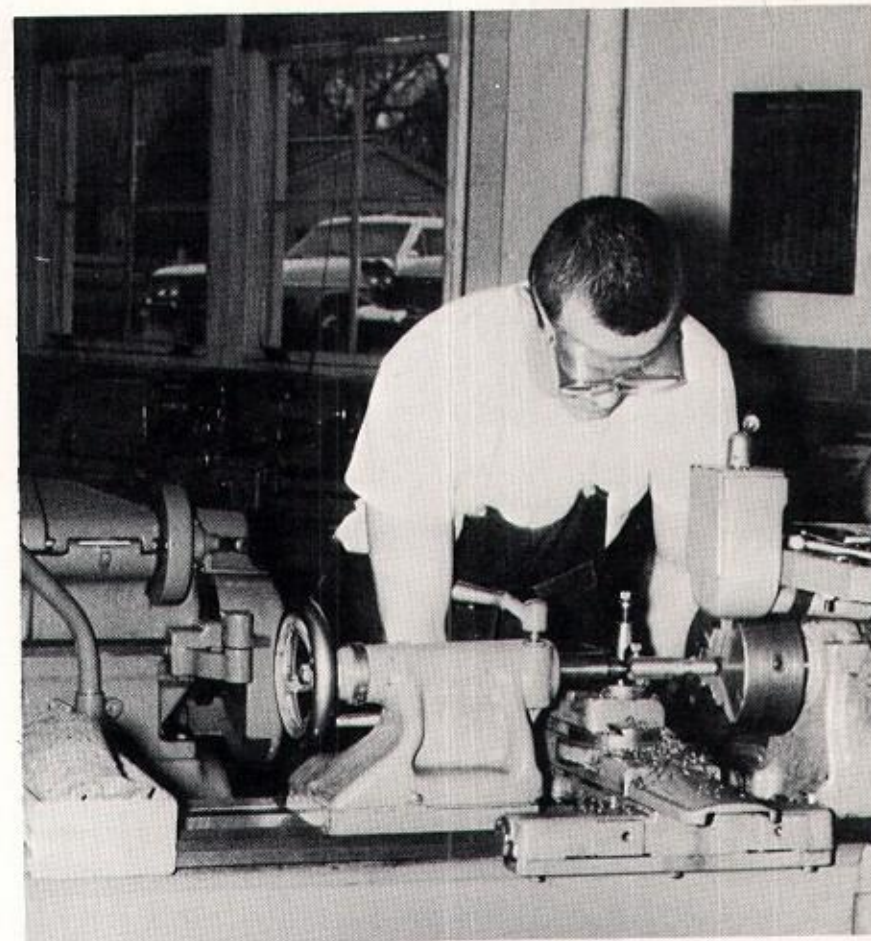

In the clothing classes girls learn to sew attractive clothes for themselves. Besides the fundamentals of sewing and making clothes attractive the girls learn the basics of good dress. They prepare charts and graphs on colors that match and material that is easy to work with and makes an attractive appearance when worn with other types of material.

Three home ec students check each other and their classmates by noting different points of baking during a class project in one of Mrs. Helen Allen's foods classes.

During Typing I class, Eric Briggs works for speed as well as accuracy. Typing is a very worth-while class for all students who wish to better their grades.

Metal Shop gives boys experience in machine making. Tom Bond works with a drill. Metal Shop is a two period class with one credit each semester.

In the advanced business courses many students gain the opportunity to learn to use and receive training on machines similar to those which they will encounter in their future jobs.

Future secretaries and businessmen get a good start during their high school career when they enroll in typing, shorthand, filing, or bookkeeping, courses offered in Howe's business department. Girls wishing to go into the business field after graduation from high school, receive training in working on a switchboard, and transcribing with a dictaphone. A salesmanship course, machine calculation, commercial geography, business arithmetic, and law teach students the fundamental procedures in buying and selling.

Each year the NOMA Spelling Test gives business students and other interested pupils a chance to show their talent. A list of one hundred words must be spelled correctly. After this is done, the student receives a certificate of merit.

Boys learn to make useful articles and work with their hands in the wood shop course offered at Howe. This full-credit course is open to boys of all ages.

Social studies pupils enjoy human events

During International Relations, a social studies pupil gives a report on the Panama Canal troubles. Pamphlets and maps help pupils to better understand our relations with foreign countries.

Howe's Social Studies Department offers several required courses and electives for those interested in history, civics and current events. Juniors are required by law to take United States History, while those in the Senior Class must enroll in government and economics. Freshmen and sophomores may elect a course in world history. A new course at Howe this year was Indiana History. Taught by Miss Dorothea Kirk, the class proved to be a popular one with juniors and seniors. Mr. James Stainbrook taught another elective, international relations.

Studying human behavior are some social studies classes. Students of psychology, sociology, and family living learned to use personality tests and sociological surveys in their class-work. Term papers were written on some phase of the course enjoyed by each student.

An "in depth" study of the history of the American people is considered by all juniors. This United States History course takes two semesters to complete, and is followed in the first part of the senior year by United States Government. After government, seniors take economics during their last semester. Each student receives a mythical thousand dollars to invest in stocks. Once-a-week reports helped students to know if they were losing or gaining in their investments.

A real one thousand dollars was given to one senior social studies major who wrote the best research theme on some phase of the departmental study.

Social studies pupils helped the speech classes with the "Junior Town Meeting" radio shows on WIBC.

By teaching of the past, and about current events and human behavior, the department prepares students for later life.

Government students of Miss Nancy Adams attended the October 15 City Council Meeting in the City-County Building. There, they learned about city government, and appeared on a television news show.

Headed by Cadet Colonel Richard Schubert, Howe's ROTC Corps is one of the finest in the city. The Corps has won for itself and Howe many honors.

The Reserve Officers Training Corp, the Girls' Drill Team, and the Howe Band marched in the annual Veteran's Day Parade and received third place out of all city schools. Again in the spring the Corps, the Girls' Drill Team and the Band came together for Federal Inspection. Many honors were awarded to outstanding cadets.

Three new junior sponsors were elected to assist the three senior sponsors. These girls had to have a high scholastic average to be considered. Girls were nominated for positions after writing a theme stating why they would like to be an ROTC Sponsor. The final choices were made by the cadets themselves.

Money for decorations, invitations, refreshments, entertainment and door prizes for the Military Ball was earned by having after-game dances during basketball season. At other school functions, cadets sold refreshments and checked coats to earn money. The Cadet Sponsors were candidates for Queen of the Military Ball.

Sergeant First Class Bascom Perdue was the instructor for Howe's ROTC sponsors and cadets. He worked hard with all the officers to help better the corps.

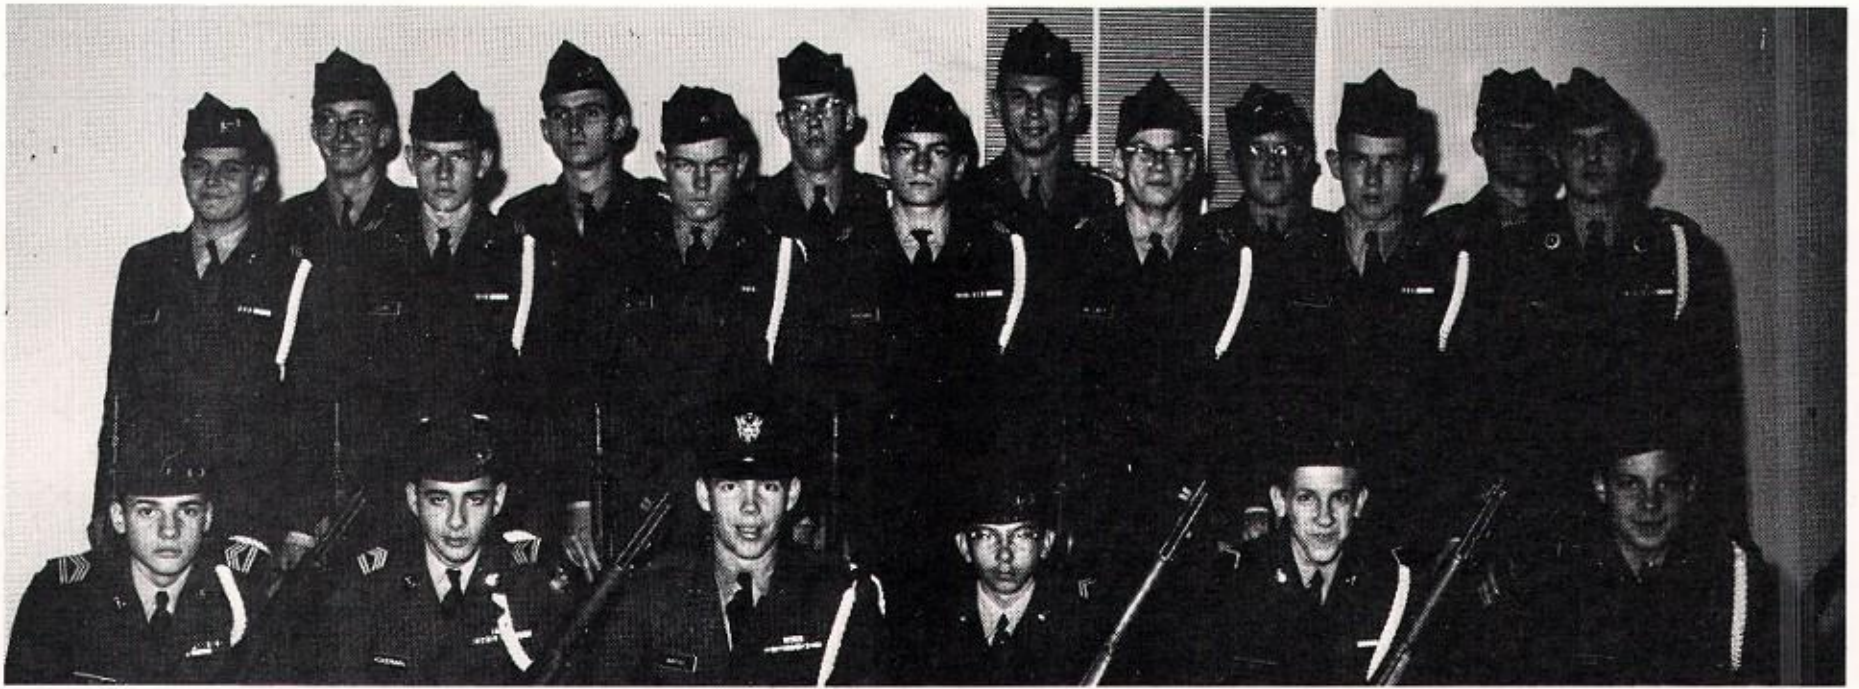

ROTC Color Guard members John Gray, Lee Lyndes, Joe Abernethy, Larry Baumgardt and Fred Johnson present the colors at all assemblies, and football and basketball games. They also raise and lower the flag at the beginning and end of each school day.

ROTC offers boys preview of military life

Braving the cold winds and an early December snow are the six ROTC sponsors. They are Honorary Cadet Maj. Dana Kovac, Honorary Cadet Maj. Linda Elder, Honorary Cadet Maj. Susan Campbell, Honorary Cadet 2nd Lt. Linda Andress, Honorary 2nd Lt. Jeanne Embry, Honorary 2nd Lt. Ann Abernethy. Girls are elected by all boys in the ROTC battle group during the fall of their junior year and remain sponsors until they graduate.

ROTC participates in Federal Inspection

ROTC boys must go through inspection every Friday during the school year. They are marked down if their uniform is not in perfect arrangement and clean. Their shoes must be shined well, and they must have correct posture and other details.

Much responsibility rests in the hands of the officers, company commanders and platoon leaders. They are in part responsible for weekly inspection, for the men they command and also for each other. ROTC teaches the boys who enroll a sense of responsibility and qualities of leadership.

Members of the Reserve Officers Training Corps, the band, majorettes and drill teams must practice long hours before they are ready to undergo the annual Federal Inspection, the highlight of the military year. As they gather informally, the members of the various groups make friends while planning for the important event.

Howe is proud to have the only Girls' Drill Team in the city. This year Mrs. Sharon Gremel was the faculty sponsor and Denise Price was the captain. through ACTIVITIES

Filling the days at Howe were the various activities enjoyed by all. The planning and preparations of dances, club meetings, and parties, required the time of many. Highlighting the year was the traditional Brown and Gold, held in the new cafeteria, and the Junior and Senior Proms in the spring.

Speech and Debate Club members represented Howe in meets throughout the state. The Footlight Revelers presented their annual play and the first variety show was given.

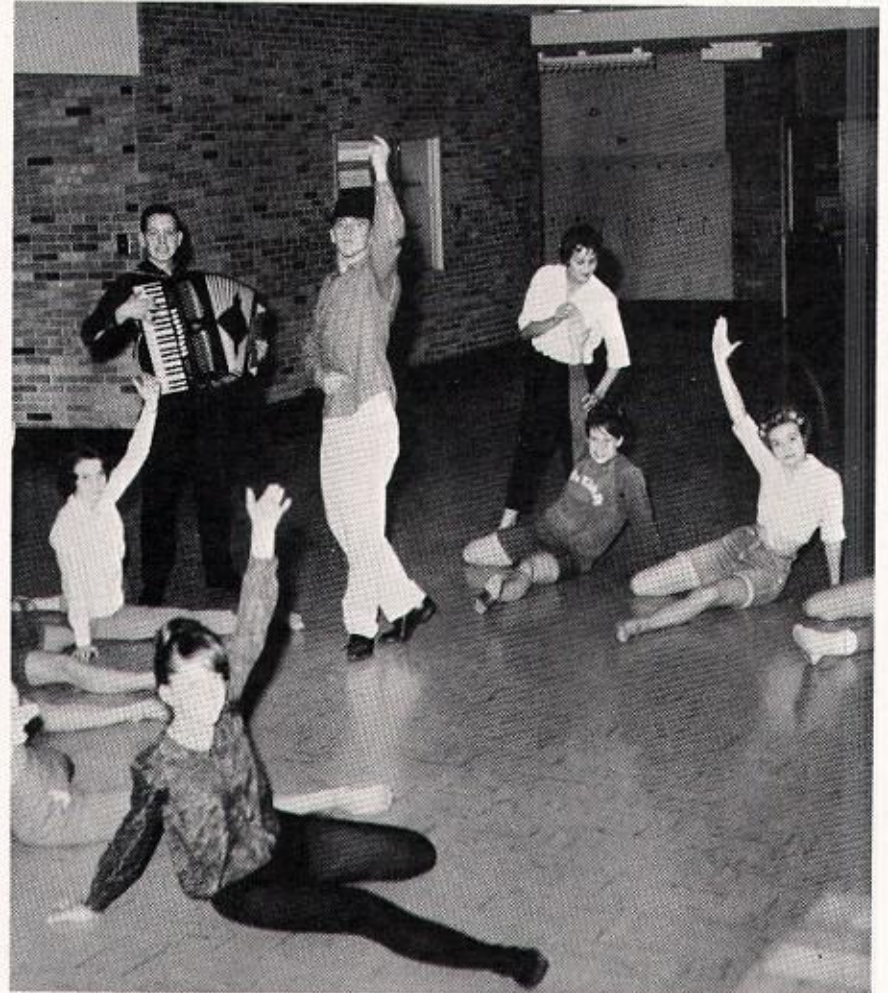

Student Council members paved the way for student government while the Mock Elections taught all the essentials of real state governments. Activities led to a better understanding of the self and of others in Howe High School.

Pleasant Run Review finds new home

A premier performance in the new auditorium entertained a full audience as the Pleasant Run Revue was presented. Weeks before the presentation, many Howe students auditioned before a group of faculty advisors, Mrs. Harriette Baker, Mr. Bruce Beck, Miss Janice Brown, Mrs. Patrica Richardson, and Mrs. Barbara Wood. As a result of the try outs twenty-nine separate acts were selected.

A week before the chosen date, nightly rehearsals were scheduled. As several days passed the new "Pleasant Run Varieties" was beginning to be organized. Many old lighting and sound problems were eliminated by the addition of the auditorium. Nevertheless, stage crews worked many long hours to make this year's revue one to remember. Mr. Bruce Beck, head of Howe's productions, commented that this production was the best that had been presented in Howe's twenty-six years.

Gypsy dancers rehearsed long hours in order to perfect their number. The playing of the tamborine and the accordion added spark to the colorful number.

The Girl's Octet composed of Sandy Cherry, Betty Leach, Judy Mishler, Pam McCarty, Jennifer Bradley, Judy Stofer, and Sondra Copeland sing "The Red Red Robin" and "Days of Wine and Roses."

on Beck's "pride and joy", the new stage

For the first time a variety program was presented instead of the revue of acts. Many new talented students were given the opportunity to perform. The performers had a wide variety of talents, ranging from vocal, instrumental, and dancing. Highlights of the variety show included a vocal quartet doing a selection of songs entitled the "ABC's of Howe." These girls wrote the lyrics to these songs, which were parodies of Howe's faculty. The group consisted of Jennifer Bradley, Becky Fahr-bach, Betty Leach, and Judy Mishler. The organ was a feature of the show, and many pupils brought forth their talents. A modern jazz number called "Heat Wave" pleased the entire audience. A Dixie land jazz group marched through the auditorium playing "Muskrat Ramble." To the audience the Boy's Octet made up to be hillbillies was very enjoyable. All in all this year's Pleasant Run Varieties will be one to be remembered.

Cathy Edwards and Nanci Edwards delighted the audience with two melodies, "Moon River" and "Blue Moon." The program included many other new talented vocal groups.

Dressed as hillbillies, Tom Jones, Jan Pirtle, Eric Briggs, John Woods, Chuck Guhl, Bob Woodward, Bill Evans, and Jim Cashe add variety to the PRV by singing two folk songs, "Heart of My Heart," and "Good Old Mountain Dew."

Chuck Guhl warmly sings "Till There Was You" to Janice Redick. They also sang other favorites, "I Could Have Danced All Night," and "On The Street Where You Live."

Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma!" is a story of the people who make up the "brand-new state" of Oklahoma: tough, loveable Aunt Eller, handsome, square-shooting Curly, and Laurey, the belle of everyone's ball. These people and their friends are hard working inhabitants of this territory, striving to carve out a home on the rude prairie and become a new star on the flag. While there is much to be done, they have time for play too, and Will Parker visits Kansas City, sees the "sights," and picks up enough money to marry his gal, Ado Annie. Other kinds of people appear on the Oklahoma frontier as well, like the wily but amusing Ali Hakim, peddler par excellence, who pulls just one clever deal too many. There is the brooding Jud, whose love for the lovely Laurey is the one bright spot in an otherwise ugly life.

The terrifically successful Broadway play and movie was based on Lynn Riggs' "Green Grow the Lilacs." Some of the never-to-be-forgotten songs in this spirited musical are "Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin'," "The Surrey with the Fringe on Top" and "People Will Say We're in Love."

Oklahoma is filled with the laughter and the wistful tears that make up a part of everyone's life.

Musical, "Oklahoma!" revives Howe tradition

Steve Willeford and Chuck Guhl sing to their gals about the wonders of the "Surrey with the Fringe on Top." Enjoying every minute of the serenade are Cindy Sreiber, Judy Mishler and Janice Redick.

Becky Graham and Donna Prell perform a portion of their can-can dance routine for an "Oklahoma" rehearsal. Members of the cast put in long hours of practice for a perfect production.

Players in "Oklahoma!" take a curtain call after their final performance on Howe's new stage. With a cast of over a hundred, the Music Department, with the help of phys ed students, highlighted the "box social," Jud's funeral and Laurey's wedding. The production was the first musical at Howe since 1956.

Jim Cashe shows a wary Bob Bruner his idea of life in the old West by pulling a six-shooter on him. Barb Dalton, Alicia Croel, Judy Mishler and Betty Leach are shocked, but Ron Coffman, Dave Totten, Trent Detamore and Chuck Guhl only laugh.

The lead roles for male and female for "Oklahoma" were Curly and Laurey. These roles were played by David Neighbors and Judy Mishler respectively. Their parts are demanding of many hours of diligent practice.

Thespian members, Suzi Applegate, Jan Pirtle and Barbara Dalton are reading portions of the play "The Mouse That Roared" for their tryout. Tryouts were in February and the results were announced later.

Roared," vied for top billing with Howe Musical Footlight Revelers Club consists of many Howe students in-terested in the various aspects of theater. Their interests lie in producing, acting, directing, and writing.

The club had a slow start this year because the new stage was not completed before school opened. However, the stage will be a great asset to the production of future plays.

After many hours of practicing, a one night performance was given on April 10 by Revelers members. The play pre-sented was "The Mouse That Roared" which was a comedy. A small duchy, called Grand Fenwich invades New York with long bows and carries away the Q bomb, the most devastat-ing bomb, back to their duchy. It also satirizes our foreign policy.

By participating in one hundred hours of dramatics work, the Reveler members are eligible for membership in the Na-tional Honorary Thespian Society.

The stage crew has been working hard with all the new instruments and props and effects they have now. They are perched on the steps and run-way for their picture. Top to bottom and left to right are: Ackerman, Foster, Gray, Freeman, Barton, Wills, Benz, Croucher, Jones, Stofer, Medearis, Scott, Dewitt, Kinsey, Wells, Hatcher, Johnson, Craig, Maranda, Burke, Hilt, Lull, Hammer, Jerrett, Dirks, Israel, Marqua. They are proud of the new stage.

The Student Council officers are kept busy with plans and campaigns to keep the newest addition to Howe clean and attractive. They are Tom Clapp, vice-president; Suzanne Soult, secretary; Ward Poulos, president; and Janet Wagaman, assistant secretary. Not pictured is Chuck Mundy, treasurer. The officers have cabinet meetings every week with Mrs. Mildred Loew and Mr. Charles Ruschhaupt. Ward was elected president at the last meeting of the previous year. The other officers were elected at the first meeting of this year.

Student Council campaigns vigorously for Student Council representatives, Steve Gibbs and Mike Higgins, assist Sheryl Erhgott and Judy Romanovich at the annual Howe open house. The representatives acted as guides to guests, unfamiliar with Howe's lay out.

Student Council is a student elected organization. Representatives are elected by the homerooms each year. The representatives then elect the class representatives and other office holders who were not elected in the spring of the previous year.

This year the class representatives were Steve Grubbs, senior; Nick Von Staden, junior; Bruce Spear, sophomore; and Sandy Johnson, freshman. Ward Poulos, president, was elected at the last meeting of the previous year. The other officers, Tom Clapp, vice-president; Suzanne Soult, secretary; Chuck Mundy, treasurer; and Janet Wagaman, assistant secretary, were elected at the first meeting of this year.

The Council meets once every two weeks, and the cabinet meets separately once a week. During the meetings they discuss such subjects as school dress, school safety, and student sponsored events. Some of the major campaigns sponsored by the student council this year were the "School Clean-Up Campaign" and the "Safety Drive."

There are many sub-committees of the council. They handle such things as official junior class rings, the football homecoming queen, student council dances, the junior prom, and many others. These committees have their own meetings and report to the council.

The student council also sends representatives to the City Student Council. The City Student Council is active in city affairs. One of their programs this year was the "Anti-Crime Crusade." Ward Poulos is also president of the City Student Council.

The faculty sponsors elected by the council are Mr. Schroeder, Mr. Anderson, and Mr. Tobin, with Mrs. Loew and Mr. Ruschhaupt.

Howe's advanced music students practice daily

Displaying their talent in various forms of vocal music, the Choir practices daily for performances throughout the community. This most advanced singing group is sponsored by the Music Department head, Mr. Frank S. Watkins.

The Choir, eighty-five members strong, meets during the first period every day. Each morning until nine o'clock, the halls of the middle wing are full of the music of "Hayride," "Jingle Bells," or Handel's "Messiah." Using these and other works, the Choir taped a "Young America Sings" radio program which was broadcast over WIBC in December. Later that month, the Choir sang on Monument Circle as part of the Christmas season in downtown Indianapolis. Choir members will not forget the folksinging on the way to and from performances in the chartered bus, playing cards to pass time after the long all-day rehearsals before the evening All-City Choir Festival, or being embarrassed to sight-read sitting in the "scattered" formation. Kathy Stone was the Choir accompanist, but when a piece was unaccompanied, Karen Kitchen, who has perfect pitch, gave the notes.

Ready to step out for a performance are (clockwise from bottom) Margaret Rieman, Betty Leach, Judith Mishler, Jennifer Bradley, Sondra Copeland, Judy Stofer, Sandra Cherry, and Pam McCarty. Margaret is accompanist. Mr. Frank S. Watkins is the Girls' Octet sponsor.

Three active groups of musicians are the Madrigal Singers and the two Octets. All are selective organizations, and all members are picked for their talent and music knowledge.

A new member of the faculty this year, Mr. Robert Bramblett, sponsored the Madrigals. The singers reported to school at a very early 7:30 each morning to practice. They specialized in music of the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries, and performed for church groups and civic organizations. In March, they presented an hour program at the John Herron Art Museum.

Eight handsome young men spent their ninth hours in Room 240. They made up the Boys' Octet, and their sponsor was Mr. Bramblett, too. Their performances at the Manger Inn, the Sheraton-Lincoln Hotel and various Irvington Churches made up only a small part of their calendar. One evening, the boys carolled at the Governor's mansion on North Meridian Street, and met Mr. Welsh. A highlight of the PRR was the boys' rendition of "Good Old Mountain Dew."

Six senior girls, one junior and a sophomore were chosen last spring to represent the school in the Girls' Octet. They called their sponsor, Mr. Frank Watkins, "Pop." The girls enjoyed a variety of performances, and joined with the boys when the two Octets carolled at Twinbrook old folks' home during the holiday season.

Music-makers provide for public performances

The orchestra, composed of over 80 members, has played in many Howe performances. With the new auditorium and orchestra pit, the organization has had an opportunity to present varied programs.

Mr. Constantine N. Poulimas is head of the orchestra. Under his direction, the orchestra has played for assemblies and special activities. The group initiated the new auditorium at Open House in the fall. The All-City orchestra performed at Howe this year for the first time. The featuring of two Howe students, Moira Sugioka and Judy Roe, was also a first. Other performances were Howe's Christmas Community Sing, musical and honors concert. At dramatic performances, the Symphonette, a portion of the larger group, played. Many of the student instrumentalists attended the All-City Music Camp on Lake Tippecanoe, to supplement their school training. The highlight of the year was the orchestra's performance at the May Festival.

The Howe orchestra has an appropriate setting in which to perform for Howe shows and programs now. The new orchestra pit fulfills the dreams of Mr. Poulimas and all the members of the orchestra, and it provides a chance for better music presentation.

Howe's band is a marching, concert, and pep band

The Howe band serves as a double purpose for the school. At football games and parades the band is a marching band. Often during the fall and spring, students can hear the band practicing its marching and many various formations during the seventh period. When football season is over, the band becomes mainly a concert band. They play for programs at the school and student performances and contests elsewhere.

A few of the band members play for basketball games, too. The pep band adds enthusiasm to the games.

During the last year the band was conducted an all-out program to raise money for new uniforms. The entire music department and the P-TA helped the band members sell candy at Christmas time. The project was a great success, and it helped raise money for many new uniforms.

The band is directed by Mr. Louis McEnderfer. He devotes many hours to practicing, performing and making arrangements for the band. He also plans and organizes all the formations and special music used by the band during the year.

The Pep Band provides music for all the home basketball games during the season. They add color and excitement as well as giving students an added boost at the games.

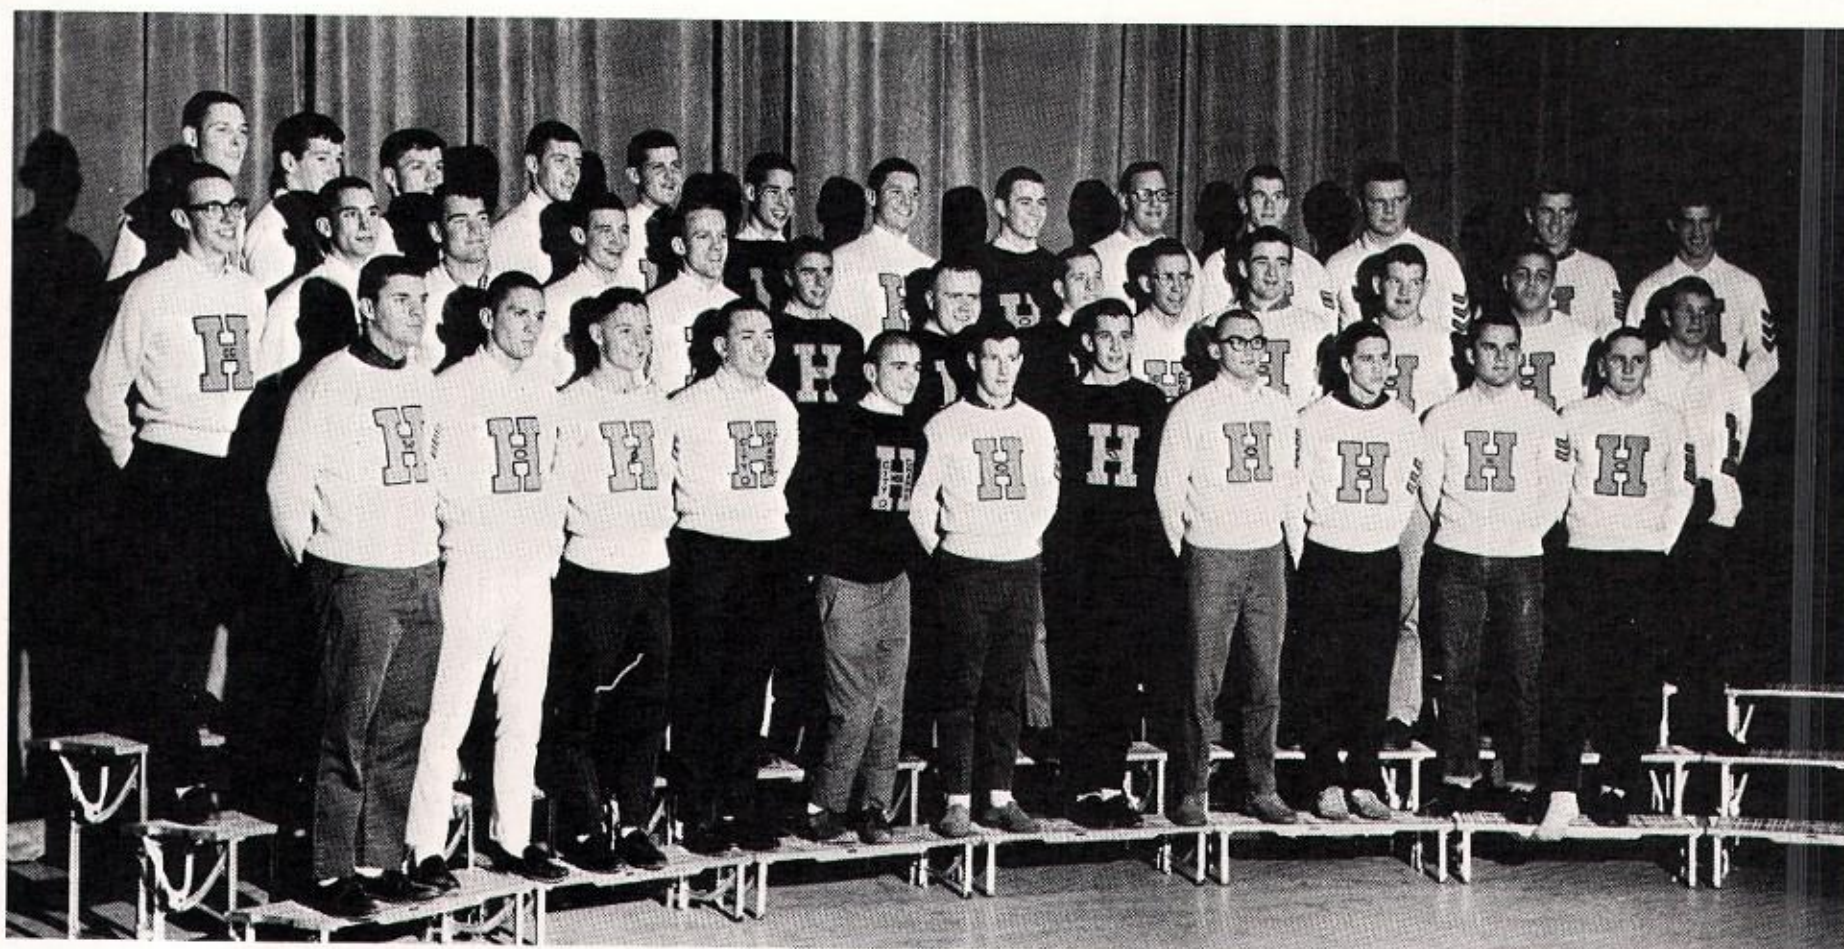

Romerill, Pressel, Potter, Harrison, Stockdale, Robinson, Coffin, Dentler, Horn Cross, Meadows. (ROW ONE) Chandler, Canada, French, Cooke, Shafer, McLellen, Petrakis, Tobias, McClain, Hidinger, Neal, Funk, Wells, Freeman, Wray, Carden. The band strives to make game halves pleasing to all attending. Routines and formations are executed by Mr. McEnderfer, director of the band. It is the band's firm dream to purchase new uniforms for the coming year.

Good—luck Always

Marching in front of the band at each game are seniors Barbara Evans, Barbara Bogaert, Bob Cross, Barbara Quick, and a junior, Ladonna Belter. Bob is a member of the band, and the girls were chosen for twirling ability.

Lettermen and GAA work on athletic details

All boys who earn their varsity letter in a sport at Howe are automatically eligible for membership in the Lettermen's Club. A boy must attend at least half of the meetings to be considered an active member. The club meets approximately once a month and arranges many of the details of the school sports functions. The lettermen aid the spectators at ball games during the year. They park cars and take tickets at the doors. They sponsor many after-game dances. They usher at home basketball games, distribute programs, and handle the line markers.

A boy receives his letter sweater if he is on the varsity squad and has had two years of previous service in the same sport. In his freshman year a boy may earn a bronze medal, while a sophomore may earn an 8 inch letter.

The club is sponsored by athletic department director, Samuel Kelly. The officers are Jim Myers, president; Mike Albright, vice-president; Byron Bayne, secretary; Phil Crandal, treasurer; Tom Clapp, chaplain; and Ron Bowling, sergeant at arms. The vice-president always succeeds the president.

Members of the football team, Bud Bayne, Tom Ott, and Larry Bishop enjoy a victory celebration. The free lunch, given to these lettermen, is furnished by the athletic department for a well-played game.

GAA, Girls' Athletic Association, is a club for all girls interested in athletics. The club is sponsored by Miss Janice Brown, who helps to instruct the girls in bowling, gymnastics, tennis, archery and other skills. The main goal of this club is to promote good sportsmanship in all sports.

In December the GAA, with the help of the Lettermen, sponsored the Winter Wonderland Dance. Mike Dye, senior, reigned as king of the dance, which was held after school in the cafeteria. Other candidates were Brian Holt, senior; Charles Deeter and Barry Wenzler, juniors; Dale Barrett and Larry Bishop, sophomores and Gary Lepper and Tim Thornburg, freshmen. As usual, Santa Claus was present to talk to the students and teachers attending the dance. The Winter Wonderland Dance is the only dance held during the school year for all classes where students may attend without dressing up.

The officers were Dianna Crossland, president; Janice Townsend, vice-president and Janet Wagaman, secretary-treasurer. As officers, they were in charge of the various committees for the Winter Wonderland Dance.

In the spring the GAA holds indoor and outdoor meets. Inside the girls prepare for tumbling, parallel bars, and rings and other apparatus events. Judges officiating at the meets are from the Athenaeum Turners. They award ribbons to the winner. The last of May begins practice for outdoor sports events. Girls tone their muscles for sprinting events and baseball.

At the Winter Wonderland Dance, Miss Janice Brown GAA sponsor, tells Santa what she wants for Christmas. The girls practice many sports in GAA and learn valuable techniques. They display their skills in a gym meet held in the spring.

and projects as a unit

Many styles of dancing could be seen at the Winter Wonderland Dance this year. Although the twist is still practiced by some, new dances such as the "leg" and the "dog" are very popular. Seniors Marcia Earley, Lonnie Mikolon, Judy Mishler and junior Nick VonStaden, demonstrate their version.

Mike Dye, chosen King at the Winter Wonderland Dance, dances with Frances Short. The other candidates were Brian Holt, senior; Charlie Deeter, Barry Wenzler, juniors; Dale Barrett, Larry Bishop, sophomores; Gary Lepper and Tim Thornburg, freshmen. The annual dance, sponsored by the GAA and Lettermen, is held after school.

Tower staffers work vigorously to keep

Liz Smith, Editorial Editor, is busy "cutting" and "pasting up" to get the finishing touches on the paper completed by pick-up time. This work must be done for each edition of the TOWER.

Drawing pads, selling advertising space, and charging accounts keep advertising manager Carolyn Keetay active. The Tower sells advertising space to local business firms in order to continue publication.

Howeites up on school news

The TOWER is Howe's school newspaper. The staff strives to keep the students in touch with all the activities and happenings at Howe. The paper also gives students the chance to read how other Howe students think and feel about important events and systems on the editorial page.

The staff of the TOWER obtained invaluable experience in journalistic writing and procedures. Mr. Steve Carlson, the advisor, and his staff faced deadlines, money shortages, and printing problems to keep the TOWER coming to the Howe populace. Carolyn Holman, the Editor-in-Chief, with the help of Mr. Carlson, keeps the rest of the staff busy getting in copy, planning layouts, and supplying advertisements.

Many of the TOWER staff members are enrolled in Mr. Carlson's 5J journalism course, or are previous graduates. In this course students learn how to write good journalistic copy, study many national newspapers and become acquainted with journalistic procedures. Many of the themes that these journalism students write for class assignments are published in the TOWER. After completing this course, the students who are still interested can join the TOWER staff and have much more of their work published in the paper.

Publishing a school newspaper is no easy job. People must be interested, ads must be obtained, the copy must be faultless, pictures must be taken and developed, and the finished papers must be circulated to subscribers. It isn't easy, but any TOWER staff member will tell you it is worth it and is fun.

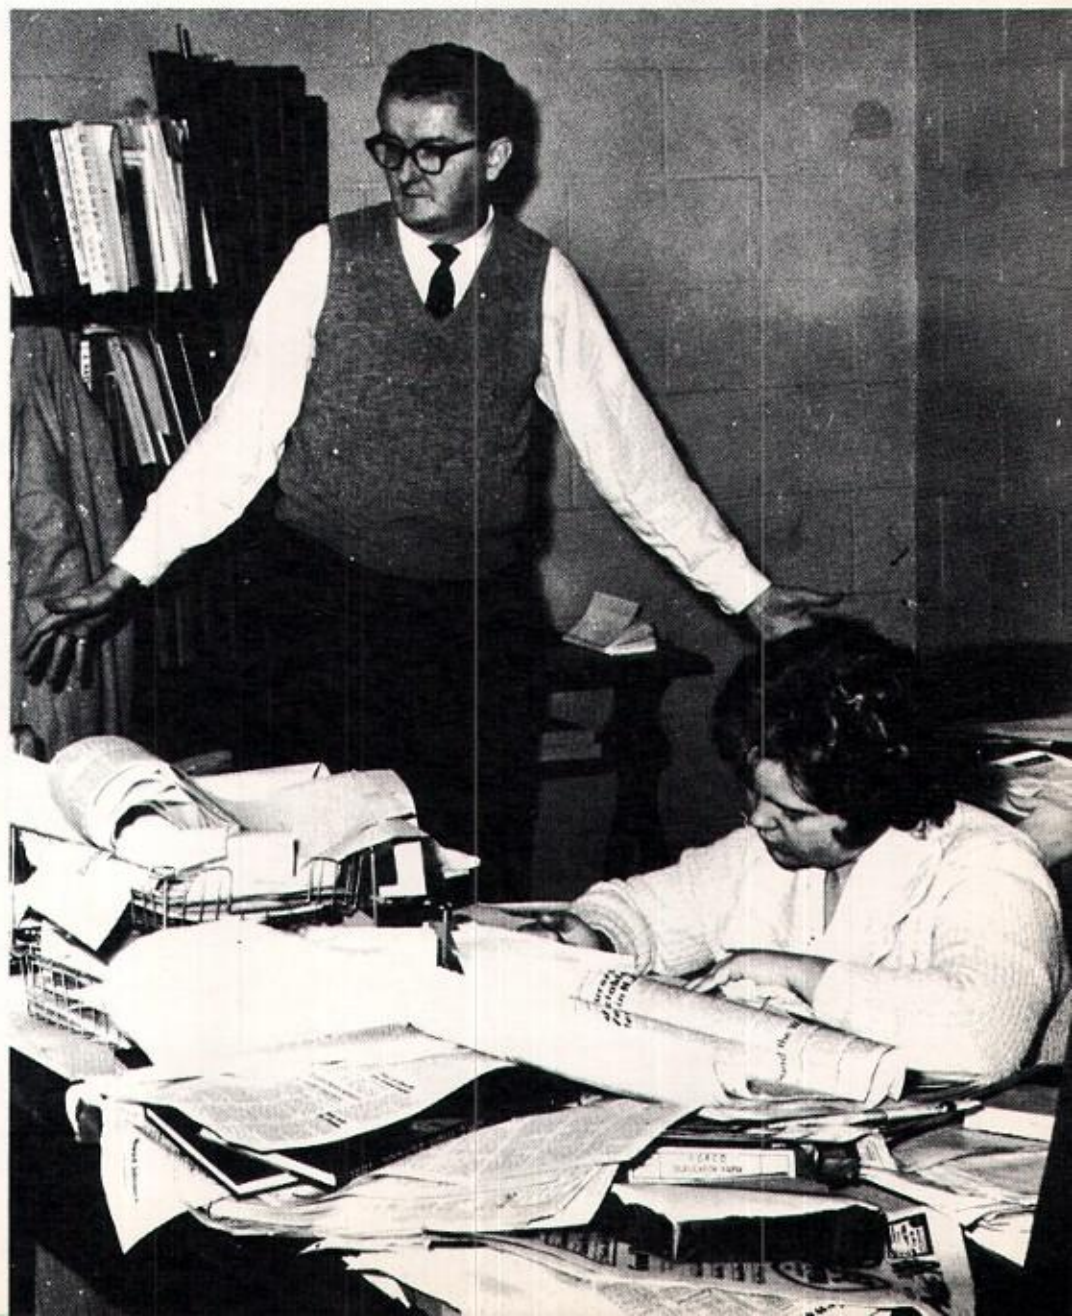

Jennifer Bradley, Susie Campbell, Carolyn Holman, Marcia Chandler, Becky Zander, and Sharon Frech comprise the editorial staff of Howe's yearbook and newspaper.

Staff members of the Howe TOWER daily check the assignment board for possible jobs. Assignments are pasted up by page editors, then reporters are to fulfill the posted duties. Having completed his article, Stephen Payne crosses his name off the given list.

Mr. Carlson, director of Howe publications, strikes a familiar pose to awaiting staff members. Mr. Carlson is responsible for the publication of the bi-weekly school newspaper.

HILLTOPPER sponsors first dance in the new cafeteria

Here, the sponsor of the HILLTOPPER, Mr. Leucht, is making plans to meet the final deadline. He puts in much time to help produce a fine yearbook.

Between deadlines, assemblies, decorating, and dances the book is finally completed. Credit belongs to the busy HILLTOPPER staff which devotes countless hours to the yearbook.

In the spring the selection of the staff members is carried out by the faculty advisor and the senior staff members. It is then the task of the new HILLTOPPER staff to make plans for the Turnabout Twirl. After this, the staff prepares itself for the busy fall schedule awaiting their return.

Five staff members attended summer workshops to gain knowledge and experience in yearbook production. Jennie Bradley, Susan Campbell, Becky Fahrback, and Bonnie Graham attended yearbook institutes at Michigan State University, while Jerry Stanbrough attended the Indiana University photography workshop.

To start the year the staff produced and directed the annual HILLTOPPER assembly as a means of getting the subscription campaign underway. The highlight of the assembly was the announcement of Brown Boy and Golden Girl candidates. The Brown Boy candidates were Brent Anderson, Nick Von Staden, Tom Clapp, and Jon Reynolds. Golden Girl candidates included Jane Collins, Betty Cronau, Juliane Alberding, and Diane Corbin. The new cafeteria was used for the Brown and Gold. The Brown Boy and Golden Girl chosen by the Howe students were Nick Von Staden and Diane Corbin.

The staff writes captions, takes pictures and meets deadlines to produce an All American yearbook. The twenty-two member staff under the direction of Mr. Leucht completes the book near the spring of the school year.

Enjoying the facilities of the new wing, students dance on the patio, to the music of the Pastels Dance Band at the Brown and Gold. HILLTOPPER staff members decorated the cafeteria and patio after school Friday, and on Saturday, the day of the dance. The teachers' cafeteria was used for refreshments, and the cafeteria for the dance floor. Here, Howeites and their dates dance on the patio. Though the weather was chilly, the dancing and "dressing up" made for an evening of fun and excitement at the annual Brown and Gold.

Susie Campbell, one of the HILLTOPPER's industrious editors, finds the perfect way to drape crepe paper for the annual Turnabout Twirl. Perched unsteadily atop a ladder, Susie ties the pink, blue, and white paper to a basketball hoop.

At the annual Brown and Gold Dance, Nick VonStaden and Diane Corbin are crowned Brown Boy and Golden Girl. The dance this year was held in the new cafeteria.

Tri-Hi-Y provides Christian fun and fellowship

Three Howe representatives went to the Tri Hi-Y summer conference last year. They were Sally Brandt, Elaine Graves and Linda Elder. They learned techniques in leadership.

Tri Hi-Y, a club for junior and senior girls, is affiliated with the YMCA. This service, is designed to help the school in many ways. The theme for this year's club is "you," with the goal to become better Christian women. One of the annual activities of Tri Hi-Y is the Model United Nations which takes place in the Spring. Representatives from the various participating schools go as delegates from foreign countries.

President Sally Brandt, vice president Elaine Graves, and secretary Linda Elder, attended the National Hi-Y, Tri Hi-Y Convention on the campus of St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minnesota.

Outside speakers and interesting films are part of the program planned for the Tri Hi-Y meetings. Swim parties are held at the Eastside YMCA during the year for members of the club.

Marion County Hi-Y and Tri Hi-Y officers are invited to spend a week at Flat Rock Camp. During this week, the officers learn about their various duties to their school club, and they discussed possible ways to improve Tri Hi-Y clubs of following years.

Tri Hi-Y was a busy time for all concerned. Last minute preparations are being made by Sally Brandt, president, and Miss McLane, the faculty sponsor. The initiates are busy preparing too.

A very active club at Howe is the Selofra Club. Selofra is the freshman girls' club, and helps new freshmen become acquainted with the school and their classmates.

Selofra meets twice a month and has various activities during the year. The girls learn to improve their appearance with the proper application of make-up. Older students come in at intervals and give the girls tips on how to get along better at Howe, both scholastically and socially. Panel discussions on many different subjects add variety to other meetings.

Members of Selofra look forward to their annual style show. The girls write, direct, and produce their own show. They model clothes which are the current styles. Many students make the clothes which they model.

One of the most popular parties given by the Selofra Club is the Freshman mixer. This is held in January to introduce the new 9B's to their classmates. Girls are given green ribbons to wear to denote their class standing. In addition to the Freshman mixer, Selofra has an annual Christmas party. This is given in cooperation with the Tri-Hi-Y.

Selofra, a traditional club at Howe, makes the Freshman year much more enjoyable for many girls. Miss Hall is this year's sponsor.

Each year the Selofra Club offers friendship and organized activities to freshman girl members. At the annual Christmas party the arrival of Santa Claus with a free gift for each girl, ends a semester of merrymaking.

Speech Club increases poise and confidence

Speech Club is an organization of Howe pupils interested in public speaking. Members of Speech Club participate in local and state speech meets in many areas of public speaking and drama. Some of these are poetry reading, extemporaneous speaking, original oratory, radio announcing, and the latest addition, debate.

Officers of the Speech Club this year were president, Sue Scott; vice president, Suzi Applegate; and secretary-treasurer, Jane Fine. Faculty sponsor was Mr. Steven Briggs. Mr. Briggs also teaches regular Speech classes.

The newly organized Debate Team had a very successful season. Their records were, 14-1 and 8-8. They were rated second in the City-County Division. The members are Don Coffin, Steve Payne, Doug Runciman, Lee Lyndes, and Larry Rainey.

Bob Bruner, Cappy Hert, and Jim Delph present their platform play, "Pygmalion" to an eager and receptive audience.

Hi-Y, meeting once every two weeks at the Eastside YMCA, is sponsored by Mr. Harry Totten. The members state their purpose "to create, maintain and extend throughout home, school, and community high standards of Christian character."

The club had swimming parties throughout the year at the "Y" and sponsored several money-making projects. The boys checked coats at the Brown and Gold, and sold refreshments and checked coats at several after-game dances this winter.

Highlighting their social calendar, the Hi-Y boys had a fall informal Sweetheart Dance in the cafeteria. Vying for Hi-Y Sweetheart for 1963 were Joyce Brandt, Connie Harrell, Dana Kovac, Betty Leach, Sherene Personett and Paula Stanifer. The girls were nominated by Hi-Y members and were voted on by those attending the November 16 dance. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the Sweetheart, Paula, by Ward Poulos, the president of the Student Council.

One Hi-Y activity that the boys really enjoy is the Model UN. Patterned after the United Nations in New York City, the model involves delegation from all the Hi-Y and Tri Hi-Y Clubs in Marion County. Members take the roles of representatives from the United Nations countries, and try to act on the floor of the Model UN as the real representatives might act. Each Hi-Y and Tri Hi-Y sends three members to the UN, a chairman, a delegate and an alternate.

The Hi-Y Sweetheart Queen candidates were, top to bottom, Paula Stanifer, Connie Harrell, Joyce Brandt, Dana Kovac, Betty Leach, and Sherene Personette. The Queen, Paula, was crowned at the dance held in the fall.

Elections climax voting for upperclassmen

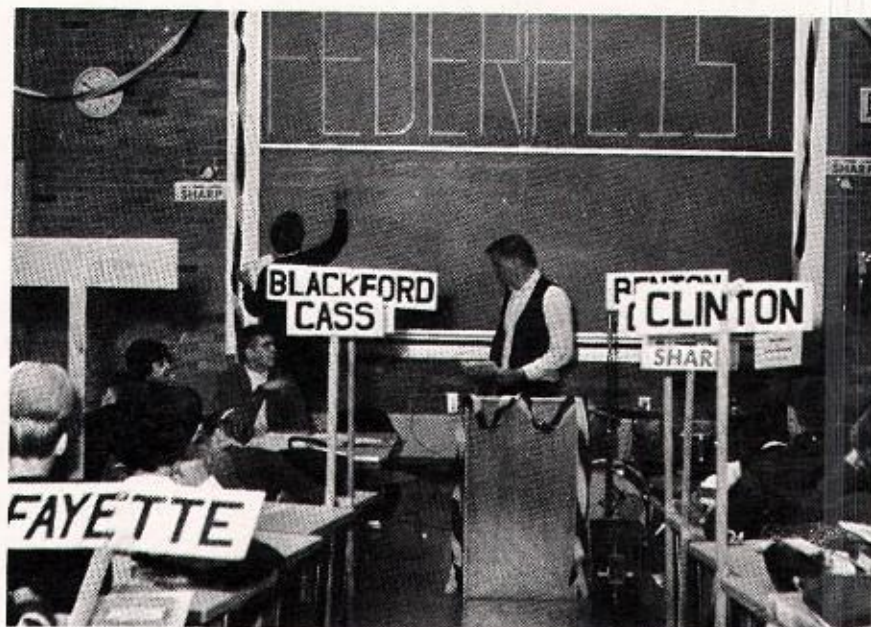

Newly-elected-state officers, all Federalists, Scott Klein, lieutenant-governor; Allan Wilkins, auditor; Mike Fulford, treasurer and Chuck Mundy, governor, congratulate each other. Missing from the victory celebration is Susie Stillabower, also a Federalist, who was elected by the State of Howe as Secretary of State.

Federalist State Chairman Bill Evans looks to keynote speaker Chuck Guhl for advice about the voice balloting at the convention in the science lecture room. Nancy Tyree counts votes at the table with Chuck, as Pam Stone tabulates the vote on the blackboard.

Each year the Social Studies Department sponsors a mock election, including a primary election, a convention, campaigning, and finally the election. The two opposing parties, the Nationalist and the Federalist, struggle for control of the government of the state of Howe. The students participating are those enrolled in U. S. History, Government, or Economics. Campaigning includes party rallies complete with pep bands, parades through the halls, colorful posters, campaign slogans, speeches, and the wearing of party streamers and buttons.

This year the Federalist party swept the election, capturing all but one state office. The new government of Howe was Federalist Chuck Mundy, and Scott Kleine, of the same party, was elected lieutenant-governor. The Secretary of State, Susie Stillabower, was also Federalist, giving that party the privilege of having their candidates on the top row of the voting machine. The voting machine, which is authentic although smaller than those used in a real election, was presented to Howe by the American Legion.

Nationalist State Convention delegates sit in session as a voice vote is taken for Secretary of State. Steve Grubbs won the nomination by a slim margin on the third ballot. Other Nat choices were Eric Briggs, governor; Lewis McQueen, lieutenant governor; Jennie Bradley, auditor; and Mike Bozzelli, treasurer. Despite furious campaigning, Nationalists went down in defeat, their only elected officer being Susie Campbell, an appellate court judge.

History clubs link past, present and future

A new interest has been taken in the history clubs at Howe. Those interested in the life of their forefathers may enjoy the Civil War Club. The modern day problems are taken into view by the Current Affairs Club. Both organizations offer students a wider range and more detailed study of history than is offered in the classroom.

The Civil War Club is sponsored by Mr. Phillip Brown. The officers of the club are Bill Horn, president; Becky Zander, vice president and Barbara Clark, secretary. Members benefit from speakers and occasional films at the meetings which are held twice a month. It is affiliated with the Indiana Junior History Society and is the only Civil War Club in the state.

The Current Affairs Club also sponsored by Miss Nancy Adams deals with the current happenings around the world. The officers are co-presidents, Greg Henderson and Richard Thomas and secretary, Susan Hahn. The purpose of the Current Affairs Club is to provide the members with a better background of the international events of today.

Richard Thomas, co-president of the Current Affairs Club, frequently heads discussions concerning the problems of today. The spread of Communism is the problem most critically studied. Debates and topics make meetings lively.

Math and science students find extra-curricular clubs in their departments of study very stimulating.

Mr. Justin Rehm sponsors the Math Club. Listening to outside speakers and working tricky problems tickles the brains of these future mathematicians. Mrs. Mary Smuck takes care of freshman algebra students in the Subset Club. The club is so named because a "subset" is part of a whole, in this case, the Math Club.

Howe's Foreign Language Department is augmented by two extra-curricular clubs, the Latin Club and the International Club. Sponsored by Mrs. Vesta Cohee, the Latin Club (pictured on page 63) engages in studies concerning their members' chosen language. Early in the year, the club staged a Roman wedding. And, at the beginning of each bi-monthly meeting, the club officers offer wine to the gods, a Roman tradition. Officers of the club are co-consuls, a scriptor and Vestal Virgins.

The International Club, combining the former Spanish Club and French Club, is sponsored by Mr. Raymond Hulce, who teaches Spanish. Since all the students do not understand the same tongue, except English, meetings are conducted in English. High-lights of the year were a hootenanny of songs from France, Mexico and Spain. One of the most active clubs in the school, the International Club draws its membership from those interested in perfecting their foreign language study.

Three very lucky young Howeites became world travelers last summer. Sarah Bell, Steve Payne and Lee VanCamp, because of their excellence in French, won grants from the Indiana University Honors Program, and spent eight weeks in Brittany perfecting their proficiency with a second tongue. At the town of Saint-Brieuc, the three were housed in French homes, with French families, which soon became nearly as close to them as their own at home. Study, six days a week, was accomplished entirely in French, as each of the Indiana students had signed a pledge before leaving the United States that, once on French soil, he would speak only French.

"In class," said Steve, "the bell would ring and I'd go outside and speak English again. But in France, I had to learn to depend on myself to find the words I needed!"

Trips to Mont Saint Michel, Cannes, Cologne and, at the end of August, to Paris, highlighted the summer. In addition to the tourist spots and national shrines, the Honors Program students got to see how the French people really live. One day, a parade in Saint-Brieuc brought out the Breton folk dress and old musical instruments. Large meals in the country where eating is nearly a sacrament would have put several pounds on the travelers had it not been for the miles-long walks to and from the French school everyday.

Language clubs stress proficiency in foreign tongue

Howe's language lab helps French, Spanish, and Latin students to better understand the languages. Tapes of native speakers can be heard along with exercises and drills to help pupils with grammar.

Lynn Anderson submits to treatment of an injured knee by Mrs. Whaley, school nurse, who treats ailing patients throughout the school day.

Training the students of Howe for their future occupations, Mrs. Whaley, the school nurse, sponsors the Future Nurses Association. Guest speakers, films, and tours of hospitals, nursing schools, and rehabilitation centers are regular occurrences at the FNA meetings. The girls planned a Christmas Party for the Franklin Old Folks' Home as a main service project of the year. Although snow prevented such a program, a short skit and cookies were prepared for the occasion. This year officers are Donna Steffen, president; Patty Garrity, secretary; Joy Solenberg, corresponding secretary; and Peggy Nation, program chairman. Future Nurses Club helps to acquaint its members with nursing as a career and the medical profession.

Future Business Leaders of America helps to make business interesting for many students. Speeches from businessmen, field trips that are taken, and group studies of business problems are a part of the club sponsored by Mrs. Pat Aman, and Mr. George Jackson. At the fall open house the Future Business Leaders presented a style show to instruct students and interest parents in what the appropriate dress for "job hunting" is now in the business world.

The boys who operate the school's public address system had some new problems, but the extensive new system for the new wing added this year, the auditorium and cafeteria sound equipment were welcomed by all, especially sponsor Mr. Richard Hammond. The PA operators maintain all the equipment, supervise daily home room broadcasts, and operate the central sound system for productions in the auditorium, dances in the gym and cafeteria, and athletic contests of all kinds.

Organized for those who like to spend their time playing chess, the Chess Club helps students improve their skill, in the game. Rivalry for honor within the club was kept at a peak, as Mr. Jack Weaver and club members learned an enjoyment and quality in the game.

The Audio-Visual Club spends one period a day showing films to various science, English foreign language, business education, health and social studies classes. They allow Howe students to view more than one thousand films a year on the schools thirty-five sound projectors. On Honors Day in June, club members who have served five semesters receive a pin for recognition. Mr. Hammond, sponsor, also recommends other members who are awarded citations of merit.

Public address system operators, Mike Burk, Dave Kinsey and Brian Craig, spent much time in the sound booth in the new auditorium this year. They handled sound equipment for Howe's productions.

Cardwell, Tuschhoff, Hinsch, Stockdale, Jourdan, Smith; (FIRST ROW) Troha, Dickerson, Whitmore, Gray, Hert, Stillabower, Spellman, Allgood, Leach, Keith, Burris, McKay, Driver. The girls serve the school by carrying teachers' and office messages.

Some of the busiest students in the school are the office messengers. Each spends at least one period of the day working in Mrs. Loew's office, Mr. Wolf's office, or in one of the pupil personnel offices. Messengers deliver notes to students and teachers, guide new pupils and visitors around the building, and type and run off general school notices. Other helpers aid the office staff by sorting mail and helping with the part-time and all-day absence lists. Some of the messengers are not located in the central offices, but help department heads, or the school nurse, Mrs. Whaley. Business students serve as Bookstore assistants and run errands for the manager, Mrs. Schmitz.

Mr. Trinkle will tell any inquirer that his faithful right-hand men are the business managers. The managers, mostly upperclassmen, have in charge the financial records of almost all extra-curricular activities, such as the PRR, all plays, club parties, and most of the athletic events. They keep the records, usher, and sell and take tickets. All this work takes at least one period a day in Mr. Trinkle's office. Current house manager is Fred Faude. Business managers are Betty Leach, Janice Townsend, Dana Kovac, Linda Elder, Ward Poulos and Jeanne Embry. The sophomore assistant is Judy Fenters. At Honors Day in the spring, business managers receive a certificate of honor.

through ATHLETICS

Vigorous competition coupled with hard and long practice hours spelled success for Howe athletic teams this year. Even when the Hornet boys were not victorious, they never lacked spirit, and they worked ahead to win the next time. Football gridmen reported in August to begin training, and soon wrestlers started practice for the grappling season. Spring brought out the tennis racket and baseball glove. Always, through the year, fans cheered the Howe teams on from the stands, showing always the loyalty so typical of the Hornets' followers. Managers slaved faithfully for the teams, and the coaches inspired the men to do well in each field. Through the year, Howe boys did their school proud in sports and sportsmanship.

Mathieson urges Varsity in Warren victory

Howe players and coaches are intent on the action at the September 13 game, when the Hornets tied Crispus Attucks High School.

1963 VARSITY FOOTBALL RESULTS

Howe 0		Tech 47
Howe 6		Attucks 6
Howe 13		Manual 13
Howe 6		Noblesville 20
Howe 6		Broad Ripple 36
Howe 0		Madison Heights 27
Howe 0		North Central 14
Howe 6		Warren Central 0
Howe 6		Washington 13
Howe 13		Secina 39

The varsity football team had a much improved season under the experienced coaching of Lester Mathieson. They compiled a 1-7-2 season by defeating Warren Central and tying Attucks and Manual. The win over Warren Central was the first win Howe had experienced in two years.

Because of the team's enthusiasm with the new coach and the returning lettermen, the student body's interest was heightened to a peak never before reached during the two preceding football seasons. The faculty sponsored a very unusual pep assembly before the Washington game, and many participated in a pep rally and motorcade before the Broad Ripple game.

On November 26, several outstanding members of the football team received special recognition at the fall athletic awards banquet. Buddy Bayne received the Kiwanis Best-Mental-Attitude Award, and Ron Bowling received the Most Valuable Player Award. Jim Myers and Steve Day were named co-captains. The awards were voted on by the members of the team.

After the final game against Secina, many of the team turned in their uniforms for the last time and regretfully ended their high school football careers. Others turned them in with the hope that next year they could wear the Brown and Gold jerseys.

Howe's football future is encouraging. The future team is comprised of many varsity players participating under Coach Mathieson. Striving for an improved season next year, the team will need the full support of all the student body.

Miller prepares Reserves for promising season

The reserve football squad practiced many nights after school to learn proper offense and defense positions. Here the boys demonstrate effective tackling.

Even though the reserve football team did not win a game this season, they put out a great deal of time and effort on the practice field and in the games. The boys played several good games against tough opposition, but could never quite complete the job. However, they were able to gain valuable experience on the gridiron which is so vital to future successful football teams.

Perhaps the highlight of every game was the enthusiastic coaching of Ron Miller, a favorite among Howe fans, on or off the field. Mr. Miller played professional football for the Indianapolis Warriors this season when he was not coaching the reserves. His place kicking was the key to several of the Warriors' victories.

Howe's reserves scored a total of 26 points, making their best show against Broad Ripple, 13-20. Good performances were displayed by Herb VanKeuren, John Richardson, Angel Sales and Allan Chastain. The hard work of Coach Miller and the team shows promise of a better season next year.

One of the main objects of freshman football is learning the skills of the game, and good sportsmanship. The freshman team did not win any games this year, but great experience was attained. The team is coached by David Stewart, Howe history teacher, and Harrison Richardson, Howe math teacher. This picture shows Howe playing Attucks where Howe lost, 27 to 0.

The freshman football team is coached by David Stewart of the Howe history department, and Harrison Richardson, of the Howe Math department. There were 42 boys on the team, and 3 managers assisted the coaches at practice.

This is Coach Stewart's second year at Howe, as a teacher. He is a previous Howe student. When at Howe as a student, he was an outstanding athlete, and he was an especially good football and basketball player.

Although the team did not win any games, all the boys developed a greater understanding of the sport. The boys also developed a great deal of good sportsmanship.

The upperclassmen supported the team well, and many spectators turned out for most of the home games. The home games were played at Howe, after school, at 4:00 p.m. Freshman and Reserve football teams are the only teams that play home games at Howe, due to the lack of a football stadium at Howe. All the varsity football home games are played at Tech.

Queen Susie reigns over Homecoming

A gala tradition at Howe has always been the annual autumn Homecoming. Pretty queen candidates in party dresses, the band's half-time show, and the return of "veteran" alumni are all parts of the Homecoming festivities.

At the September 28 football game with Noblesville, Howe observed Homecoming. Jamboree queen Susie Stillabower, a senior, and her escort, Bob Bruner, rode around the field in an open convertible, leading the other candidates' convertibles. Members of the court and their escorts were Marcia Earley and Chuck Mundy, Karen Judd and Tom Clapp, Carolyn Neel and Nick VonStaden, Charlotte Bassett and Denny Deeter, and Anita Wood and Dale Barrett.

All the candidates walked to the center of the field on a white carpet, where coronation ceremonies were conducted by Mr. Mike Matthews, president of the Alumni Association. Smiling Queen Susie was crowned by Mr. Thomas Stirling, principal, and Student Council president Ward Poulos. Roses from the Student Council and a gold football charm were presented to Susie, and all the candidates received gold mum corsages.

After the half, highly rated Noblesville bounced to a victory, doing their best to spoil an otherwise successful Hornet Homecoming.

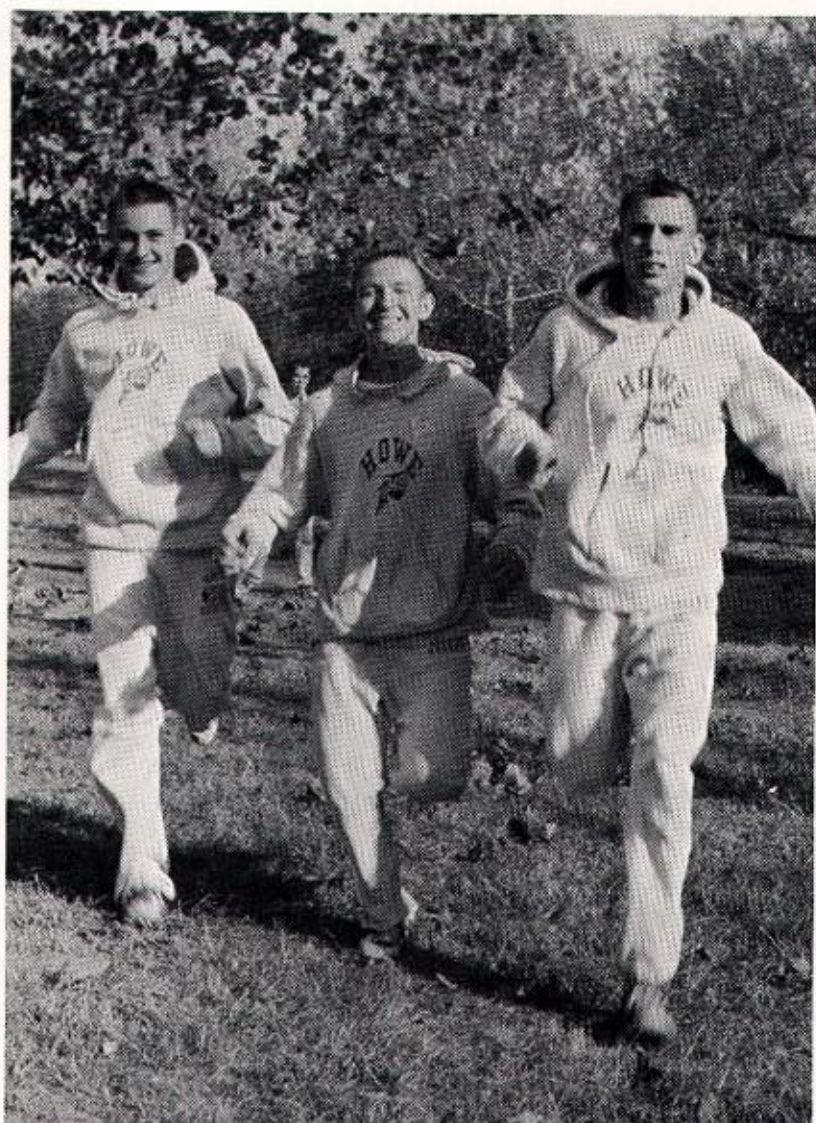

Queen Susie and her proud escort, Bob Bruner, wave to crowds of Howeites. The queen was presented with a dozen yellow roses.

Inexperience hurts cross country varsity while

The varsity cross country team, hurt by a lack of experience, posted a record of two wins and three losses in dual meets. The team was led in its victories over Lawrence and Attucks by a group of promising underclassmen. Junior Eddy Pearson was presented with the Ray Bowman Award for the outstanding runner on this year's squad. Another junior, Ric Steele was elected captain by his teammates. The prospects for next year are brightened by excellent reserve and freshman records. The reserve record was five wins against only one loss while the frosh also compiled a five and one record, plus a first in the city meet. All of the cross country teams are coached by Rex Anderson.

Cross country requires hard work and plenty of practice. The boys work out every afternoon during the fall for several hours. Shown in the picture at the left are three of Howe's most consistent runners, Ric Steele, Paul Youngkin, and Eddie Pearson, as they run through a workout. This trio led the Howe harriers throughout the season.

Ric Steele crosses the finish line as a crowd of Howe partisans yell encouragement to the next Howe runner. The varsity harriers have to run two miles in their meets. It takes long hours of practice to build up the strength and endurance which are required in running cross country.

Hard work and long hours of practice paid off in four victories for Coach Denny Krick's varsity wrestlers. The team was able to compile enough points to defeat Broad Ripple, Northwest, Tech and Wood while losing the other seven meets.

The grapplers had several individual standouts in seniors Stan Bradley, Allen Wilkins and Ron Bowling and junior Bill Dobson. All of these boys were runners-up in this year's sectional meet. Bradley posted the best season in Howe's wrestling history with a perfect 13-0 record in dual meets. He also set five new exercise records. Bill Dobson and Allen Wilkins also compiled excellent dual meet records. Stan Bradley was selected as this year's Most Valuable Player and Ron Bowling was elected captain by his teammates.

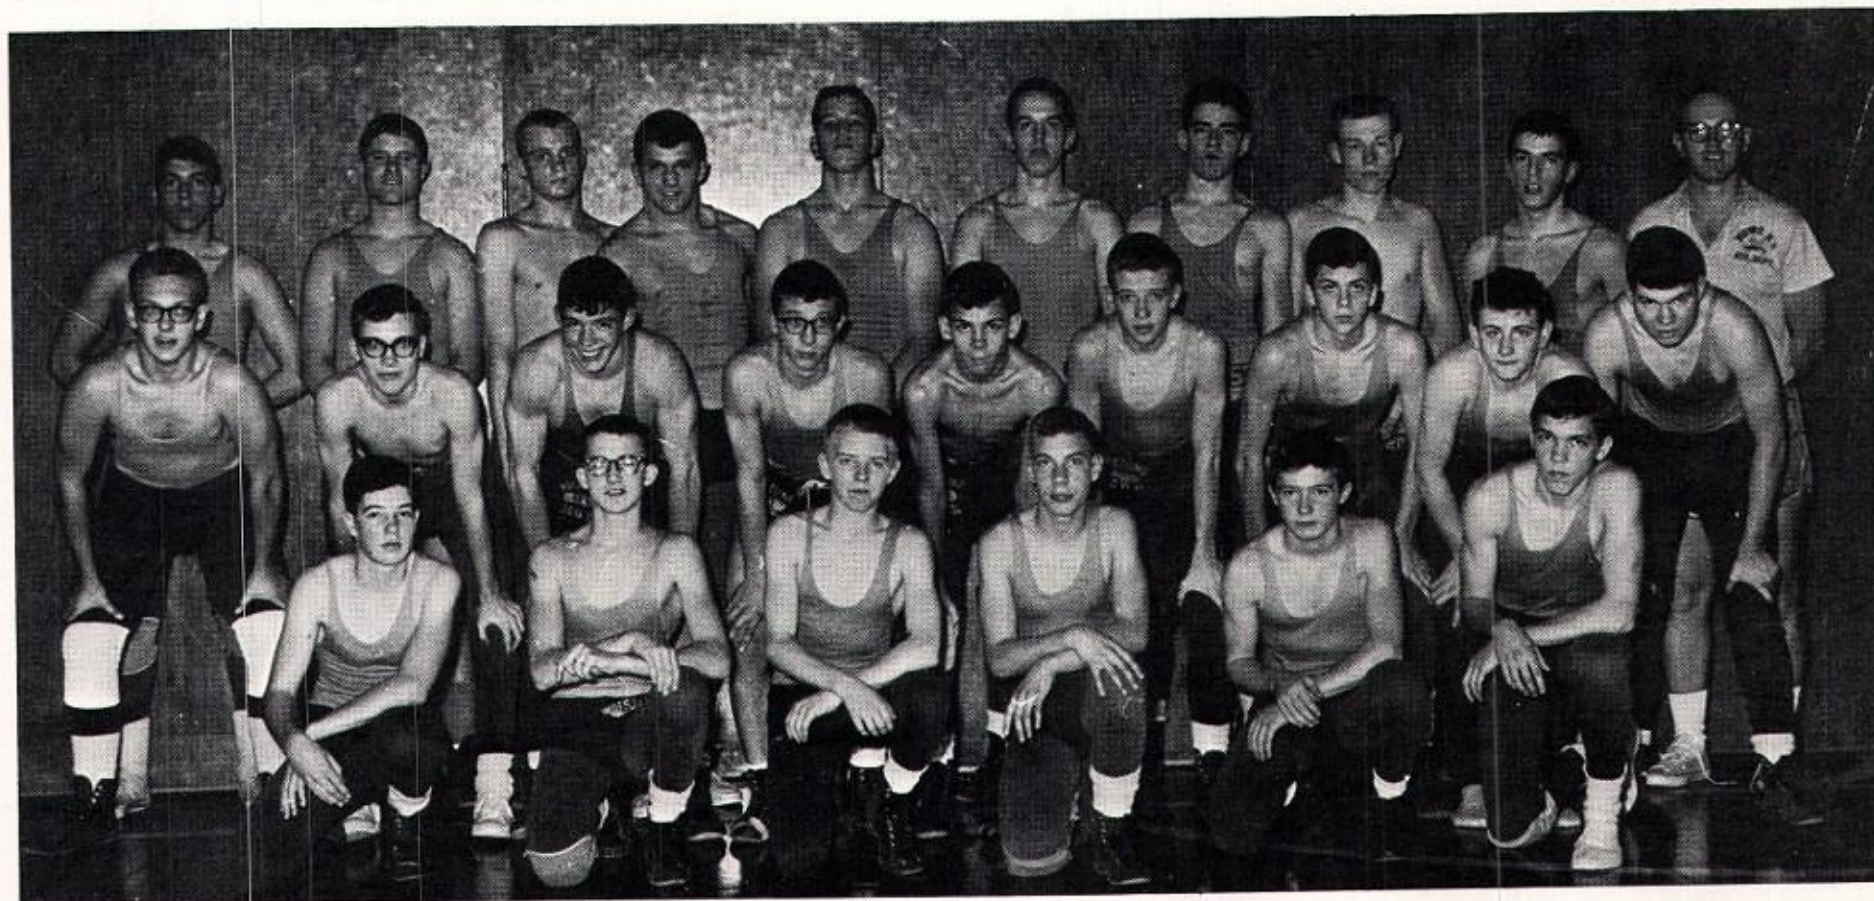

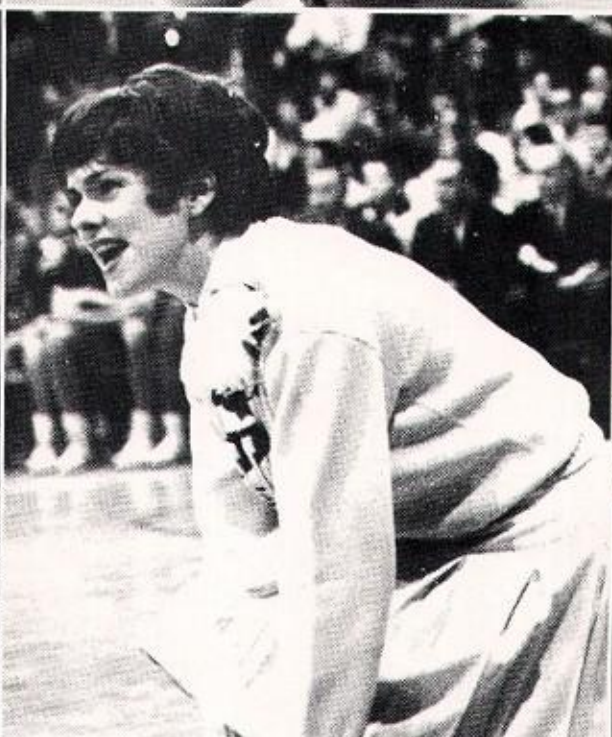

Becoming a successful wrestler requires the mastering of many holds and complicated moves. In the picture above Ron Bowling attempts to keep an opponent from escaping his grasp. Ron was one of the experienced wrestlers who returned this year to lead the team.

Varsity yell leaders for the 1963-64 year cheer at varsity games throughout the athletic seasons. They are Jeanne Embry, the spirited girl who always seems to start the chants; Connie Harrell, who watches every players' moves carefully; Dianna Crossland, whose voice can be heard above the largest crowd; Diane Corbin, famous at Howe for her Chinese splits and three-year varsity veteran Donna Prell, whose enthusiasm for sports is fortunately very contagious. Janice Townsend left Howe in January. A junior, Janice was gifted with an amazing gymnastic ability.

Enthusiasm for Howe sporting events reached a peak this year as athletic teams posted outstanding seasons. Mrs. Barbara Woods, who had taught at Howe previously, returned to the teaching staff with new ideas for the three squads of cheerleaders.

The varsity and reserve yellers were chosen at try-out in spring, 1963. Girls selected for the freshman squad were chosen after school convened in the fall.

Much of the cheerleaders' work is not the fun of leading yells at games. They plan and help execute pep sessions, repair their outfits, spend hours on school spirit buttons and streamers, decorate the teams bus and organize the cheerblock. They often are at school until six o'clock at night.

Another organization that helps spread the Hornet gospel is the Booster Club, which is an outgrowth of the cheerblock of last year. President of the club was Susie Stillabower. The Hornet mascot, a freshman dressed in a hornet-suit, was Becky Graham, who also served on the freshman cheering squad.

This year six freshman girls cheered for the freshman games. They are, (BACK ROW) Marty Collins, Sherene Personett, Sandy Johnson; (FRONT ROW) Susie Weaver, Becky Graham, Kathy Price. These Girls practice with the varsity and reserve cheerleading squads Wednesday nights after school. Mrs. Barbara Woods instructs the girls. They participated in the basketball assemblies by leading the "freshman cheer." These freshman girls also take an active part in the Hornet Cheer Block.

The spirit at Howe this year showed great strides, as Mrs. Barbara Wood returned to the faculty as cheerleader and cheerblock sponsor. Here, after winning Sectionals Mrs. Wood leads the yell "Here's our team." This was one of the many "tourney assemblies" held at 11:00 at night, after cutting down another net.

Dale Barrett, Sophomore, was the number six man on the Varsity team this year. Dale played excellent ball, and proved to be a great inspiration to those on the Freshman and Reserve teams. Dale had an older brother, Denny, who played Varsity Basketball at Howe.

Posting the winningest basketball record (19-8) in 17 seasons, Coach James Stutz's boys traveled the Sectional victory trail for the first time in 20 years. The Hornet five also captured the first Regional crown in the school's history. School spirit set records, too, as enthusiasm for Howe athletics reached a new high. No individual was particularly outstanding, as the Hornet ball club worked together as a team and hit .416 from the field for the whole season. Mr. Stutz, too, was praised for his composure during the net contests. Sportscasters and reporters eulogized the 1963-64 team which played not for a show, but for the sport of the game.

On Thanksgiving eve, 1963, the first game of the season, played against Washington High School, was lost by a 26 point deficit. After that bad beginning, however, the Hornets soared to victories over Arlington, Franklin, North Central, Lawrence Central, Broad Ripple, Shelbyville and Franklin Central. The Christmas holiday brought an impressive loss of seven points at the Tech gym at Columbus, ranked the number one team in Indiana. As the season wore on, the Hornets bowed to Tech twice, once in City Tourney play, and to Attucks, Scecina, and Warren Central. All other games, however, brought victories into the hive in this, Howe's best year of basketball.

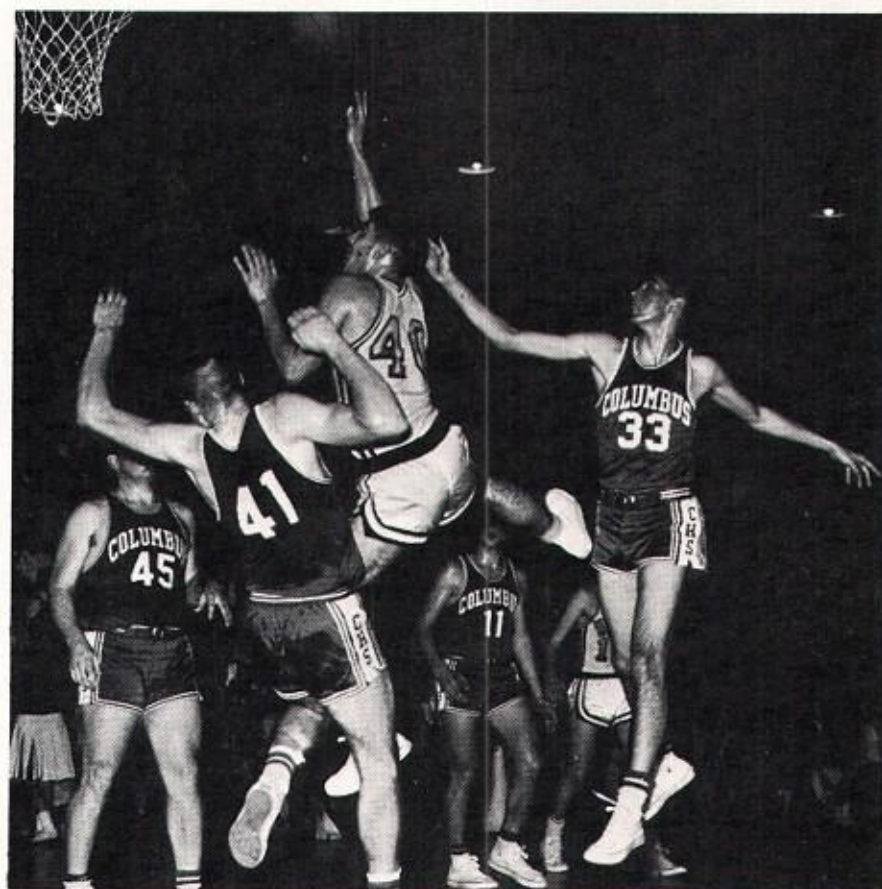

Shown at the left is senior, Chuck Mundy. Chuck has played varsity basketball for the last two years. The shot Chuck is taking is one of his favorites, as he has used it a great deal this year in helping Howe come through its regular season with a 13 win and 7 loss record.

Ric Burrell, senior, displays his famous shot at the Columbus game. The 1963-64 basketball season was Ric's third on the varsity squad. Center is Jon Reynolds. Jon, a senior, played varsity for the first time this year. Jon is recognized by his long, Princeton haircut. At right is junior, Brent An-

Ric Burrell is known to Howeites for his enthusiasm, and as all Howe athletes, for his good sportsmanship.

Enthusiasm and spirit led by the Hornet cheer squad rocketed throughout the Southport Gym and the Butler Fieldhouse this year. Shown here is Jeanne Embry in her brand new Regional outfit. "Gentleman Jim" Stutz showed Howe proud this year. Sports writers couldn't get over the fact that all through the regular season, in defeat, or in victory, Howe was on top when it came to sportsmanship. The young, good-looking coach left the game as cool and calm as he had entered. His composure and good manners were contagious to all Howe fans. These relays are a part of the history of Howe, and this idea was engineered by Howe Athletic Director Sam Kelley, several years ago. Numerous schools from all over the state participate in this track meet.

Carnal takes over coaching the tennis team

The members of the 1963 Reserve Tennis Team are Larry Bell, Dave Cashe, Richard Ford, Jim Meeks, and Richard Dammeyer. Under new tennis coach Bob Carnal, the Varsity and Reserve teams posted good seasons. Mr. Carnal is a teacher of Biology for the Howe Science Department. The 1962-1963 year was his first year at Howe.

The varsity and reserve tennis teams this year were hampered by the graduation of three lettermen.

Under new tennis coach Bob Carnal, of the Science Department, the varsity posted 6 wins and 9 losses, for a season average of .400.

The courts used for many matches and all practices, at Ellenberger Park, were resurfaced for Howe by the park department. Also, new, metal reinforced chain link nets were secured for the Howe racquetmen's use.

The 1963 varsity golf team had an outstanding season, posting 12 wins, 3 losses, 1 tie, and the boys placed 2nd in the City Golf Meet out of 14 teams.

Most of the matches are played at Pleasant Run Golf Course. The team practices there after school several times a week.

Five of the seven boys on the team are boys who graduated in June of 1963. All five of these boys are returning lettermen from the 1962 varsity golf team. These lettermen include Renard, Roessner, Smith, Aronis, and Wise.

The City Championship at stake, in extra innings, a player steps up to the plate to win the Washington game with a bunt. The Championship, shared with Cathedral High School, was the first for the Hornet squad in three years.

Steve Day, who pitched the first no-hitter game in several years at Howe, is shown during the "perfect" game against Ben Davis. The score of this almost unique high school game was Howe 2, Ben Davis 0. Steve was only a junior when he pitched this game, so he will return for the 1964 season.

In his second year as varsity coach, Mr. Denny Krick put together a championship team rivaled in city competition only by Tech and Cathedral High Schools, with whom the Hornet men shared the title. Using a new system this year, the ball team was given more points by defeating a first division team than when it won over a team rated in the second division.

In April, the Hornets opened the spring season against Scecina on the Crusaders' diamond. Sporting seven returning lettermen from the year before, they downed Scecina, 3-1. Returning from the third-ranked 1962 team were Ric Burrell, Don Childers, Phil Crandall, John Eickman, Bob Harris, Mike Martin and Larry Miller. Up from reserve were Stan Bradley, Tom Clapp, Steve Day, Steve Hart, Mike Jenner, Jim Myers, Larry Sanborn and Tim Snell. Later victories were over Sacred Heart and Crispus Attucks High Schools on the home diamond at Ellenberger Park. At Southport, the Hornets were downed, and another defeat was suffered at the hand of the Broad Ripple Rockets. The boys bounced back, then, to win over Zionsville, Arlington, Greenfield, and Warren Central.

Later in the season, the City Championship was decided in the last game in May. At the end of the regular seven innings, both teams were scoreless, and a Howe bunt won the game and the Co-City Championship.

Don Childers was elected captain by his teammates. The Best Mental Attitude Award went to Larry Miller, and Phil Crandall was voted the most improved player. Mike Martin received the most valuable player award, and it was his pitching that silenced the bat of many an opposing player.

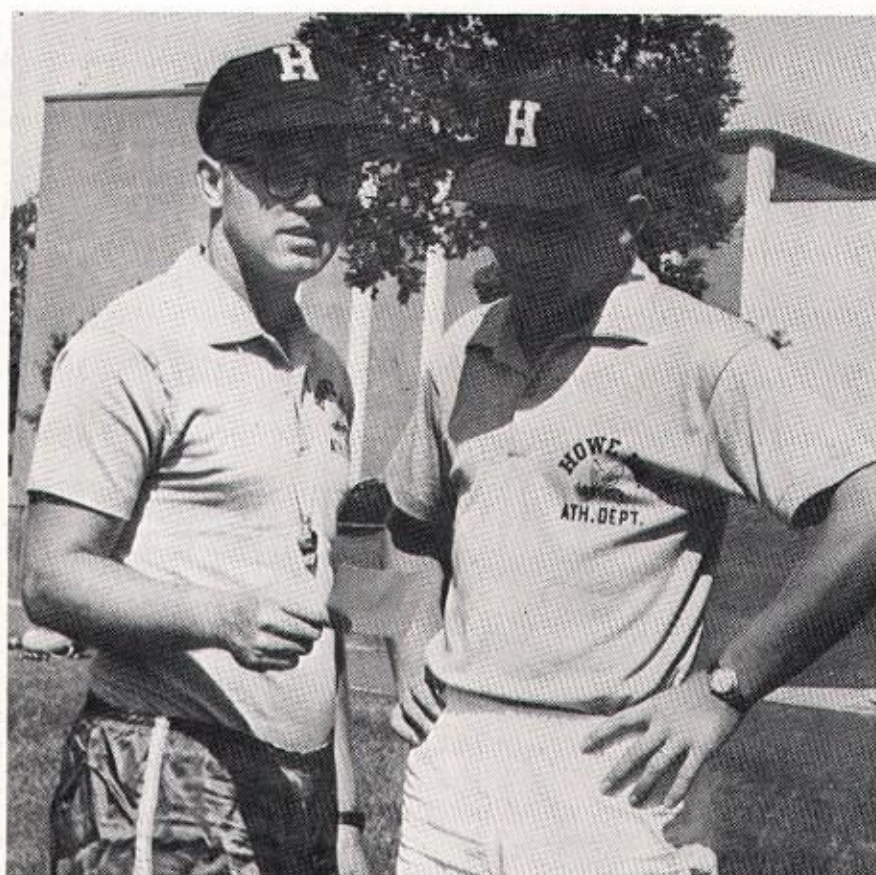

Howeites could only hope for as good a season next year as they had this year, with seven returning lettermen.

Reserve and frosh ball teams post successful seasons

In reserve action, a pitch leaves the mound toward a Broad Ripple batter. That's Dick Britton doing the ball-throwing for the Hornet team. Homes games like this one were played at Ellenberger Park.

Mr. Kenneth Long, freshman baseball coach, posted an outstanding freshman record, 8—3. Here Coach Long is pictured talking to Mr. Lester Mathieson, another member of Howe's coaching staff.

Managers keep busy helping athletic department

Intramurals offers all boys, regardless of their ability, a chance to participate in inter-school sports. There are currently three intramural sports, cross country, basketball and wrestling. Each of these sports has its own faculty advisor to work out schedules and help manage details.

Probably the most popular of all the intramural sports is basketball. There are two separate leagues composed of about twelve teams each. The freshman-sophomore league plays on Wednesday night and the junior-senior league has its games on Thursday night. The champions of the two leagues meet before the senior-faculty game in March.

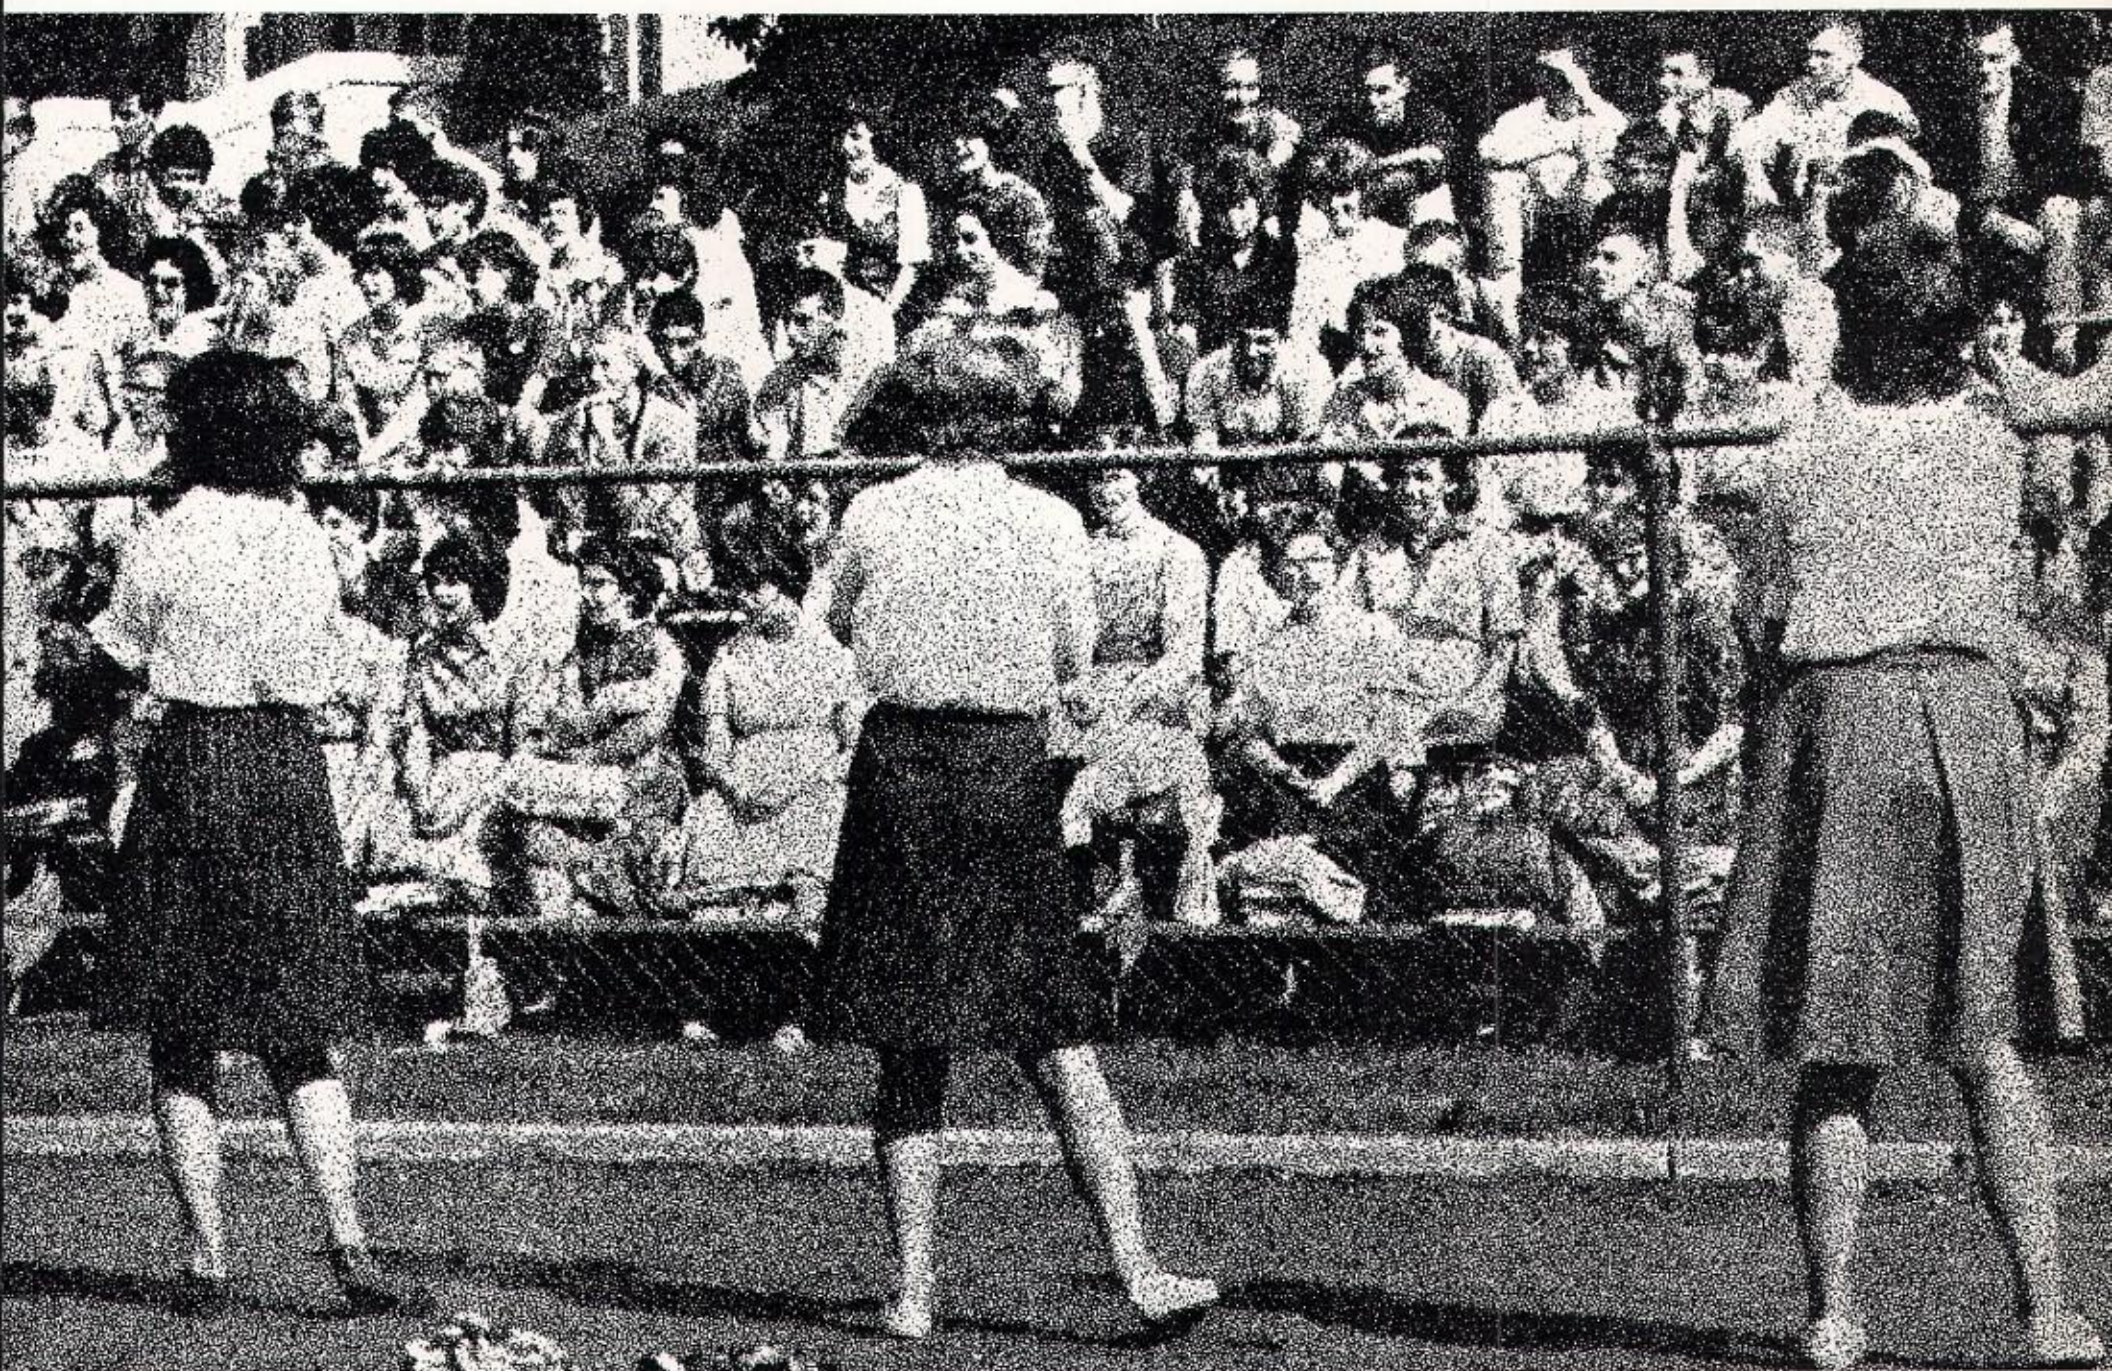

The student athletic managers are another important part of the Howe sports program. These boys, under the direction of Mr. Carnal, spend many hours a week keeping the team and equipment in shape for the games. They attend all athletic contests and practices, starting early and leaving late after athletes have gone home. Their duties include taping ankles, bandaging cuts, treating blisters, and doing anything else which may be required to keep the athletes in top shape. Managers are also in charge of the athletes equipment, and making sure that it is ready for use. They take care of the uniforms, help the coaches by keeping charts and scorebooks at the games and issuing equipment. The managers are seldom noticed by the average Howe sports fan, but they are appreciated by athletes and coaches for whom they work.

Intense rivalries develop as intramural teams attempt to better their records. In the picture below two teams battle for a rebound under one of the baskets.

among PEOPLE

Memories of the past, along with hopes and ideas for the future, spirited the upperclassmen while bewildering the freshmen. Students turned toward studies and the more serious aspects of their world at Howe, but did not forget the excitement of a football game, or the fun of planning the senior play. Plans for the next semester and for college were made by teachers and pupils, and cramming for tests left many of both red-eyed the next morning. Vacations gave to all refreshing breaks from school routine. Parents enjoyed vacations, too, and they were very much a part of school life. The strangers of the first few September days' confusion enjoyed, planned and studied, and by spring, had joined fast friendship.

Vice-Principal Charles Ruschhaupt enjoys looking over the Christmas cards that are displayed on the "card tree" in the office. Mr. Ruschhaupt heads up the school's finance departments.

Here Mr. Stirling shows an informal demeanor that students may not often get to see. He escorts his daughter, Howe alumna Mrs. Susan Little, to his office, and proudly introduces his grandson, Steven Stirling Little.

Stirling, Ruschhaupt, Tout head supervision

Many students at Howe don't actually realize the sizeable job that the principal and vice-principals have to manage. They must take care of all the forms for order. Program forms, study slips and all the work that goes with these necessary processes rests on the shoulders of Howe's administration, and especially with the principal and two vice-principals.

With the addition of twenty-four new teachers to the staff, there was a huge job of getting them acquainted with Howe and the rules and regulations. A teacher new to the school must be shown how to get around, as freshmen must be acquainted with their new school home. A new teacher must be instructed in the many varying technical processes that are necessary to keep Howe operating smoothly. The administration became close friends with each other and with the faculty. All congratulated Miss Gard, Miss Harper and Miss Rardin when they recited wedding vows, and all the men were smoking cigars after the birth of children to the families of Mr. Beck, Mr. Lawson, and Mr. Stutz. They all got together at the annual faculty party in June.

The principals must also plan and regulate the assemblies. They often must prepare themselves to speak for as well as to manage a program. They attend meetings outside school to keep in touch with new methods and ideas of administration. At many school club activities a representative from the administration office must be in attendance. The three give and receive awards and honors with equal dignity for themselves and for the staff, students and Howe.

Laughing at the remembrance of one of the day's happenings, perhaps a joke he heard, or a humorous mistake on a student's study slip, Mr. Frank Tout, a vice principal, leans back in his chair and enjoys a hearty chuckle. Mr. Tout is in charge of pupil personnel and programming.

Teachers at Howe enjoy themselves as well as the students. At a spring get-together the Howe faculty reminisces about excellent pupils as well as silly dunces, floops and successes, and the joys and trials of teaching.

of administration, faculty and student body

Mr. Thomas Stirling, principal, is the head of the Howe faculty. He received his training at Indiana State Teachers College and Indiana University. He taught and coached at several other schools before coming to Howe. He was a teacher of science and social studies before joining the administration. This marks his fifth year in the principal's office.

Mr. Charles Ruschhaupt and Mr. Frank Tout are vice-principals. Mr. Ruschhaupt, financial head at Howe, moved up to the position in 1959. Mr. Tout handles pupil personnel. He returned in 1962 from an exchange year in England to replace Mr. Kenneth Smartz.

Mrs. Mildred Loew, Mr. Hugh Wolf, Miss Maryon Welch and Mr. Harold Crawford are other administrators.

23 new teachers maintain high standards of education

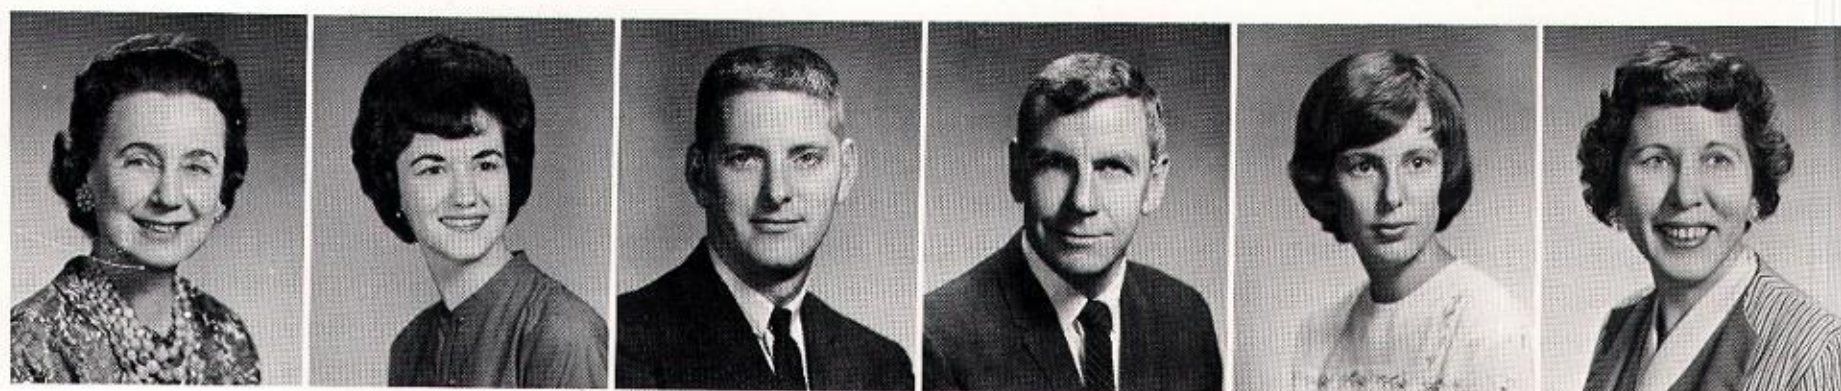

Waiting their turn to run out on the field with the rest of the faculty team are "Killer" Thumma and "Shotgun" Wilcox. The two joined with the other department heads to present a skit about the Washington High School football team in the faculty assembly presented before the Howe-Washington grid contest.

Mr. Steven T. Briggs proudly displays one of his prize-winning roses. This particular bloom captured the first prize blue ribbon at the Indianapolis Garden Club last spring. The speech teacher raises roses and other flowers purely as an avocation, but his "green thumb" is certainly evident. Judges at the garden clubs must think so!

The faculty men and women, their ranks of 124 the largest ever at Howe High School, strived always to keep up with a "pursuit of excellence" goal. Twenty-three new teachers joined the Howe staff this year. Some came from other schools, and some straight from college training.

Many students called the November 3 assembly, presented by the faculty, the best they'd ever seen. Engineered by Mr. John Trinkle, the show was "emceed" by Mr. Steven Briggs and Mrs. Patricia Richardson, and featured a band: Mr. Beck, Mrs. Barbara Wood, and Miss Jerry Motley. The department heads pretended to be the Washington team, led by Mr. Philip Brown and Mrs. Margaret Whaley, who played George and Martha. Mr. Hal Tobin, the Howe Hornet carried off all the Continentals, as the finale.

In class, teachers continued to open the students' view to the vistas of learning, and after hours supported students extra-curricular activities as vigorously as their pupils. A welcome sound was the lunchtime bell which called teachers to their new cafeteria and lounge. But happiest of all, teachers testify, was the dismissal bell.

After lunch, just like at home, comes the task of washing dishes. Gladys Stephens rinses some utensils in one of the new stainless steel sinks.

When a person does something nice for a person, he is not easily forgotten. Howeites agree that we are "blessed" with an overabundance of such people. They are found behind the scenes at Howe activities, and they are rarely repaid enough for their many good deeds.

When we go on a special time schedule, to have longer homerooms or an assembly, many times it comes on the spur of the moment. The people who suffer through the loss of this time are the cafeteria help and the custodians.

When Howe won the Sectional and Regional in basketball, there were several times, such as the time Semi-State tickets were sold, that the lunch periods came 70 minutes. The cafeteria workers kept the food warm for the Howeites, so that all could eat, and the food would be as wholesome a meal as possible. The custodians would have to sweep the gym, put up bleachers, put up ropes around the floor, and do the hundreds of other jobs that they must do every day.

Cafeteria workers, custodians keep Howe running smoothly

Betty Chandler and Cafeteria Manager Helen Obery plan the week's meals. Other cafeteria workers include Maude Adams, Frieda Atwood, Cora Bolmer, Elizabeth Chandler, Rosemary Connor, Martha Dalton, Grace Day, Florence Evans, Marquerite Fender, Edith Green, Gladys Hartle, Hope Henderson, Leona Keukrath, France Hoefling, Hazel Holycross, Stella Irick, Lottie Johnson, Ina Leffler, Clara Mosmeier, Flossie Nugent, Kathleen O'Maley, Fay Plunkett, Anneliese Puschmann, Lucille Reifeis, Maxine Shingleton, Vada Sniler, Helen Stafford, Gladys Stephens, Pauline Ridemann, Margaret Vann, Elise Wood, Doris Williams, Bertha Young.

When are these people thanked? Not often enough. There are always a few favorites, whom students especially like. These are the cafeteria workers who save you a certain piece of pie if you eat seventh hour, and never have a chance to get that kind, or the custodian who is always near the door when you come back to school at 8:00 p.m. the night before your term paper is due, to pick up the rough draft you were just sure you had taken home.

With new facilities this year, the cafeteria food seemed to even look better. Many new dishes were added with the help of the new equipment. Such varieties as pizza, corndogs, Stutz burgers, Regional specials, and Sectional specials became very popular. Most substitutes who travel around Indianapolis high schools agree that Howe is lucky to have such fine food, cafeteria help, and such a clean building. We can only thank for this, the people that make it possible, the custodians and the cafeteria workers.

The custodians, not too upset by the thousands of more floor space in the new wing, which must be swept each night, seemed just as kind and courteous to Howeites as they had been in years past.

This mass of metal and steel is the kitchen of the Howe cafeteria. Here, meals for the Howe "family," teachers, maintenance workers and students, are prepared daily.

behind the scenes

It's carrots for lunch again! And Vada Snyder and Flossie Nugent, cafeteria workers, have their work cut out for them as they join the peeling crew in the morning preparatory hours. They must get the food ready in time for the fourth hour lunch hall at 10:45.

Howe's P. T. A. and Men's 400 Club work hard

Active and appreciated, that's the P-TA! The mothers and dads who belong make up the Parent-Teacher Association at Howe. Working with them is the 400 Club, a fathers' organization.

The prime concern of the P-TA this school year was the raising of money to buy band uniforms. In October, the busy ladies sponsored a band-organ concert in the auditorium. Artists from the Riddick Piano Company presented the evening's entertainment. At the end of the program, the three performers joined together on two organs and a grand piano for a "hooten-organ-piano-anny." A real hootenanny was given in January. The P-TA-sponsored event was arranged by Mr. Bruce Beck and Howe graduate Ric Sims. Some guitar-, banjo-, and tambourine-bearing singers came from other schools, Washington, Arlington and Lawrence Central High Schools. Howe students performing were Sylvia Fischbach, Karen Haas, Gloria Keith, Ken Keene, Larry Morgan, John Woods, Chuck Guhl and the Boys' Octet. Parents, teachers, alumni and students got together for a big "hoot," sponsored by the P-TA. All was for the benefit of the band uniform fund, which also included a candy sale during the December.

The P-TA and 400 Club had their usual member drive in fall. Because so many parents joined the organizations, an oak tree was presented to the school by the National Parent-Teacher Association. The baby tree was planted on the front campus at the October P-TA Council meeting.

P-TA mothers helped Mrs. Wood and the girls' gym classes in the making of shakers, ties, and antennas for cheerblock members during sectionals, regionals, and semi-finals.

"Faculty Frolics" was a great success. Howe teachers showed loads of talent by singing, playing instruments and other talents.

Howe's P-TA has the largest percentage of membership of any high school in the state of Indiana.

Dick Coffin demonstrates for Kathy Price some of the "high pressure" salesmanship he used to win the band-P-TA candy sale. As his prize, Dick, a band member, received a portable transistor radio.

A hootenanny is a gathering of folksingers. Here, from Arlington High School, Stephanie and Chris Reider entertain at the P-TA-sponsored event. The brother-and-sister team proved to be a favorite with the people who packed the school's auditorium.

Alumni recollect past, while they help present Howeites

Howe's alumni, not often heralded, but often remembered, played an important part in school life. All throughout the halls are plaques and reminders to students of the achievements of the past.

Alumni backing was especially noticeable when the present Howe basketball team went to the "Sweet Sixteen" in Indiana High School basketball tournament competition. Alumni Howard Cauldwell, WFBM-TV news commentator, and Richard Wayne Gulthrie, Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Indiana State Legislature, spoke at a pep session before the Semi-State games.

Mr. Harold Crawford and Mrs. Leora Campbell mail through their senior office thousands of correspondences annually to graduates. They are training Connie McAnally, Senior Class Alumni Secretary, to help them with the task in years to come. Mr. Crawford is himself a Howe alumnus. Other faculty "alums" are Miss Janice Borwn, Mr. Fritz Leucht, Mrs. Glenn Pride, Mr. David Stewart and Mr. James Stutz.

At the Howe-Columbus regular basketball game, unusual enthusiasm was generated as many alumni returned to the game played in the Tech gym. Columbus at that time was the number one team in the state.

Pep sessions like this one were often attended by alumni. After the Sectional and Regional victories, fans once Howe students, flocked to the gym to herald the players. At an assembly before the Semi-State game against Columbus High School, prominent alumni spoke to the student body.

Principals, administrators, teachers, parents, alumni and students make up the Howe "family." For the parents, this year was one of sharing school victories with their offspring. For administrators, this was a year of change. To teachers and principals, the 1963-64 school year meant holding high the school's educational standards. For the alumni, this was a year of congratulations which they extended to the present Howeites. Underclassmen shared the thrill of high school fun, and seniors boasted their year was the best, while they looked forward to graduation.

In fall, the new wing stood new and imposing on the east campus. Seniors and veteran faculty were as lost as the 9B's for a while. In October, the Brown and Gold was the first dance held in the cafeteria. The newly-finished gym floor, former site of many dances, balls and proms, was retired to strictly athletic events. Three times, however, sock-footed Howeites attended after-game dances there.

The PRV, a variety show which replaced the traditional revue, was postponed for a week in honor of the late President, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, who was shot in Dallas, Texas, the afternoon of the show. Principal Thomas Stirling announced to the school when the President expired, and school activities halted with the rest of the sorrowing nation.

Athletic awards assemblies were discontinued this year. Evening banquets took their place, so that parents could attend. Sports shined all over this year. The baseball team was Co-City Champions; the football team won over arch-rival Warren Central with the leadership of Howe rookie coach Mr. Lester Mathieson; the basketball team won the first Regional tournament in the school's history.

The Music Department presented the first dramatic production on the new stage, Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma!" The musical was the first of its kind to be presented at Howe since 1956.

Seniors enjoyed their parties in the cafeteria, and participated in the first Vespers in the auditorium. Their career in high school ended at the traditional June campus Commencement.

Students walk up and down these steps, those leading to the tower, every day. When people think of Howe, they remember the tower and the friends they made here.

"Family" of Howe joins to celebrate victories, mourn defeats

This year for the first time in 20 years, the sale of Regional basketball tickets was a major project. Seniors were especially happy, because this was "their" year. During senior homeroom, they take advantage of extra time to do home work, sometimes. At right, they take time out from activities to read the newly-distributed TOWER.

Howe rolls out welcome mat to mid-semester arrivals

Checking lists which record their daily programs are the new teachers who began their career with Howe at the change of the semester in January. They are Mrs. Glenn Pride, who teaches English; Mr. James Bradley, who teaches social studies; Miss Shirley Smith, who teaches English; Mr. Evan Malenkopf, who teaches social studies; Mr. Terrence Doran, who teaches English; Mr. D. O. Griffith, who teaches chemistry and Mr. Donald Evans, a member of the social studies department. Mrs. Schaub, a member of Howe's office staff is pictured assisting these teachers in sign-in routines.

Mrs. Glenn Pride who joined the Howe faculty in January opens her first English class of the new semester by taking roll of her new pupils. Mrs. Pride was one of the seven new teachers who came to Howe at semester change.

As each school year grows older, new faces appear which weren't present at the time of its birth. Fathers' job changes, mid-year graduations and promotions, all can take old friends away and put new ones in their places.

Howe welcomed student new-comers by having them fill out the 392,547,000 forms Mr. Thomas Stirling likes to tease about at semesters' beginnings. After that, they are given a copy of recent school publications and a handbook, and are assigned to classes and a home room. The Student Council hospitality committee helps the new Howeite by showing him to his rooms and getting him acquainted with his new classmates.

In January, when the spring term began, some teachers left Howe. Miss Nancy Adams went to the new Northwest High School to be Head of the Social Studies Department. Mr. Steven Wright went in to Eli Lilly's chemistry research and Mr. Ernest Minton joined the FBI. Replacing theirs were several new faces who joined the faculty and soon became a part of the Howe family. Mr. Donald Evans, once a member of the Columbus, Indiana, basketball team, helped the faculty basketball team in their farcical bout with the seniors. So did Mr. James M. Bradley, Mr. Durward G. Griffith and Mr. Evan Malenkopf. Mr. Terrence Doran, Miss Shirley Smith and Mrs. Glenn Pride, wife of a record-breaking Howe track team alumnus, were new instructors of English.

New teachers appearing at Howe in September and in January each added his own personality to Howe's face.

Sophomores chase bugs and gather leaves

Sophomores, always busy and on the go, began the year with frantic chasings around the Irvington neighborhoods after flying, creeping or crawling creatures for their Fall biology insect collections. Also, a part of that course is the dissection routine. Girls grimaced and giggled as their masculine lab partners cut and sawed on grasshoppers, worms, frogs, and pigs. In the spring, the tenth-graders put together a leaf collection for the required biology courses.

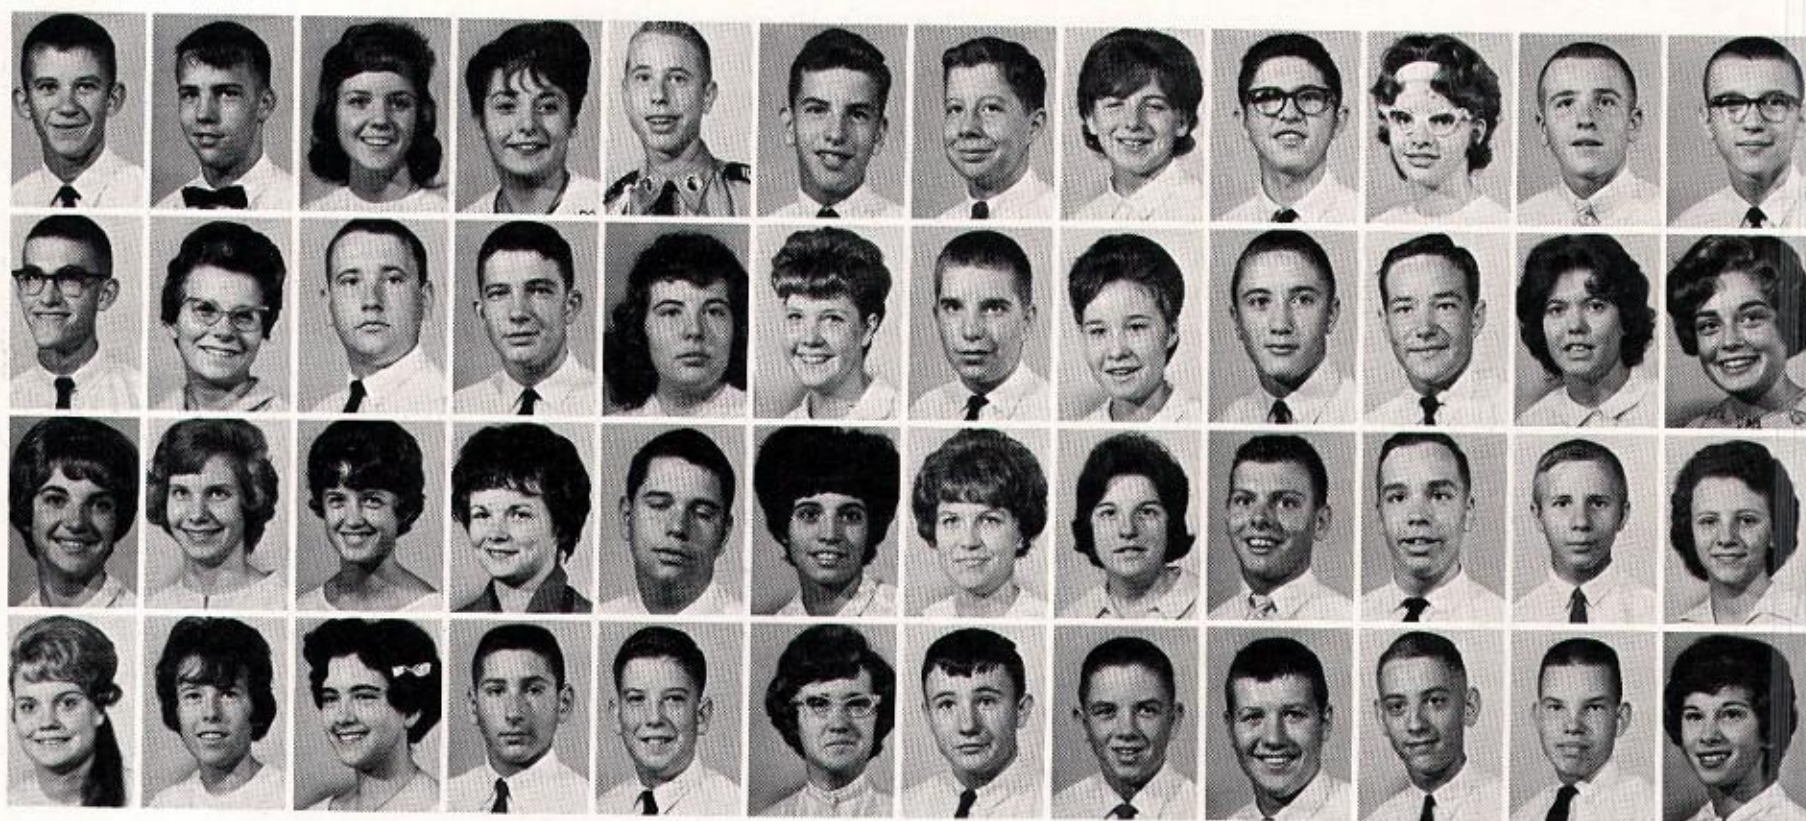

In March, those enrolled in English 4 or 5 took the Iowa Achievement Tests. They were excused from classes for the all-day testing program, which included questions on grammar, literature, math, sciences and social studies.

A big point of the sophomores' year, however, was the teasing they could give the "greenies," the freshmen.

Junior efforts result in memorable prom

The highlight of the social season for the juniors of '63 was the Junior Prom. The decorations represented an ocean liner that was called "the S. C. '64."

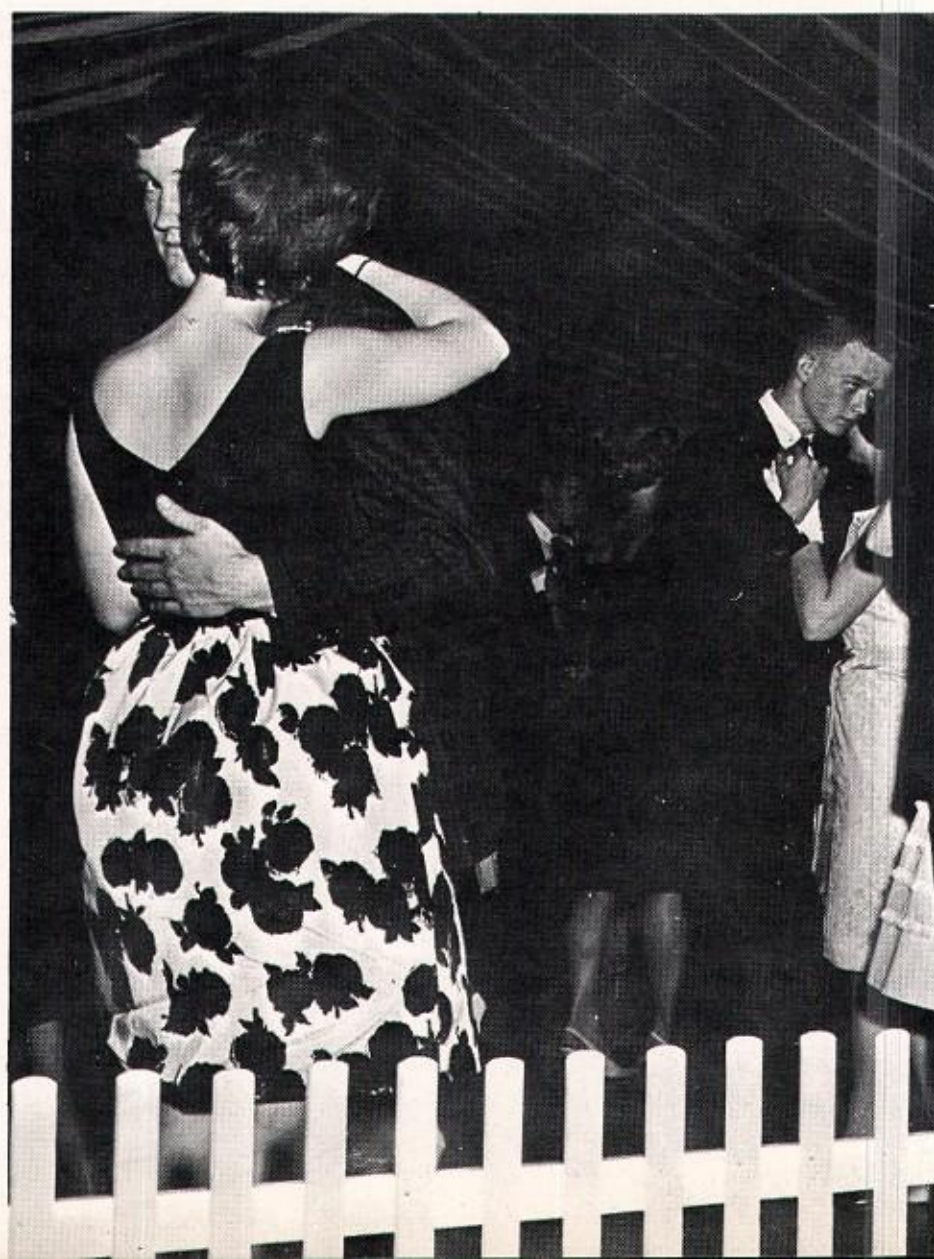

Orange parachutes were hung from the ceiling of the gymnasium. Colorful flying seagulls were suspended among the parachutes. Red, white, and blue crepe paper streamers adorned the doors and a ramp leading to the dance floor. Objects signifying ports of interest were displayed upon the tables. "Bon voyage" was spelled out in glittering blue lettering on the stage.

A trellis, that was also decorated with red, white, and blue crepe paper streamers was situated in the center of the dance floor. The music was provided by the Downbeats, a local group of high school boys.

Four boys and four girls were chosen as candidates for king and queen. They were nominated by their entire class several weeks before the prom during the daily homeroom period. Next, a final vote was taken. The final result became known on the night of May 4, 1963. Mr. Thomas Stirling, Howe's principal, crowned Donna Prell queen and Jim Pettee king of the 1963 prom. The members of the court were Frances Short, Marcia Earley, Arlene Page, Lewis McQueen, Mike Dye, and Ric Burrell.

The committees for refreshments, decorations, and the king and queen devoted their time and energy to the planning and carrying out the semi-formal prom. The prom was the end product of the whole class's effort to sponsor a spectacular dance that would make their junior year a pleasant and lasting memory for many years to come.

A gym gaily decorated with red, white, and blue crepe paper, soft music provided by the Downbeats, boys wearing neatly pressed suits and ties, and girls wearing brand new dresses and high-heeled shoes—these were the ingredients of a memorable Junior Prom for the class of 1964.

Members of the Senior Class Constitution Committee met during homeroom periods and after school to draft the constitution for the Class of 1964. Each member was selected by his respective homeroom to serve on the committee. After completion of the final draft, copies were presented during Senior Homeroom.

The Colors Committee also met to select the class colors of brown, beige, and white, with brown symbolizing honor and goodness. Beige symbolizes the high ideals of God, and white symbolizes purity—purity of mind and heart. Ribbons, made up of the three colors, were presented by the Colors Committee.

This year for the first time the Senior Parties were held in the cafeteria. "Dressing up" has long been a tradition of Howe Seniors for these parties held in the spring and winter.

As representatives of their senior homerooms, Jim Stewart, Tom Clapp, Jim P - tee, Bill Harvey, Ken Wolff, Fred Faude, Jennine Mucha, Susie Bruney, Sue Scott, and Dana Kovac comprised the Senior Class Constitution committee of 1964.

The senior year provides many activities

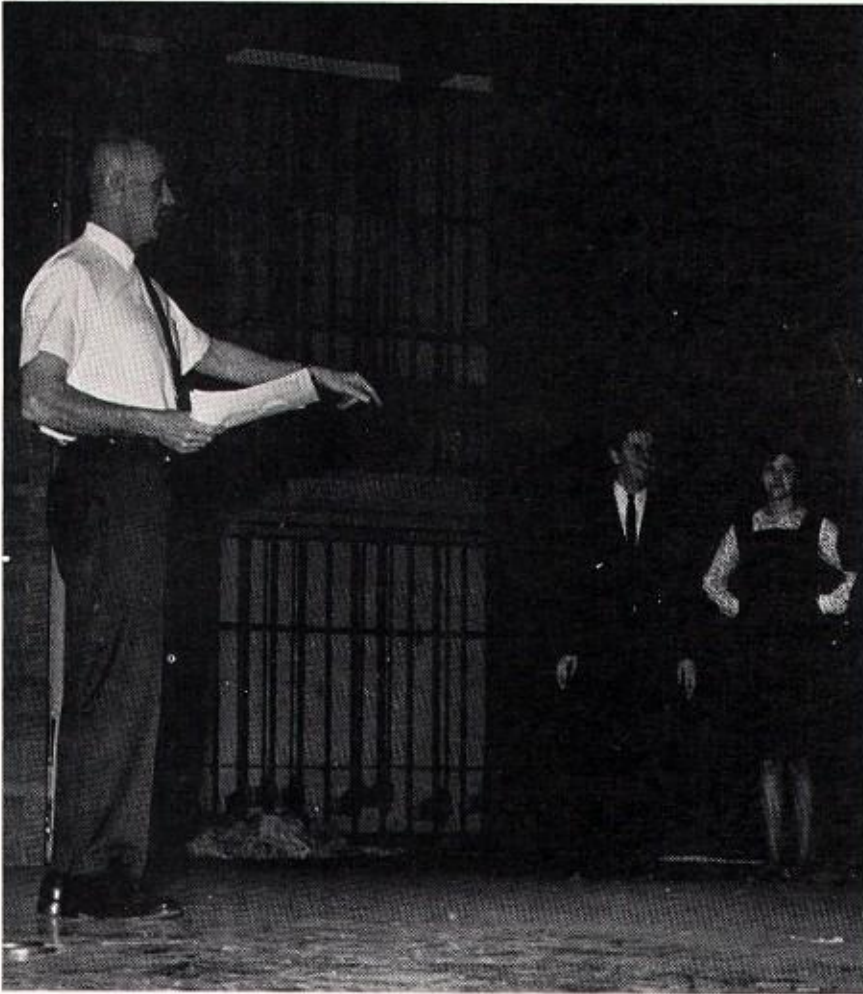

Seniors Chuck Guhl and Barbara Bogaert converse during the Senior Winter Party. The party, with a theme of "Cascades of White," was held in the new cafeteria on December 20, 1963. The Howe Dance Band provided the music.

Making up the Senior Colors committee are Cheri Sams, Frances Short, Betty Leach, Donna Prell, Janet Wagaman, Linda Elder, and Susie Campbell. Members not pictured include Bridget Gwin and Jim Myers.

A lot of hard work and practice was put

Mr. Hal Tobin directs the members of the Senior Play during one of the many after school practices. Many hours were put into practice and production of the play.

A situation comedy, "If A Man Answers," was presented on May 15 as the Senior Play of 1964. The play was directed by Mr. Hal Tobin.

The story revolves around the plotting of Chantal Stacey and her French mother, Germaine, to trap and keep a husband. When ordered by her father, John Stacey, to get married and give him peace, Chantal becomes engaged to three boys at once. In an effort to save face, the Staceys move from their Boston home to New York.

Chantal soon meets an attractive bachelor photographer, Eugene Wright, and is offered a job as a model. Although she is willing, her Bostonian father disapproves and drags her home. With Germaine's help, however, Chantal manages to trap Gene into marriage.

After the honeymoon glow is over, Gene is found to be far from a perfect husband. The answer to the problem, says Germaine, is to treat Gene like a dog. There must be a reason, she thinks, that many women's husbands leave them, while very few of their dogs run away. Chantal is delighted when Germaine's method of husband-training is successful. All goes well until Tina Brooks, a friend of Chantal's from Boston, informs Gene of Chantal's methods for happy marriage. Insulted by being treated like a dog, Gene is understandably angry with Chantal.

To regain Gene's love, Chantal creates "another man," sends herself roses, and has Germaine call and hang up if Gene answers. Her plot backfires when her "secret lover," Mr. Robert Swan, actually appears. All ends happily, however, when Chantal learns that the appearance of Mr. Swan was Gene's way of teaching her a lesson.

Terry Shannon, Lois Lynch, Tom Clapp, Joann Graves, Betty Leach, Sheila McBurnie, Ken Wolff, Jennie Bradley, Bob Bruner, Donna Prell, Judy Mishler, Jack Hargate, Dona Kovac, Susie Hession, Jim Sharp, Chris Whitmore, and Lonnie Mikolon pose during practice for the Senior Play. Peggy Jones is not pictured. The play, "If A Man Answers," was the first of the class plays to be held in the new auditorium. The play, given on May 15, gave members a chance to show their acting ability.

Delivery Boy	Brian Craig
Robert Swan	Jim Sharp

Gene forcefully tells Mr. Robert Swan, Chantal's "secret lover," that he could never give up Chantal. Robert was originally a character created by Chantal to make Gene jealous.

Gene finds it hard to keep his mind on his work when photographing such beautiful models as Conchita. This picture will be for the Cleveland Symphony's album cover.

The Wrights' party guests live it up while waiting for dinner. Soon afterwards, Tina exposes Chantal's method of husband training to Gene and upsets the happy marriage.

The Senior Constitution Committee met each morning at 7:45 working to adopt the document, and the Colors Committee chose brown, beige and white.

Many events happened during the school year which makes it a special one for seniors: the football team broke a three-year losing streak on the same day that seniors received their colors. The basketball team surprised us by upsetting state-ranked teams to capture tourney titles. Hootenannies and folk-singing reached a popularity peak. Seniors danced at their parties and showed enthusiasm never before displayed at those functions.

The Senior Class of 1964 will be remembered as the class that broke traditions and started new ones.

On the first day of the fall semester in September, nearly four hundred twelfth-graders took new seats in the brand new school cafeteria. All were located, for the first time in Home Room 8.

Early in the fall, class officers were elected. Jim Pettee, president; Sue Scott, vice-president; Jennie Bradley, secretary; Jim Myers, treasurer and alumni secretary Connie McAnally assumed duties in ceremonies conducted on October 23. All the officers agreed that the work of Mr. Harold Crawford, senior counselor, and Mrs. Leora Campbell, his secretary, were in a great way responsible for the smooth-running order of the class.

As a Senior Class officer, Connie McAnally, Jim Myers, Sue Scott, Jennie Bradley, and Jim Pettee performed various duties for the class of 1964. Connie prepared the alumni membership cards, Jim collected dues, Sue had charge of the commencement committee, and Jennie kept minutes of meetings presided by Jim.

June brings graduation

Graduation is a two-way door for all high school seniors. It is an exit from a long and exciting high school career and an entrance to the future. The key to this door is earned by four years of hard work. Graduates may then begin a career; others will join the service to keep our country free. Some will set up housekeeping, while still others will knock on the door to higher education. No matter which door these graduates knock on—it will be a door to opportunity and hard-earned success.

And thus with a sigh of relief the 1964 HILLTOPPER staff closes another year of meeting deadlines. The layouts are drawn, the pictures are taken, and the names and events for the year are recorded. The yearbook is complete, but not without a great deal of assistance.

We of the staff wish to express our appreciation to Mr. Jack Bundy of S. K. Smith Cover Company and to Mr. Robert Cavanagh of the American Yearbook Company. Thanks are extended to Earl and Mike Loudermilk of Loudermilk's Studio for photography, and to our own student photographers.

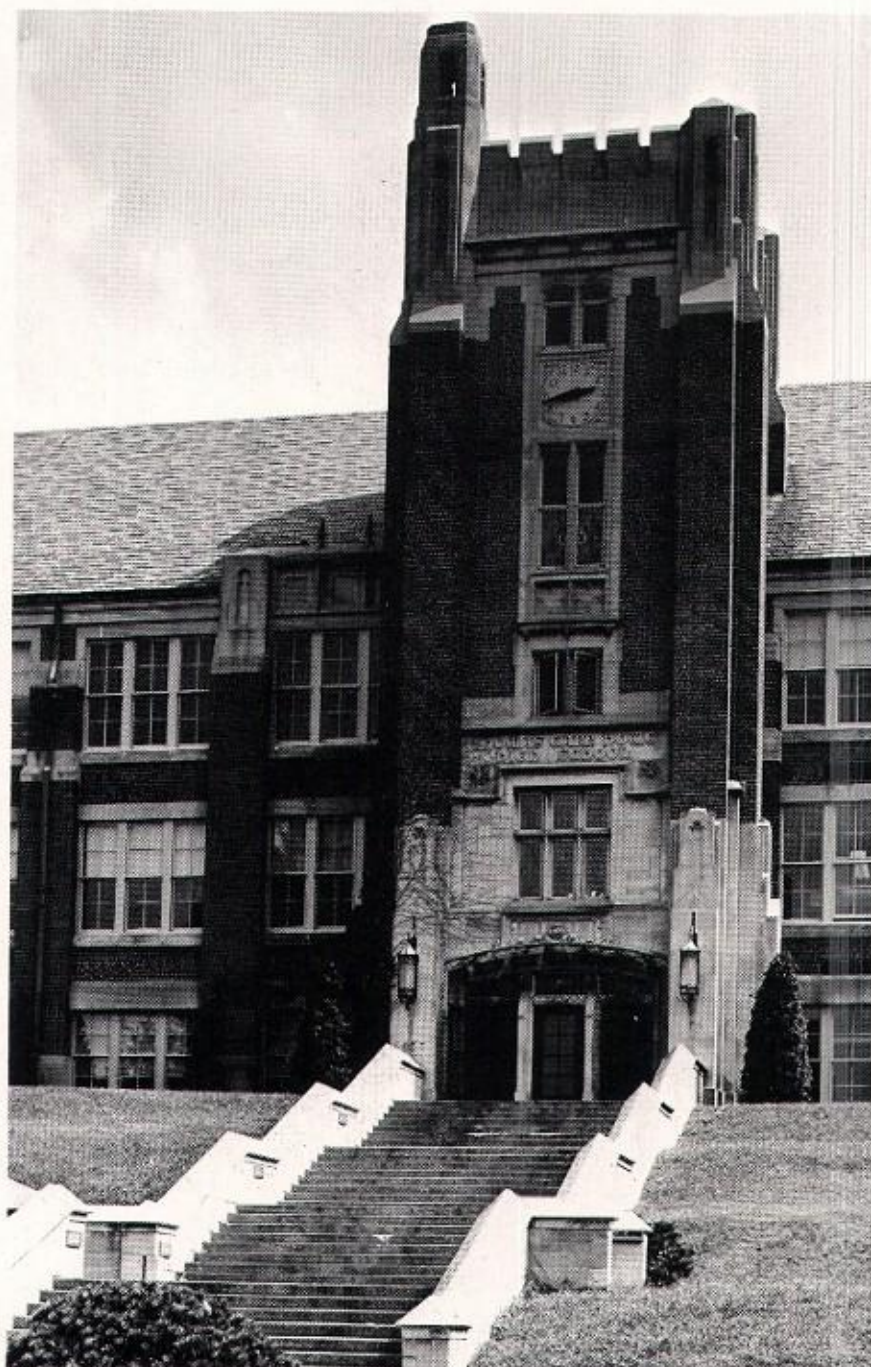

Mr. Frank Tout, Vice-Principal, was always ready with advice whenever a question arose for our new advisor, Mr. Fred Leucht. The 1964 HILLTOPPER staff is indebted to our principal Mr. Thomas Stirling for his willing cooperation and understanding, and to all the students who contributed to the busy, interesting school environment.

Dear Patty,

after four years hard(?) work you're graduating. I'll miss you in the office next year. What is the music department going to do without you? Don't forget all of us who are still enslaved here at good ole TCHHS (please). We still enjoy football and basketball games, ROTC pd. inspection, parades, and all those other enjoyable(?) little events. I hope Mr. McEnderfer enjoys his birthday cake. We'll try to carry on that tradition next year. Have fun at Butler, but be good. Come back and visit us often! Keep smiling!

To the most highly incubated work
HORSE in the music department.
We of the sovereign states of first chair
Trombone players vote you "Miss Lognacions of 1964." To follow the highly exalted of "Miss Lognacions of 1964"
we would like to give you an epigones dress to go with your high position of the expert Hoe player in the city of Indianapolis. Lots of luck, you need it.

P. S.
In all seriousness you have been a wonderful person to know. Don't ever lose your sense of humor.

Pat

Philvie should retract his statements, even though they may be true.

Seriously, you're the nicest upperclassman I've met since coming to Howe. You're a good friend and a great help in dealing with Louis P.

Best of luck in all you do.

Your friend and mine,

Ed
Cord.
